Patty Hearst Again Escapes FBI Dragnet!

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — An armed raiding party arrested four persons and seized bomb materials in an apartment where fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was believed to be hiding, authorities reported today.

Miss Hearst was not in the apartment, the authorities said.

A source close to the investigation said officers found literature from a terrorist group calling itself the Red Guerrilla Family. The group claimed responsibility for the bombing of a Standard Oil Co. building in San Francisco on Friday night while President Ford spoke at a hotel five blocks away. There were no reports of injuries.

The Friday evening raid also netted the makings of bombs, gas masks and night scope cameras in the apartment guarded by two Doberman Pinscher dogs, the source said.

After being tipped that Miss Hearst was there, the FBI, agents from the California Department of Corrections, Menlo Park Police and the Organized Crime Unit of the San Mateo County Sheriff's office descended on the apartment at 5:45 p.m. The raid was led by Charles Bates, the FBI agent in charge of the search for Miss Hearst.

The 21-year-old daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, was kidnaped by the Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4, 1974. She later said in taped messages that she had joined her abductors. She is being sought on bank robbery and other criminal charges.

Miss Hearst is believed traveling with SLA fugitives Emily and William Harris and Wendy Yoshimura, who is sought on 1972 bomb charges. They were reported in hiding at a Pennsylvania farmhouse last summer. Recent news reports have placed them in the San Francisco Bay area.

Officials said the raid at 1100 Sevier Ave. came after "the FBI developed information that an escaped prisoner wanted for murder in Southern California was to be at the residence along with wanted person Patty Hearst."

"The California Department of Corrections was notified by the FBI and they decided, based upon events substantiated by the investigation that the information probably was valid," the FBI said in a statement issued in San Francisco.

After the raid, the FBI said, "There was no indication that Patty Hearst was in the apartment."

Agents said they arrested an armed man they believe to be William McReynolds, 31, wanted for escape from the California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo Nov. 28, 1974, and for investigation of murder in Southern California. He was

Bangor Landmark Burns

By TOM RENNER

BANGOR — A part of old America disappeared in flames yesterday as fire destroyed a former one-room schoolhouse that had been converted into a home.

Bangor and South Haven firemen were unsuccessful in confining flames that destroyed the former Johnstown school on M-43 and CR-687, Bangor township. Hundreds of area residents attended the school from its founding in 1887, until four years ago when the district was consolidated into the Bangor school system. Everett Murphy purchased the building about two years ago and converted it into a tri-level home. Fire started in attic at approximately 4:20 p.m. A Bangor fireman, Harold Johnson, suffered burns on the chest and back. He was treated at the scene. "I was really proud to live in that historic building," Murphy said, "Not only have I lost my home but this area has lost part of its history."

Cause and estimate of damage has not been determined.

Another Jackson Prisoner Missing

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Officials of Southern Michigan Prison had another missing prisoner report on their hands today as they tried to determine if he had escaped or was still inside the walls.

Missing was James Edwin McCreery, 35, of Bellevue, who was sentenced from Midland County in June, 1972, to serve life on an armed robbery charge. The sentence was amended to 10 to 18 years.

Deputy Warden Dale Foltz said McCreery was last seen at 8:50 p.m. Friday when he performed his usual duty of taking the film cans to the main gate when the show was over.

Foltz said a guard reported McCreery headed back into the prison after delivering the package. "I am looking inside the institution for I am not certain he got out," said Foltz. He said an inspection of all the buildings in the 58-acre prison complex should be completed in three or four hours.

Foltz added, "There also is a strong possibility he went through the front gate."

Escapes from the huge prison, which has 4,569 inmates, have been rare.

The last one occurred March 21 when Kenneth Oliver, 28, who was serving a life term for the slaying of a Michigan State Police officer, fled from the prison. Three persons have been arrested on various charges in connection with aiding and abetting that escape, the first since 1967 at the big prison.

Oliver is still at large.

Troopers Value Suspected 'Pot' At $200,000

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Over 700 pounds of suspected marijuana with a street value estimated at over $220,000 was seized from the trunk of a car stopped on I-94 early this morning, according to state police at the Paw Paw post.

Troopers John Kenny and Roger Gentry said they took 284 packages with a total weight of 710 pounds from the trunk of the vehicle after stopping it in Lawrence township.

Arrested on charges of violation of the controlled substance act were Richard Castillo, 28, and his wife, Lucy, 26, both of Ennis, Texas. Troopers said the couples three children were also in the car when it was stopped at 1:16 a.m.

Police said the arrest came after receiving information from the state police intelligence unit giving a description of a vehicle believed headed for Michigan from Texas.

The exact destination of the car was not immediately known, police said.

State's Townships Meeting

If you're looking for your local township supervisor today, chances are you'll find him in a meeting.

Today's the day for the required annual meetings of nearly all of Michigan's 1,245 townships.

Striking Teachers Can Be Fired, Court Rules

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Teachers who strike illegally can be fired and courts do not have the power to order compulsory arbitration for public employes, the Michigan Supreme Court ruled Friday.

In a 4-3 decision written by Justice Charles Levin, the high court said the Crestwood Board of Eduction acted legally in firing teachers who went on strike.

But the Supreme Court also said the teachers could be reinstated if the Michigan Employment Relations Commission determines the school board engaged in unfair labor practice.

Michigan law says public employes cannot strike, so striking teachers face possible firing by their employers without a hearing, the high court said in reversing rulings of Wayne County Circuit Court and the state Court of Appeals. In such cases, the Public Employes Relations Act supercedes the Teacher Tenure Act which requires a prior hearing, the Supreme Court said.

"We conclude that a teacher, including a teacher on continuing tenure, who strikes in violation of the Public Employes Relations Act may be disciplined without a prior hearing," the Supreme Court said.

Wayne County Circuit Court had found that the failure of the Crestwood school board to proceed in accordance with the Teacher Tenure Act required reinstatement of nearly 200 teachers who were fired for striking. The appeals court upheld that ruling.

The Supreme Court said the Michigan Employment Relations Commission may, despite the illegality of the teacher strike, order the teachers reinstated.

Teachers in the 4,800-student Crestwood district struck last Sept. 3. The school board fired 184 of them and opened school Jan. 5 with about 100 substitutes.

The appeals court ordered the teachers reinstated Jan. 17, and the board appealed that ruling to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court almost suggested that the board rehire the teachers to restore academic and administrative harmony in the Dearborn Heights district.

"If MERC finds that an unfair labor practice or other misconduct was committed by both sides, it should balance the competing equities to reach a result best effectuating goals of the act," the high court said. The teachers must be reinstated if MERC finds that such action will best "effectuate the policies of the act," the

U.S. Paying Penalty For Pursuing Ill-Defined Goal

Unless President Ford chooses to breach the conventional policy rule against disclosing diplomatic-military gambiting in progress, it will be years before the historians can reveal how this country dug itself into its most disastrous venture in foreign affairs since the Republic's founding.

In the meanwhile the risk of name calling and blame throwing in the Washington arena persists as another divisive potential.

The U.S. has undertaken a surprisingly long list of military exercises from pre-Revolutionary days up to the present.

Viet Nam is the first wherein the average American lacked a clear idea of why he was in the fray and the official response seems to be so at odds with apparent fact situations.

Better than a century ago the French staked out what then the geographers called Indo-China.

Militarily and economically their hold was a fragile control of the larger cities and adjoining plantations, plus the major waterways. The absence of a controlling influence of the hinterland was not critical because the native population lacked the civic sense which is essential to popular self-determination.

Whether by connivance with the invader or because he displayed no interest in penetrating where the only French presence was a signpost on a jungle trail is not clear, but by the end of World War II and the re-introduction of French garrisons, a home-grown Communist movement effectively ruled the hinterland.

Claiming the Paris Conference doulecrossed what a winning and a losing army had agreed upon at the battlefield, Minh launched his campaign to redeem the entire territory.

It began in the form of recruiting and supporting local dissidents in the neighboring countries, followed by open infiltration of his own soldiery.

The few Americans outside our State Department having some knowledge about the countryside and its people said that Minh was less interested in politics than he was in his neighbor's agricultural fertility; that he coveted South Viet Nam's immense rice production.

John Foster Dulles, our Secretary of State, read the interference as ideological in nature, and he persuaded a cautious Eisenhower to export several thousand American military and civilian personnel as "advisors" to the Saigon government. Ike took the hesitant step as a compromise between his positively-minded State Secretary and his military cronies from World War II who counseled that American forces would be swallowed by the Asiatic mainland as were Napoleon's legions in European Russia.

Kennedy stepped up the assistance program. Dean Rusk, his State Secretary, differed from Dulles only in manner of speech. Kennedy also engineered the displacement of the existing Saigon regime for one which had no stronger popular base than its predecessor.

Until the files are opened or somebody once in high places chooses to talk, it appears as if Johnson decided upon his direct command of the war.

Although the Vietnamese terrain best lends itself, short of outright nuclear attack, to irregular skirmishing, LBJ ordered the massive, punishing onslaughts characteristic of a European battleground.

Johnson was anxious to achieve the decisive result and quickly.

The tactic worked to the extent of winding the enemy sufficiently so that Nixon could withdraw the American military.

As the past two weeks have shown, Johnson's shotgun blast proved less than mortal and Nixon's seeming assumption about the inner strength of the Saigon leadership may have been a convenience of the hour.

Nothing is to be gained by attempting to personalize on who made the bad guesses.

The only salvage to be retrieved by the U.S. is a lesson for the future because inevitably our country will be drawn toward situations not of its making.

This is better understanding of where we may be entering and why we are taking the step.

Mechanization Helps Cut Medical Care Costs

Americans may complain about the assemblyline aspects of modern medicine, as well as its cost, but it is precisely the trend toward "medical mechanization" that offers one of the best hopes for keeping costs down without reducing the quality of care.

The operating room, one of the hardest pressed areas of the hospital, has been successfully turning to automatic devices and disposable supplies.

For example, throwaway needles and syringes are replacing reusables that require expensive labor to clean and re-sterilize. Many hospitals are also switching to disposable scrub suits and surgical drapery, which substantially reduces laundring expenses.

The electric cautery, now widely accepted, cuts operating time and eliminates the use of dozens of expensive sutures. And where suturing is necessary, the surgical stapler has emerged as probably the most significant time and cost saver.

Surgical stapling instruments stitch automatically using tiny stainless steel staples. A surgeon can simultaneously place the equivalent of 66 silk sutures with one application, reducing operating time by as much as 50 per cent.

The use of surgical staplers is increasing rapidly. One maker, United States Surgical Corp., estimates that close to 100 million patients have been "stapled" since it introduced its Auto Suture surgical stapling line in 1967.

With costs anywhere from $80 to $190 an hour to run an operating room today, any device that saves $40 or $50 an hour is good news. In addition, "stapled" patients are said to heal faster, have fewer post-operative complications and go home sooner.

COLOMAN APPALLED BY BOARD DECISION

Editor,

I was appalled to learn that by a unanimous vote, the Coloma School board gave permission to the Athletic Booster organization to hold bingo games in the school buildings to raise money for athletic equipment. The reason given was that the cost of sporting equipment has gone up and this method would earn money for the sports program.

My feeling is that if the taxes we pay do not allow for ample sports programs then some of this activity should be eliminated. After all, taxes for education should be spent in reading, writing and arithmetic. Anything else, although it is nice to have, is a luxury and could be curtailed if funds are not available.

I am not saying that physical education should be done away with. I am all for physical education programs in all grades, for all children. But taking over $700 out of the athletic funds to dress up a dozen or so girls in short skirts so they can wave pom-poms is not necessary, nor does it provide equal physical education to all youngsters. This one expenditure alone would have bought many helmets for the football team. A lot of money has been wasted in the name of physical ed.

Allowing our school facilities to be used for a form of legalized gambling, and this is what bingo amounts to, is a deplorable means of raising money. What has happened to bake sales, car washes, slave days and carnivals? Let's teach our children how to work for a living and what they need, and not let them grow up thinking that buying chances will bring them a fortune. We have enough people in our society who have their hand out for their livelihood and expect others to support them. Playing bingo for money is taking a chance. Some people win, but most people lose, and the organizer gets the profit. In this instance it would be the Booster Club. But is the chance to influence a young person's personal character worth it? Do we want our children to see us financing their education with this method?

Yes, bingo provides entertainment for some. But who determines whether a person is financially able to lose money in this way? The affluent, better educated people recognize the odds and are less susceptible to the glamour of a possible windfall. It is the poor who tend to be the least able to resist. Just because bingo has been "legalized" does not make it morally right. Prostitution is legal in Nevada.

As a Christian, I cannot give assent when other persons are used in this way. If I cannot receive equal value for my money, then I am just throwing it away. And if bingo is allowed in our schools, what next?

WASHINGTON — A few months back a friend asked me to vote against a school bond issue. You know, he said, a fourth of the money will be frittered in waste.

My friend could have made his charge against almost any federal, state and local program.

We vote for the school bonds and to continue these other programs with the hopeless feeling we have no alternative. We can't ignore children, our needy, pollution, crime in the streets or accidents in industry.

But what bothers me far more than waste is our backwardness in these government-run operations which so closely affect our lives. I have watched my seven children in their progress through a variety of teachers, talked to hundreds more students and visited dozens of schools. The improvement in textbooks, teaching methods and subject matter over 1930 is minimal. The straight-A students I know are bored. A 17-year-old, a high school senior among the top five of her class, hates school. So do her equally bright friends.

There is no challenge to discover truth. Except for a small percentage of inspired teachers, science is a drag. I am left cold by the lack of imagination in the homework assigned.

A few years back, in special summer schools, administrators tried out an experimental approach to science which had youngsters up early in the mornings, eager to go to school. It was successful — and soon buried.

When schools do attempt to create interest, they frequently slip into childish play. I have sat through dozens of experimental mathematics movies. They were bright with dancing sticks, figures, numbers. The colors were beautiful, the imagery delightful. But they taught little.

In welfare, we have advanced but marginally in our approach since the 1920s. There are some who believe we do worse. We spend more money. And give it to more people. The evidence, however, seems to indicate we don't know how to handle our giving so that it does more than a patch job.

The courts are a problem. Having served on a number of juries, I find trials like so many games of skill between opposing attorneys, justice seems bent to the side which has lawyers best able to play chess, with courtroom rules. The highly technical rules of procedure and evidence serve to keep from juries facts essential to fair judgment.

Despite computers, communications systems and laboratories complete with the latest analytical equipment, we probably catch and send to prison a smaller percentage of our serious lawbreakers than was the case three decades ago.

I attended conferences some time back which attempted to analyze why these things are so.

What was it, these men and women asked, that caused the uneven but cumulatively high rate of innovation in agriculture and industry these past several decades?

They weren't looking only at machinery. They compared labor-management relations, working conditions, purchasing, the handling of inventories, the highly refined production schedules of today with these systems 30 to 50 years ago.

The scholars, scientists, teachers and bureaucrats could not find the same advances in the nation's education, welfare, police and court systems.

Red Tactics For Advancing Power

At the present moment we have before us the instructive spectacle of three contrasting methods of advancing Soviet and/or Communist power in the international arena. Each tactic has enough precedent behind it to be considered classic. Each, moreover, is Soviet rather than Maoist in character.

In South Vietnam, Communism is being imposed by outright military invasion. The Maoist theories of revolutionary guerrilla warfare have been thrown into the wastebasket. The revolution on the Mekong will go forward with massed tanks, artillery, rockets, and regular soldiers. As in East Europe at the end of World War II, the commissars will ride in on the tanks and impose themselves on a cowed population.

Stylistically considered, this is in the straightforward, brutal style of Stalin. It stands in marked contrast to the romantic style of Mao, which envisioned guerrilla Communists swimming among the peasants like "fish in the sea."

Maoist theory lost the argument in South Vietnam with the failure of the Tet offensive of 1968. The guerrillas came out of the sea and died on the beach. The Maoist approach also failed with the Che Guevara in the jungles of Bolivia.

On the other side of the world, in the very bosom of NATO, Soviet-backed Communists are employing another traditional approach, though quite a different one from Vietnam. This one was perfected in Prague in 1948 and came to be known as the "salami" tactic. Interestingly enough, Alvaro Cunhal, the Portuguese Communist leader, spent most of 20 years in Prague. While there, aided by Communist strategists and by the KGB, he ran the Portuguese Communist apparatus and waited for the opportune moment to come in Lisbon.

The "salami" tactic represents a revision of the older Marxist belief that the revolution can only be accomplished through violence and outright class warfare. The salami tactic, as in Prague and now in Lisbon, seeks to obscure that climactic revolutionary transformation. One after another lever of power is seized or neutralized. Care is taken to secure control of the police forces and the military. Rival political groupings are isolated, terrorized, or eliminated.

The psychological beauty of the salami tactic consists of the fact that at no one point do things seems irreversible — until it is too late. Non-Communists may feel that things are going from bad to worse, but they also feel that something will turn up, and they seem to concert forces and resort to violence. Then one fine morning everyone wakes up to find out that it is all over, and that it has been all over for a long time.

As in the case of Czechslovakia in 1948, opinion abroad remains bemused. This was necessary in 1948, because of the relative weakness of the Soviet Union vis-a-vis the U.S. Intervention against the coup was militarily feasible. It is necessary in the case of Portugal, because Portugal is geographically isolated from the now militarily potent Soviet bloc.

On yet another front in the world struggle, the Soviets are employing a third traditional Communist tactic. The strategy of "detente" is actually the old post-1938 "popular front" tactic projected onto the international plane. In the popular front tactic, Communists joined forces with non-Communists for a practical goal: resistance to fascism. In actual practice, however, they used the tactic to bemuse their opponents and undermine their organizations. In the "detente" variation of this, the practical goals avowed are trade, cultural exchange, use of the hot line, and so on. Few concrete concessions are made by the Communists. The real goals actively pursued are the distraction of opinion and the aggrandizement of the revolution and of Soviet power in Asia, on the Iberian Peninsula, and in the Middle East.

Unless President Ford chooses to breach the conventional policy rule against disclosing diplomatic-military gambiting in progress, it will be years before the historians can reveal how this country dug itself into its most disastrous venture in foreign affairs since the Republic's founding.

In the meanwhile the risk of name calling and blame throwing in the Washington arena persists as another divisive potential.

The U.S. has undertaken a surprisingly long list of military exercises from pre-Revolutionary days up to the present.

Viet Nam is the first wherein the average American lacked a clear idea of why he was in the fray and the official response seems to be so at odds with apparent fact situations.

Better than a century ago the French staked out what then the geographers called Indo-China.

Militarily and economically their hold was a fragile control of the larger cities and adjoining plantations, plus the major waterways. The absence of a controlling influence of the hinterland was not critical because the native population lacked the civic sense which is essential to popular self-determination.

Whether by connivance with the invader or because he displayed no interest in penetrating where the only French presence was a signpost on a jungle trail is not clear, but by the end of World War II and the re-introduction of French garrisons, a home-grown Communist movement effectively ruled the hinterland.

Claiming the Paris Conference doulecrossed what a winning and a losing army had agreed upon at the battlefield, Minh launched his campaign to redeem the entire territory.

It began in the form of recruiting and supporting local dissidents in the neighboring countries, followed by open infiltration of his own soldiery.

The few Americans outside our State Department having some knowledge about the countryside and its people said that Minh was less interested in politics than he was in his neighbor's agricultural fertility; that he coveted South Viet Nam's immense rice production.

John Foster Dulles, our Secretary of State, read the interference as ideological in nature, and he persuaded a cautious Eisenhower to export several thousand American military and civilian personnel as "advisors" to the Saigon government. Ike took the hesitant step as a compromise between his positively-minded State Secretary and his military cronies from World War II who counseled that American forces would be swallowed by the Asiatic mainland as were Napoleon's legions in European Russia.

Kennedy stepped up the assistance program. Dean Rusk, his State Secretary, differed from Dulles only in manner of speech. Kennedy also engineered the displacement of the existing Saigon regime for one which had no stronger popular base than its predecessor.

Until the files are opened or somebody once in high places chooses to talk, it appears as if Johnson decided upon his direct command of the war.

Although the Vietnamese terrain best lends itself, short of outright nuclear attack, to irregular skirmishing, LBJ ordered the massive, punishing onslaughts characteristic of a European battleground.

Johnson was anxious to achieve the decisive result and quickly.

The tactic worked to the extent of winding the enemy sufficiently so that Nixon could withdraw the American military.

As the past two weeks have shown, Johnson's shotgun blast proved less than mortal and Nixon's seeming assumption about the inner strength of the Saigon leadership may have been a convenience of the hour.

Nothing is to be gained by attempting to personalize on who made the bad guesses.

The only salvage to be retrieved by the U.S. is a lesson for the future because inevitably our country will be drawn toward situations not of its making.

This is better understanding of where we may be entering and why we are taking the step.

Mechanization Helps Cut Medical Care Costs

Americans may complain about the assemblyline aspects of modern medicine, as well as its cost, but it is precisely the trend toward "medical mechanization" that offers one of the best hopes for keeping costs down without reducing the quality of care.

The operating room, one of the hardest pressed areas of the hospital, has been successfully turning to automatic devices and disposable supplies.

For example, throwaway needles and syringes are replacing reusables that require expensive labor to clean and re-sterilize. Many hospitals are also switching to disposable scrub suits and surgical drapery, which substantially reduces laundring expenses.

The electric cautery, now widely accepted, cuts operating time and eliminates the use of dozens of expensive sutures. And where suturing is necessary, the surgical stapler has emerged as probably the most significant time and cost saver.

Surgical stapling instruments stitch automatically using tiny stainless steel staples. A surgeon can simultaneously place the equivalent of 66 silk sutures with one application, reducing operating time by as much as 50 per cent.

The use of surgical staplers is increasing rapidly. One maker, United States Surgical Corp., estimates that close to 100 million patients have been "stapled" since it introduced its Auto Suture surgical stapling line in 1967.

With costs anywhere from $80 to $100 an hour to run an operating room today, any device that saves $40 or $50 an hour is good news. In addition, "stapled" patients are said to heal faster, have fewer post-operative complications and go home sooner.

COLOMAN APPALLED BY BOARD DECISION

Editor,

I was appalled to learn that by a unanimous vote, the Coloma School board gave permission to the Athletic Booster organization to hold bingo games in the school buildings to raise money for athletic equipment. The reason given was that the cost of sporting equipment has gone up and this method would earn money for the sports program.

My feeling is that if the taxes we pay do not allow for ample sports programs then some of this activity should be eliminated. After all, taxes for education should be spent in reading, writing and arithmetic. Anything else, although it is nice to have, is a luxury and could be curtailed if funds are not available.

I am not saying that physical education should be done away with. I am all for physical education programs in all grades, for all children. But taking over $700 out of the athletic funds to dress up a dozen or so girls in short skirts so they can wave pom-poms is not necessary, nor does it provide equal physical education to all youngsters. This one expenditure alone would have bought many helmets for the football team. A lot of money has been wasted in the name of physical ed.

Allowing our school facilities to be used for a form of legalized gambling, and this is what bingo amounts to, is a deplorable means of raising money. What has happened to bake sales, car washes, slave days and carnivals? Let's teach our children how to work for a living and what they need, and not let them grow up thinking that buying chances will bring them a fortune. We have enough people in our society who have their hand out for their livelihood and expect others to support them. Playing bingo for money is taking a chance. Some people win, but most people lose, and the organizer gets the profit. In this instance it would be the Booster Club. But is the chance to influence a young person's personal character worth it? Do we want our children to see us financing their education with this method?

Yes, bingo provides entertainment for some. But who determines whether a person is financially able to lose money in this way? The affluent, better educated people recognize the odds and are less susceptible to the glamour of a possible windfall. It is the poor who tend to be the least able to resist. Just because bingo has been "legalized" does not make it morally right. Prostitution is legal in Nevada.

As a Christian, I cannot give assent when other persons are used in this way. If I cannot receive equal value for my money, then I am just throwing it away. And if bingo is allowed in our schools, what next?

We Should Be Doing Better

WASHINGTON — A few months back a friend asked me to vote against a school bond issue. You know, he said, a fourth of the money will be frittered in waste.

My friend could have made his charge against almost any federal, state and local program.

We vote for the school bonds and to continue these other programs with the hopeless feeling we have no alternative. We can't ignore children, our needy, pollution, crime in the streets or accidents in industry.

But what bothers me far more than waste is our backwardness in these government-run operations which so closely affect our lives. I have watched my seven children in their progress through a variety of teachers, talked to hundreds more students and visited dozens of schools. The improvement in textbooks, teaching methods and subject matter over 1930 is minimal. The straight-A students I know are bored. A 17-year-old, a high school senior among the top five of her class, hates school. So do her equally bright friends.

There is no challenge to discover truth. Except for a small percentage of inspired teachers, science is a drag. I am left cold by the lack of imagination in the homework assigned.

A few years back, in special summer schools, administrators tried out an experimental approach to science which had youngsters up early in the mornings, eager to go to school. It was successful — and soon buried.

When schools do attempt to create interest, they frequently slip into childish play. I have sat through dozens of experimental mathematics movies. They were bright with dancing sticks, figures, numbers. The colors were beautiful, the imagery delightful. But they taught little.

In welfare, we have advanced but marginally in our approach since the 1920s. There are some who believe we do worse. We spend more money. And give it to more people. The evidence, however, seems to indicate we don't know how to handle our giving so that it does more than a patch job.

The courts are a problem. Having served on a number of juries, I find trials like so many games of skill between opposing attorneys, justice seems bent to the side which has lawyers best able to play chess with courtroom rules. The highly technical rules of procedure and evidence serve to keep from juries facts essential to fair judgment.

Despite computers, communications systems and laboratories complete with the latest analytical equipment, we probably catch and send to prison a smaller percentage of our serious lawbreakers than was the case three decades ago.

Clergymen's Alliance To Improve BH

By MICHAEL WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

A group of approximately 25 area Baptist ministers have joined hands in an effort to combat the numerous problems of Benton bharbor through the promotion of better community relations.

The newly - chacROUP, THE Southwestern Michigan Baptist Ministerial Alliance, sponsored a panel discussion and memorial service last night commemorating Martin Luther King Jr.

The topic of the discussion was "Was His (King's) Work in Vain?" and a recording of Dr. King's civil rights speech, "I Had a Dream," was played. The program coincided with the anniversary of King's assassination, April 4, 1968.

The Southwestern Michigan Baptist Ministerial Alliance is composed primarily of black Baptist ministers from Benton Harbor and Benton township. It was formed in 1966, but Rev. J.A. Simmon, the group's vice president, said the group had not organized a campaign against the numerous problems of Benton Harbor until recently.

"We recognized a need for community participation by area ministers," Rev. Simmon said, "and we felt it was about time we practiced what we preached."

Simmon said the group was recently chartered and has organized five committees to deal with community problems and to promote better community relations. The committees are Housing, Crime, Youth, Education, and Senior Citizens. Two other committees, Government and Employment, are scheduled to be added later, Rev. Simmon said.

The duties of the committees, Rev. Simmon said, are to meet with members of the community, law enforcement and court agencies to discuss community problems. The alliance supports stringent enforcement of laws and punishment of the guilty, Rev. Simmon said.

Getting the community involved and putting an end to apathy in the community is the group's biggest goal, according to Rev.T.N. Wilkins, an alliance member. "If we can end apathy in the community and get people to care, then I think we can end much of the crime in Benton Harbor," Rev. Wilkins said.

BH Schools Presenting 325 Musicians April 16 In Festival Of Bands

A Festival of Bands featuring 325 musicians from throughout the Benton Harbor school system will be presented at 8 p.m. April 16 in Benton Harbor high school gymnasium, according to Bernhardt M. Kuschel, coordinator of instrumental music.

Five bands performing at the concert will be the senior high, freshmen, concert, and symphonic bands, a combined band from the 7th and 8th grade centers and a combined All District Festival band. Charles Bullard, director of bands at Benton Harbor hig school, will conduct the senior high band, while the combined 7th and 8th grade center band will be under the direction of Gary Lester and Troy Jones. The festival finale will be a performance by the combined bands under the direction of Bullard. Selections will include "Orange Bowl March," by Henry Fillmore; "Die Mies tersingers," Richard Wagner, and a medley from the musical "Applause," by Charles Strouse. There is no admission charge for the festival concert.

Freedom Train Will Make Three Stops In Michigan

The American Freedom Train, a steam-powered 22-car train displaying some of the nation's most treasured documents and artifacts is tentatively scheduled to make three stops in Michigan during its 21-month journey across the country. One of the many features on the train will be the American Legion Freedom Bell, according to William Tente of Benton Harbor, past president of American Legion Post 105, Benton Harbor.

The 20-ton cast iron bell, made in the Netherlands, is an exact replica of Americals Liberty Bell, according to Tenter. The train is expected to start it's 17,000 mile journey early this month and will Detroit on June 24, Grand Rapids, July 11, and Kalamazoo, July 14, according to the tenetaive schedule. During its two-year journey, as part of America's Bicentennial celebration, the train will stop in 80 cities.

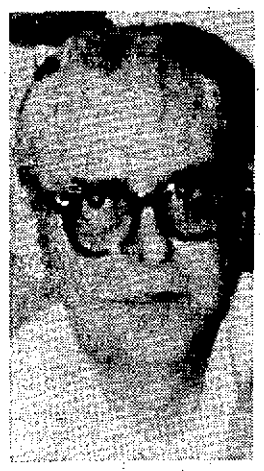

Wants Rent Control Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what it calls an effort to cut down the number of mortgage defaults, the Department of Housing and Urban Development is proposing to exempt federally insured or owned housing projects from local rent controls.

In disclosing the proposal Friday, HUD said that since federal regulations already determine the maximum rent for the poor and near-poor tenants who live in such units, tenants already are protected adequately.

Car-Pickup Truck Crash Takes Life Of SJ Man

A St. Joseph man was killed and four other people were injured, one seriously, in the collision of an auto and a pickup truck about 7:43 p.m. Friday on US-33 in Hagar township.

THEODORE S. MIELKE
Traffic victim

The victim was identified as Theodore Sigmund Mielke, 48, 310 Pearl street, St. Joseph, driver of the auto. He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph Memorial hospital.

Listed in serious condition this morning at Benton Harbor Mercy hospital was the driver of the pickup truck, identified as Joel Dean Morrow, 30, Box 276 McKinley street, route 3, Coloma.

Treated at Memorial hospital and released were Mielke's wife, Beverly Mielke, 27; his daughter, Jennifer Mielke, two months old; and two stepdaughters, Christine A. Crumley, 6, and Deborah Crumley, 9, all of 310 Pearl street.

Berrien Sheriff's Deputy P.J. Cavaness said the collision was nearly head-on and occurred in front of the Big Ten motel in the Lake Michigan Beach area, about nine miles north of St. Joseph.

Cavaness said an autopsy at Memorial hospital showed that Mielke died of internal injuries, including a puncture of the heart.

Both drivers were reported pinned in the vehicles. The Hagar township fire department responded to wash away gasoline.

Mielke was the 10th traffic fatality in Berrien county this year. Last year at this date, the county had posted only one traffic death.

10 Auto Deaths In Berrien County In 1975

Cavaness said witnesses reported that a pickup truck crossed the centerline while traveling north on US-33. The auto was reported southbound. The impact crushed the left front portions of both vehicles, Cavaness said.

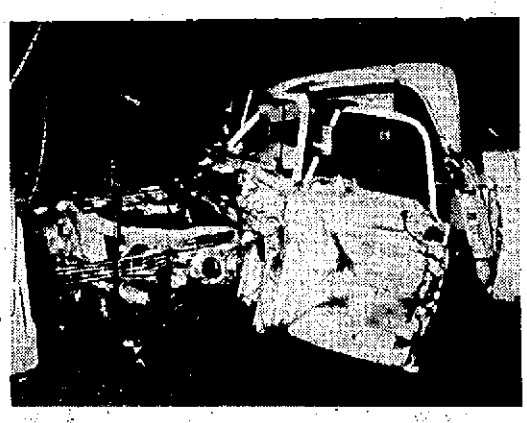

Cavaness said no summonses have been issued yet, but an investigation is continuing and the Berrien prosecutor's office was to be contacted.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Dey-Florin funeral home.

Mr. Mielke was employed at Berrien Hills Country Club and was a veteran of World War II.

Two Face Narcotics Charges

COLOMA — Two men were arrested Friday after suspected cocaine and marijuana were confiscated from passengers of a car stopped for a traffic violation, , according to Coloma township police.

Book on and lodged in the Berrien county jail on charges of possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana were Patrick J. Reiber, 19, Chesaning, Mich., and Robert L. Smith, 19, Washington, Ill.

Sgt. Robert Cottier confiscated the alleged drugs and made the arrests after stopping an auto for allegedly speeding on I-94 near the Coloma exit about 6:18 p.m., township police reported.

Ranum Heads Wheels For Easter Seals

Juel M. Ranum, retired vice president of public affairs for Whirlpool Corp., has been named chairman of the Wheels for Easter Seals Bikathon on May 17, sponsored by the Easter Seal Society of Berrien county.

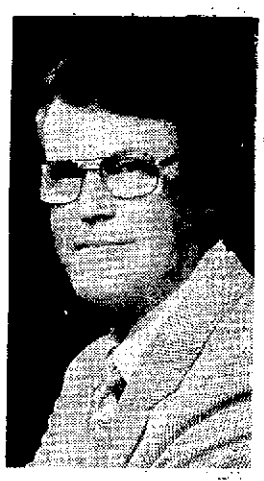

Funds raised in the Bikathon will go to support the Easter Seal Society's programs for handicapped children and adults.

Ranum said the Bikathon course will have two starting points, the parking lots of Upton junior high school, off Lincoln avenue south of St. Joseph and Bridgman high school, East road, Bridgman.

Bicyclists will have the option of riding a 6, 14, or 28-mile course staked out between the two schools. Each participant is asked to get as many sponsors as he can. Sponsors will contribute 10 cents or more for each mile a biker rides.

"A sponsor may be a friend, a neighbor, a local business or organization which contributes money for each mile you ride," Ranum said. "Similar Bikathons held in other parts of the county have raised money for worthwhile causes and promoted safe bike riding habits."

Registration and sponsor sheets for the Bikathon will be available at area schools and from Berrien county 4-H CLUBS. Other information may be obtained by calling the Easter Seal Society in St. Joseph.

ANNUAL RUBBISH REMOVAL

BH Cleanup Starts Monday

The Spring Cleanup campaign to clear rubbish from Benton Harbor houses, yards and alleys is scheduled to begin Monday, according to Dwight (Pete) Mitchell, director of public services.

The campaign, which will continue until May 9, will be conducted by the city's public works department which will remove everything from dead limbs to old refrigerators. Abandoned cars, however, will not be picked up this year, Mitchell said.

All items that residents desire to discard will be picked up by the city rubbish department, Mitchell said, and refuse should be left at curbside or at the normal pickup point for garbage.

Mitchell said the pickup of big items not normally included in regular trash collections will be done by districts.

For people whose regular rubbish pickup day is Monday, the spring cleanup will be April 7-11.

Rubbish pickup day Tuesday — April 14-18.

Rubbish pickup day Wednesday — April 21-15.

Rubbish pickup Thursday — April 28-May 2.

Rubbish pickup day Friday — May 5-8.

By MICHAEL WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

A group of approximately 25 area Baptist ministers have joined hands in an effort to combat the numerous problems of Benton bharbor through the promotion of better community relations.

The newly - chacROUP, THE Southwestern Michigan Baptist Ministerial Alliance, sponsored a panel discussion and memorial service last night commemorating Martin Luther King Jr.

The topic of the discussion was "Was His (King's) Work in Vain?" and a recording of Dr. King's civil rights speech, "I Had a Dream," was played. The program coincided with the anniversary of King's assassination, April 4, 1968.

The Southwestern Michigan Baptist Ministerial Alliance is composed primarily of black Baptist ministers from Benton Harbor and Benton township. It was formed in 1966, but Rev. J.A. Simmon, the group's vice president, said the group had not organized a campaign against the numerous problems of Benton Harbor until recently.

"We recognized a need for community participation by area ministers," Rev. Simmon said, "and we felt it was about time we practiced what we preached."

Simmon said the group was recently chartered and has organized five committees to deal with community problems and to promote better community relations. The committees are Housing, Crime, Youth, Education, and Senior Citizens. Two other committees, Government and Employment, are scheduled to be added later, Rev. Simmon said.

The duties of the committees, Rev. Simmon said, are to meet with members of the community, law enforcement and court agencies to discuss community problems. The alliance supports stringent enforcement of laws and punishment of the guilty, Rev. Simmon said.

Getting the community involved and putting an end to apathy in the community is the group's biggest goal, according to Rev.T.N. Wilkins, an alliance member. "If we can end apathy in the community and get people to care, then I think we can end much of the crime in Benton Harbor," Rev. Wilkins said.

Wants Rent Control Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what it calls an effort to cut down the number of mortgage defaults, the Department of Housing and Urban Development is proposing to exempt federally insured or owned housing projects from local rent controls.

In disclosing the proposal Friday, HUD said that since federal regulations already determine the maximum rent for the poor and near-poor tenants who live in such units, tenants already are protected adequately.

BH Schools Presenting 325 Musicians April 16 In Festival Of Bands

A Festival of Bands featuring 325 musicians from throughout the Benton Harbor school system will be presented at 8 p.m. April 16 in Benton Harbor high school gymnasium, according to Bernhardt M. Kuschel, coordinator of instrumental music.

Five bands performing at the concert will be the senior high, freshmen, concert, and symphonic bands, a combined band from the 7th and 8th grade centers and a combined All District Festival band. Charles Bullard, director of bands at Benton Harbor hig school, will conduct the senior high band, while the combined 7th and 8th grade center band will be under the direction of Gary Lester and Troy Jones. The festival finale will be a performance by the combined bands under the direction of Bullard. Selections will include "Orange Bowl March," by Henry Fillmore; "Die Mies tersingers," Richard Wagner, and a medley from the musical "Applause," by Charles Strouse. There is no admission charge for the festival concert.

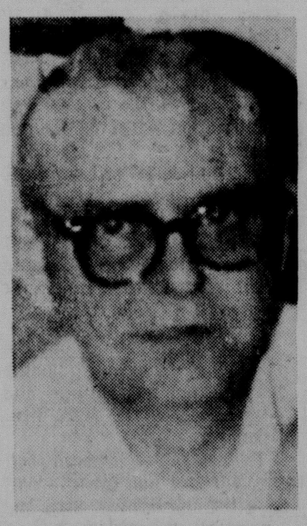

Freedom Train Will Make Three Stops In Michigan

The American Freedom Train, a steam-powered 22-car train displaying some of the nation's most treasured documents and artifacts is tentatively scheduled to make three stops in Michigan during its 21-month journey across the country. One of the many features on the train will be the American Legion Freedom Bell, according to William Tente of Benton Harbor, past president of American Legion Post 105, Benton Harbor.

The 20-ton cast iron bell, made in the Netherlands, is an exact replica of Americals Liberty Bell, according to Tenter. The train is expected to start it's 17,000 mile journey early this month and will Detroit on June 24, Grand Rapids, July 11, and Kalamazoo, July 14, according to the tenetaive schedule. During its two-year journey, as part of America's Bicentennial celebration, the train will stop in 80 cities.

A St. Joseph man was killed and four other people were injured, one seriously, in the collision of an auto and a pickup truck about 7:43 p.m. Friday on US-33 in Hagar township.

THEODORE S. MIELKE
Traffic victim

The victim was identified as Theodore Sigmund Mielke, 48, 310 Pearl street, St. Joseph, driver of the auto. He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph Memorial hospital.

Listed in serious condition this morning at Benton Harbor Mercy hospital was the driver of the pickup truck, identified as Joel Dean Morrow, 30, Box 276 McKinley street, route 3, Coloma.

Treated at Memorial hospital and released were Mielke's wife, Beverly Mielke, 27; his daughter, Jennifer Mielke, two months old; and two stepdaughters, Christine A. Crumley, 6, and Deborah Crumley, 9, all of 310 Pearl street.

Berrien Sheriff's Deputy P.J. Cavaness said the collision was nearly head-on and occurred in front of the Big Ten motel in the Lake Michigan Beach area, about nine miles north of St. Joseph.

Cavaness said an autopsy at Memorial hospital showed that Mielke died of internal injuries, including a puncture of the heart.

Both drivers were reported pinned in the vehicles. The Hagar township fire department responded to wash away gasoline.

Mielke was the 10th traffic fatality in Berrien county this year. Last year at this date, the county had posted only one traffic death.

10 Auto Deaths In Berrien County In 1975

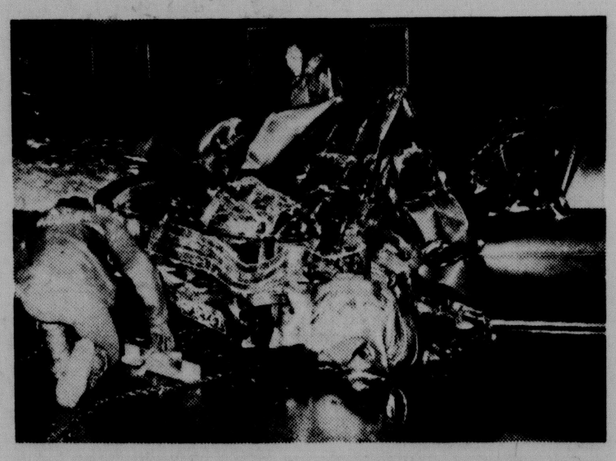

Cavaness said witnesses reported that a pickup truck crossed the centerline while traveling north on US-33. The auto was reported southbound. The impact crushed the left front portions of both vehicles, Cavaness said.

Cavaness said no summonses have been issued yet, but an investigation is continuing and the Berrien prosecutor's office was to be contacted.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Dey-Florin funeral home.

Mr. Mielke was employed at Berrien Hills Country Club and was a veteran of World War II.

Two Face Narcotics Charges

COLOMA — Two men were arrested Friday after suspected cocaine and marijuana were confiscated from passengers of a car stopped for a traffic violation, , according to Coloma township police.

Book on and lodged in the Berrien county jail on charges of possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana were Patrick J. Reiber, 19, Chesaning, Mich., and Robert L. Smith, 19, Washington, Ill.

Sgt. Robert Cottier confiscated the alleged drugs and made the arrests after stopping an auto for allegedly speeding on I-94 near the Coloma exit about 6:18 p.m., township police reported.

Leedy Brothers Repair Player Pianos

By CLIFF STEVENS
Coloma Correspondent

COLOMA — The sounds of 1920-1930 player pianos are living anew, thanks to three brothers of Coloma.

Bennet, Robert and Barry Leedy rebuild and repair old vintage player pianos, mainly because they hate to think of them being destroyed or junked.

What first started just as a purchase of a player piano by Bennet Leedy 4½ years ago is now an active hobby for all three Leedys.

At the present time, the Leedys have 17 player pianos and spend considerable time working on them in their spare time.

Bennet, an industrial education teacher at Fulton high school, in Middleton, is assisted by his brothers Robert and Barry, both employed at Bendix, St. Joseph.

Bennet said the interest in rebuilding and repairing the units started when he purchased an inoperable player piano in the fall of 1971 for $75.

Unable to find anyone who could repair the piano he had purchased, Bennet obtained all the books he could regarding player pianos and became very familiar with all facets of information pertaining to them.

Now, 4½ years later, his knowledge coupled with his brothers' assistance results with old player pianos getting a new life and being restored to like-new condition.

The average repair time for a piano ranges from two and a half to three months, with parts surprisingly readily available.

In order to enjoy their hobby, the Leeds have accumulated over 1,400 piano rolls ranging from classical music to hit tunes of the 70's. New rolls are available at various music stores.

"I prefer the old player pianos," said Bennet. "They are bigger, have better bass strings and were manufactured better than the models made today."

"We hate to see them (player pianos) junked or go by the wayside, as many would have if we had not learned of their proposed fate," added Bennet. "Many of the pianos we have now were obtained from persons who no longer felt they were worth keeping."

Bennet during the summer months, away from teaching, has prepared his own 45-minute slide and sound presentation on player pianos and has been called upon to present the program around the area.

Working on the various models and repairing pianos owned by other people keeps all three Leedy brothers busy year around, but as Bennet said, "We enjoy the music and want to see the player pianos continue to have new life."

Aid Refugees In Vietnam

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A swift build-up of church relief efforts in South Vietnam was under way this week to ease what some experts saw as the gravest human crisis ever faced in that war-battered land.

With tides of displaced people left homeless amid the chaos of flight and military retreat, the church organizations ordered major increases of aid to the stricken region.

"It's the greatest social welfare emergency in the history of Indochina," says the Rev. Robert Charlebois, Southeast Asia regional director of Catholic Relief Services.

He says the number of uprooted people, put at more than two million, far exceeds that involved in the 1954 partition of Vietnam, and the plight is probably worse for larger numbers left in fallen towns, including the old, children and crippled.

"As of now, there's nothing we can do for them," he said in an interview.

But where the church agencies still can function, in the refugee-swollen area around Saigon and outlying towns, relief operations were being heavily expanded in goods, cash and personnel.

Church World Service, the relief arm of the National Council of Churches, including most major Protestant and Orthodox denomations cabled an initial extra $100,000 to field representatives to purchase rice, dried fish, sleeping sheets and medicines.

"We can only work now in certain limited places," said Nancy Nicalo, assistant director of CWS, which has a staff of 20 Americans and 150 Vietnamese working in South Vietnam.

Noting the difficulty of shipping in supplies, rather than buying them on the spot, she added: "Road transportation has become almost impossible and air transport has become most impossible."

The first $100,000 was part of a projected $300,000 in emergency aid, as the present response of U.S. member churches to a $1 million appeal by the World Council of Churches in Geneva, Switzerland, for extra help to the Vietnamese.

Special shipments of food and other supplies also were ordered, including diversion by Catholic Relief Services of 4.2 million tons of wheat that had been enroute to India to Vietnam, and shipment of 1.7 million tons of fortified soy flour.

Father Charlebois said the soy flour can be baked into nutritious biscuits and dropped in plastic bags to refugees in places that can't be reached overland, a measure that has been used in the past.

Another cargo of foodstuffs was being loaded Thursday by the Catholic agency on a ship at Port Elizabeth, N.J., destined for Vietnam, where the agency has a staff of 156, mostly Vietnamese.

Spokesmen for both the Protestant and Catholic agencies said they hoped to be able to extend their help to people left behind in Viet Cong-seized areas, once the present upheaval subsides.

Boyd Lowery, CWS Asia secretary, said a World Council unit set up to seek to extend aid in rebel-held areas, the Fund for Reconstruction and Reconciliation, was sending its representative from Bangkok to Hanoi this weekend to discuss the offer.

"We hope it's accepted," he said.

Graeme Irvine, international operations director of World Vision, an interdenominational relief agency in Monrovia, Calif., with about 200 staff members in South Vietnam, said it is shifting personnel and resources from schools and other centers to relief work.

"We're distributing family survival kits," he said. The kits are made up food, cooking pots, chop sticks, vitamin pills a light blanket and ground sheet.

Being A Woman Is Both An Asset And A Liability

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As president of a firm in a field dominated by men, Royan Engel has found that being a woman is both an asset and a liability.

The founder and head of Stratagem Enterprises Inc., which produces trade show and industrial exhibits, admits being female has opened doors to her.

"No matter who they are, I can get in to see them because they're going to be taking bets on whether I'm fat and 50 or young and gorgeous," she says with a laugh.

If they bet the former they're out of luck. Miss Engel is 31, a slim 5 foot 4, with wavy auburn hair, hazel eyes and a fetching smile.

On the minus side, she says, is the fine line she must walk to avoid being a threat to the male ego.

"I deal almost always with men in my business and that boy-girl thing does still exist," she says. "If another guy walks in it's one thing, but if I force ideas down a man's throat I become an aggressive female.

"No man wants to feel less knowledgeable than a woman, no matter who she is or what she does. They never let you forget you're a woman. But who'd want to forget it anyway," she adds. "It's kind of fun."

Miss Engel, who now has a staff of 22 marketing and creative people, including designers, carpenters, electricians, script writers, film producers and sales personnel, got into the business by chance.

Before that she was a singer and actress, a profession she found easy to enter since her father, actor Roy Engel, "knew everyone in Los Angeles and everyone owed him at least one favor and I collected them all."

After she became known she was thrown into the world of trade shows when she began being picked for such royal titles as Sports Vacation or Travel Queen.

"I would wander around the shows and someone would ask me what I thought of something and what I thought they ought to do," she recalls. "I finally realized that some ideas I was tossing around were being used and I started a backyard operation in the second bedroom of my house in Glendale."

Then she came to New York and ran into a group of men who "gave me a whole $2,000, an office and a phone and said 'See what you can do' and it worked." She incorporated about five years ago.

"My idea was if I walked into a company all they had to do was show me a product and I would create a whole marketing program in order to sell that product in the trade show medium," she explains. "We design and build the exhibit, create the show to go with it, write the script for the demonstration, produce our own film if needed, manage the hospitality suite, make the whole thing tie in and run the whole ball of wax."

Since her first love has always been set design rather than performing, she finds her background especially useful in the exhibit design and construction which she calls the stage that makes the program work. Her work has all the elements of show business but instead of selling an act, you are selling a product," she notes.

"The first thing at a show is to stop the visitor," she points out. "It takes approximately two seconds to walk by a 10-foot exhibit, so you have just two seconds to stop them. You have to have something live or on film or whatever that incorporates enough showmanship to retain the interest of the visitor and allow you time to demonstrate the benefits of the product."

ROYAN ENGEL

Miss Engel, who concedes that it's fun to be successful at such an early age, adds that the one disadvantage is that she is too busy to have much time for herself.

"I have about 95 per cent nonexistent personal life," she says ruefully. "What I'd really like to do is bring the firm to a point of professionalism that I could institute greater policy of profit sharing and replace myself so I could continue on a consulting basis and devote time to my personal life. But I don't expect that to happen for at least five years."

Meanwhile she doesn't rule out the possibility of marriage and children, though she says she would never just sit at home.

"I doubt seriously that anyone doesn't want to have children," she says. "But that has to be preceded by finding a man to love. He would have to be my very best friend, with whom some chemistry also exists."

Spring Fashion: Your Own Look

According to fashion experts, this year more than ever before, women will be free to create their own fashion look.

The trend has been for one major color — such as plum or green — to predominate the entire spring fashion scene. So every window display in every store would be filled with skirts, dresses, slacks, everything in the particular color of that season.

That is all in the past now as spring '75 offers women a vast aray of light and mid-dark neutrals that will be highlighted with bright colors that women will choose themselves.

Pretty, practical clothes that move with the body — but aren't baggy and unattractive — will begin to replace the more tailored silhouette of past seasons. Now women can be comfortable as well as fashionable!

And a woman's makeup will be just as important as her clothes. Faces will be lighter and glowier as high coverage makeups are put away with winter wools. Both are simply too heavy in look and feel for spring. A light makeup with manageable coverage is perfect for spring wear by women of all ages. And it will give the face a dewy-fresh appearance.

The big surprise in spring '75 fashions is color. Neutrals and mid-darks (muted tones of winter shades) will be very popular in the lighter weight fabrics, according to experts at a clothing manufacturing conglomerate. These subtle, off-beat tones are soft, yet have great depth, and can be highlighted with a woman's personal creative touch. Bright shades will appear as secondary colors and will be best used in combination with the fashion colors.

The mid-darks will dominate the dress scene. Terra cotta, loden, dark bluegreen and dark blue all have a dusky, soft quality. And they're stunning when worn with each other or contrasted with sun colors.

Good highlights could be sweeping scarves, jangly jewelry or as simple and economical as the right lipsticks.

The neutrals — including soft tan, old lace and fawn — will also be highlighted with the secondary brights to add a springtime glow to sportswear and casual dresswear. Again the stress is on personalized accessories giving just the right contrast to complete the total fashion picture.

Spring '75 will enable every woman to be fashionable — even if she does not consider herself a "fashion plate." She can simply wear these basic colors, accent them to her own taste and top it off with the makeup to reflect her own personality.

So respond to the forecast of major fashion and cosmetic houses. Create your own look — be your own woman.

Plan Three Films Tuesday

Lafayette's trip to France, a prairie marsh and a young boy who finds himself the only person in Copenhagen will be the topics of three films for family film night Tuesday, April 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph.

"Lafayette: Victory At Yorktown" traces Lafayette's trip to France and his return to America with French troops. It also shows some of Washington's difficulties with Congress, the deployment of his army to besiege Cornwallis and the arrival of the French fleet after the victory at Yorktown.

"Cry of the Marsh" is a film essay in which the camera sees both the poetic beauty of a prairie marsh and the tragedy that results when the marsh is drained and the land converted to other uses.

A little boy suddenly finds that he is the only person in Copenhagen in "Palle Alone In the World." He drives a streetcar, a stray auto, helps himself to all the toys and candy he wants and devotes himself to making all the impossible dreams of all small boys come true.

New books at the library include "The Stonewall Brigade," Frank G. Slaughter; "TM: Discovering Inner Energy and Overcoming Stress," Harold H. Bloomfield, and "How to Manage for Tomorrow," Eugene J. Benge.

Diana Ross Opens Theater

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A new, 3,500-seat theater, the Westchester Premier Theater, opened in March with singer Diana Ross.

Its operators call it "suburban theater which is a major performing arts center." Expected to be offered there are rock stars, Broadway shows on tour, variety acts, classical artists and children's theater. It has a three-quarter thrust stage.

Bennet, Robert and Barry Leedy rebuild and repair old vintage player pianos, mainly because they hate to think of them being destroyed or junked.

What first started just as a purchase of a player piano by Bennet Leedy 4½ years ago is now an active hobby for all three Leedys.

At the present time, the Leedys have 17 player pianos and spend considerable time working on them in their spare time.

Bennet, an industrial education teacher at Fulton high school, in Middleton, is assisted by his brothers Robert and Barry, both employed at Bendix, St. Joseph.

Bennet said the interest in rebuilding and repairing the units started when he purchased an inoperable player piano in the fall of 1971 for $75.

Unable to find anyone who could repair the piano he had purchased, Bennet obtained all the books he could regarding player pianos and became very familiar with all facets of information pertaining to them.

Now, 4½ years later, his knowledge coupled with his brothers' assistance results with old player pianos getting a new life and being restored to like-new condition.

The average repair time for a piano ranges from two and a half to three months, with parts surprisingly readily available.

In order to enjoy their hobby, the Leeds have accumulated over 1,400 piano rolls ranging from classical music to hit tunes of the 70's. New rolls are available at various music stores.

"I prefer the old player pianos," said Bennet. "They are bigger, have better bass strings and were manufactured better than the models made today."

"We hate to see them (player pianos) junked or go by the wayside, as many would have if we had not learned of their proposed fate," added Bennet. "Many of the pianos we have now were obtained from persons who no longer felt they were worth keeping."

Bennet during the summer months, away from teaching, has prepared his own 45-minute slide and sound presentation on player pianos and has been called upon to present the program around the area.

Working on the various models and repairing pianos owned by other people keeps all three Leedy brothers busy year around, but as Bennet said, "We enjoy the music and want to see the player pianos continue to have new life."

Aid Refugees In Vietnam

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A swift build-up of church relief efforts in South Vietnam was under way this week to ease what some experts saw as the gravest human crisis ever faced in that war-battered land.

With tides of displaced people left homeless amid the chaos of flight and military retreat, the church organizations ordered major increases of aid to the stricken region.

"It's the greatest social welfare emergency in the history of Indochina," says the Rev. Robert Charlebois, Southeast Asia regional director of Catholic Relief Services.

He says the number of uprooted people, put at more than two million, far exceeds that involved in the 1954 partition of Vietnam, and the plight is probably worse for larger numbers left in fallen towns, including the old, children and crippled.

"As of now, there's nothing we can do for them," he said in an interview.

But where the church agencies still can function, in the refugee-swollen area around Saigon and outlying towns, relief operations were being heavily expanded in goods, cash and personnel.

Church World Service, the relief arm of the National Council of Churches, including most major Protestant and Orthodox denomations cabled an initial extra $100,000 to field representatives to purchase rice, dried fish, sleeping sheets and medicines.

"We can only work now in certain limited places," said Nancy Nicalo, assistant director of CWS, which has a staff of 20 Americans and 150 Vietnamese working in South Vietnam.

Noting the difficulty of shipping in supplies, rather than buying them on the spot, she added: "Road transportation has become almost impossible and air transport has become most impossible."

The first $100,000 was part of a projected $300,000 in emergency aid, as the present response of U.S. member churches to a $1 million appeal by the World Council of Churches in Geneva, Switzerland, for extra help to the Vietnamese.

Special shipments of food and other supplies also were ordered, including diversion by Catholic Relief Services of 4.2 million tons of wheat that had been enroute to India to Vietnam, and shipment of 1.7 million tons of fortified soy flour.

Father Charlebois said the soy flour can be baked into nutritious biscuits and dropped in plastic bags to refugees in places that can't be reached overland, a measure that has been used in the past.

Another cargo of foodstuffs was being loaded Thursday by the Catholic agency on a ship at Port Elizabeth, N.J., destined for Vietnam, where the agency has a staff of 156, mostly Vietnamese.

Spokesmen for both the Protestant and Catholic agencies said they hoped to be able to extend their help to people left behind in Viet Cong-seized areas, once the present upheaval subsides.

Boyd Lowery, CWS Asia secretary, said a World Council unit set up to seek to extend aid in rebel-held areas, the Fund for Reconstruction and Reconciliation, was sending its representative from Bangkok to Hanoi this weekend to discuss the offer.

"We hope it's accepted," he said.

Graeme Irvine, international operations director of World Vision, an interdenominational relief agency in Monrovia, Calif., with about 200 staff members in South Vietnam, said it is shifting personnel and resources from schools and other centers to relief work.

"We're distributing family survival kits," he said. The kits are made up food, cooking pots, chop sticks, vitamin pills a light blanket and ground sheet.

Being A Woman Is Both An Asset And A Liability

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As president of a firm in a field dominated by men, Royan Engel has found that being a woman is both an asset and a liability.

The founder and head of Stratagem Enterprises Inc., which produces trade show and industrial exhibits, admits being female has opened doors to her.

"No matter who they are, I can get in to see them because they're going to be taking bets on whether I'm fat and 50 or young and gorgeous," she says with a laugh.

If they bet the former they're out of luck. Miss Engel is 31, a slim 5 foot 4, with wavy auburn hair, hazel eyes and a fetching smile.

On the minus side, she says, is the fine line she must walk to avoid being a threat to the male ego.

"I deal almost always with men in my business and that boy-girl thing does still exist," she says. "If another guy walks in it's one thing, but if I force ideas down a man's throat I become an aggressive female.

"No man wants to feel less knowledgeable than a woman, no matter who she is or what she does. They never let you forget you're a woman. But who'd want to forget it anyway," she adds. "It's kind of fun."

Miss Engel, who now has a staff of 22 marketing and creative people, including designers, carpenters, electricians, script writers, film producers and sales personnel, got into the business by chance.

Before that she was a singer and actress, a profession she found easy to enter since her father, actor Roy Engel, "knew everyone in Los Angeles and everyone owed him at least one favor and I collected them all."

After she became known she was thrown into the world of trade shows when she began being picked for such royal titles as Sports Vacation or Travel Queen.

"I would wander around the shows and someone would ask me what I thought of something and what I thought they ought to do," she recalls. "I finally realized that some ideas I was tossing around were being used and I started a backyard operation in the second bedroom of my house in Glendale."

Then she came to New York and ran into a group of men who "gave me a whole $2,000, an office and a phone and said 'See what you can do' and it worked." She incorporated about five years ago.

"My idea was if I walked into a company all they had to do was show me a product and I would create a whole marketing program in order to sell that product in the trade show medium," she explains. "We design and build the exhibit, create the show to go with it, write the script for the demonstration, produce our own film if needed, manage the hospitality suite, make the whole thing tie in and run the whole ball of wax.',

Since her first love has always been set design rather than performing, she finds her background especially useful in the exhibit design and construction which she calls the stage that makes the program work. Her work has all the elements of show business but instead of selling an act, you are selling a product," she notes.

"The first thing at a show is to stop the visitor," she points out. "It takes approximately two seconds to walk by a 10-foot exhibit, so you have just two seconds to stop them. You have to have something live or on film or whatever that incorporates enough showmanship to retain the interest of the visitor and allow you time to demonstrate the benefits of the product."

ROYAN ENGEL

Miss Engel, who concedes that it's fun to be successful at such an early age, adds that the one disadvantage is that she is too busy to have much time for herself.

"I have about 95 per cent nonexistent personal life," she says ruefully. "What I'd really like to do is bring the firm to a point of professionalism that I could institute greater policy of profit sharing and replace myself so I could continue on a consulting basis and devote time to my personal life. But I don't expect that to happen for at least five years."

Meanwhile she doesn't rule out the possibility of marriage and children, though she says she would never just sit at home.

"I doubt seriously that anyone doesn't want to have children," she says. "But that has to be preceded by finding a man to love. He would have to be my very best friend, with whom some chemistry also exists."

Spring Fashion: Your Own Look

According to fashion experts, this year more than ever before, women will be free to create their own fashion look.

The trend has been for one major color — such as plum or green — to predominate the entire spring fashion scene. So every window display in every store would be filled with skirts, dresses, slacks, everything in the particular color of that season.

That is all in the past now as spring '75 offers women a vast aray of light and mid-dark neutrals that will be highlighted with bright colors that women will choose themselves.

Pretty, practical clothes that move with the body — but aren't baggy and unattractive — will begin to replace the more tailored silhouette of past seasons. Now women can be comfortable as well as fashionable!

And a woman's makeup will be just as important as her clothes. Faces will be lighter and glowier as high coverage makeups are put away with winter wools. Both are simply too heavy in look and feel for spring. A light makeup with manageable coverage is perfect for spring wear by women of all ages. And it will give the face a dewy-fresh appearance.

The big surprise in spring '75 fashions is color. Neutrals and mid-darks (muted tones of winter shades) will be very popular in the lighter weight fabrics, according to experts at a clothing manufacturing conglomerate. These subtle, off-beat tones are soft, yet have great depth, and can be highlighted with a woman's personal creative touch. Bright shades will appear as secondary colors and will be best used in combination with the fashion colors.

The mid-darks will dominate the dress scene. Terra cotta, loden, dark bluegreen and dark blue all have a dusky, soft quality. And they're stunning when worn with each other or contrasted with sun colors.

Good highlights could be sweeping scarves, jangly jewelry or as simple and economical as the right lipsticks.

The neutrals — including soft tan, old lace and fawn — will also be highlighted with the secondary brights to add a springtime glow to sportswear and casual dresswear. Again the stress is on personalized accessories giving just the right contrast to complete the total fashion picture.

Spring '75 will enable every woman to be fashionable — even if she does not consider herself a "fashion plate." She can simply wear these basic colors, accent them to her own taste and top it off with the makeup to reflect her own personality

So respond to the forecast of major fashion and cosmetic houses. Create your own look — be your own woman

Plan Three Films Tuesday

Lafayette's trip to France, a prairie marsh and a young boy who finds himself the only person in Copenhagen will be the topics of three films for family film night Tuesday, April 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph.

"Lafayette: Victory At Yorktown" traces Lafayette's trip to France and his return to America with French troops. It also shows some of Washington's difficulties with Congress, the deployment of his army to besiege Cornwallis and the arrival of the French fleet after the victory at Yorktown.

"Cry of the Marsh" is a film essay in which the camera sees both the poetic beauty of a prairie marsh and the tragedy that results when the marsh is drained and the land converted to other uses.

A little boy suddenly finds that he is the only person in Copenhagen in "Palle Alone In the World." He drives a streetcar, a stray auto, helps himself to all the toys and candy he wants and devotes himself to making all the impossible dreams of all small boys come true.

New books at the library include "The Stonewall Brigade," Frank G. Slaughter; "TM: Discovering Inner Energy and Overcoming Stress," Harold H. Bloomfield, and "How to Manage for Tomorrow," Eugene J. Benge.

Diana Ross Opens Theater

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A new, 3,500-seat theater, the Westchester Premier Theater, opened in March with singer Diana Ross.

Its operators call it "suburban theater which is a major performing arts center." Expected to be offered there are rock stars, Broadway shows on tour, variety acts, classical artists and children's theater. It has a three-quarter thrust stage.

Well-Known Priest To Conduct Workshops

KALAMAZOO — The Rev. Joseph Champlin, world renowned author, lecturer and teacher, will be in Kalamazoo April 20 and 21 to conduct workshops on the Liturgy for the priests and lay people of the Diocese.

The services of the Rev. Fr. Champlin were obtained by the Worship committee of the Catholic Diocese.

A Liturgy Workshop for the Laity will be held Sunday, April 20, at 7:30 p.m. and will acquaint members of parish councils and parish worship committees with recent developments in liturgy and the role of the Parish Worship Committees in the spiritual life of the parish.

Father Champlin will conduct the Priest's Liturgy Workshop Monday, April 21, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. He will focus on the role of the celebrant in liturgical celebration and acquainting the priests with the newly formed Diocesan Worship committee and the services it hopes to offer to the parishes of the Diocese of Kalamazoo.

Both workshops will be held at Nazareth college Conference center.

Father Champlin, a native of New York, has been a Catholic priest for 19 years. In addition to serving as a parish priest in the Diocese of Syracuse, he has authored numerous articles and pamphlets on the liturgy, pastoral theology, love and marriage.

He has written the books, "Don't You Really Love Me?" "The Priest Today and Tomorrow," "Together for Life," "Christ Present and Yet To Come," "The Mass in a World of Change," "The Sacraments in a World of Change," and "Together in Peace." Several of his books have also been published in Spain, England and Australia.

Father Champlin, 44, also has a syndicated weekly column, "Know Your Faith," which appears in over 75 Catholic newspapers. He has been a featured speaker on a CBS television show and on a NBC radio series. He is author and narrator of a cassette series, "Learning About the Liturgy," and has lectured on the new liturgy in over 100 dioceses since 1969.

He was named Visiting Lecturer at Princeton Theological seminary for the winter session of 1973 and is serving as chairman of the Syracuse Diocese Liturgical Commission, as president of the board of directors of Lee Memorial hospital, Fulton, New York, and received the high honor of being named Honorary Prelate by Pope Paul VI in 1974.

Clergy To Hear Rabbi

RABBI SCHWARZ

Dr. Joseph chwarz, Rabbi Emeritus of Temple B'nai Shalom, Benton Harbor, will give two lectures on the Prophets of Israel at the April meeting of the Twin Cities Ministerial association.

The meeting will begin with a breakfast at Whitcomb Tower at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 9, with the first lecture planned at 8 a.m. and followed by a discussion period. After a coffee break at 9:30 a.m., the second lecture will be given.

The Rev. Robert J. Lacker, president of the Twin Cities Ministerial association, says the lectures are open to all clergy of Berrien county and are sponsored free by the association. There is a $2 charge for the breakfast and reservations are necessary. Reservations may be made through Monday, April 7, by calling the Rev. Dale Landis association secretary, of St. Joseph.

Rabbi Schwarz is a well-known religious leader of the area and has served the Jewish community since 1949 at Temple Beth El until its merger with the Temple B'nai Shalom in 1971. A native of Germany, Rabbi Schwarz was graduated with honors from the Jewish Theological seminary in Breslau, Germany. After serving two German Jewish congregations, he left in 1938 during the rise of Nazi power. During the war years he served in Manila, Philippines, until he came to Benton Harbor.

In his 25 years in the community, he has served with distinction outside his own congregation as a religious teacher, fund raiser and many civic activities, the Rev. Lacker says.

In 1962, the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati conferred upon Rabbi Schwarz, the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree. He has served as president of the Twin Cities Ministerial association and president of the Berrien County Jewish community.

Volunteers Aid Archaeological Teams

Unpaid archaeological volunteers, working with skilled teams, are busy today digging up more historic sites than ever before in the lands of Biblical Palestine.

Important finds are constantly being made, increasing our knowledge of life in ancient times, and it is a mistake to think that the great days of archaeology there are over.

All volunteers working with archaeology teams must be at least 18 years old, and the oldest volunteer so far was 70. They include students, teachers, ministers, rabbis, businessmen and retired people.

Henry Thomas Frank points out these facts in his new book, "Discovering the Biblical World." An archaeologist, the author has had fieldwork experience in Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Italy and Greece. He is currently professor of Religion at Oberlin college.

In "Discovering the Biblical World," Frank discusses the most spectacular and exciting archaeological discoveries as well as lesser ones, tells how ancient unknown languages were unravelled by findings of stones in which political edicts were issued in identical versions in three languages — thus enabling scholars to decipher hitherto untranslateable material — and tells how political, social and religious changes swept through the countries affecting the lives of the peoples. He recounts in 19 chapters the major events included in the Bible.

This "you are there" retelling of Biblical history is amplified by descriptions of the historical sites as the traveller finds them today. The book is illustrated with 255 photographs, color and black-and-white, showing ancient objects, art works, unusual architecture, landscapes and people. There are 50 original maps by Hammond.

"Archaeological digs under way in the Biblical lands are staffed not only by professional field archaeologists, but by specialized geologists, biologists, anthropologists, ethnologists, potters, surveyors, photographers, artists and even computer experts," Frank says.

It was lack of funds that led to a call for volunteers, he says, and thousands from 28 countries applied in answer to the first international call for unpaid workers to increase manpower.

"The Gezer Expedition was the first to turn from the idea of a purely work force to a training dig to seek to instruct the volunteers in various phases of excavating technique. When the Joint Expedition to Tell el-Hesi went into the field for the first time in 1970, it did so with two purposes: to recover the occupational history of one of the most famous sites in Israel, and to offer volunteers an opportunity to obtain field experience under talented teachers and skilled archaeologists," Frank says.

Archaeological recovery of ancient life has tended at point after point to show with what faithfulness the Biblical writers recorded contemporary events, Frank says.

"This indicates that the Bible as a primary historical document is a trustworthy guide to those events and situations which it describes," Frank says.

He emphasizes, however, that there is a sharp distinction between the interpretation of the historian, the archaeologist and the theologian, and that the historical accuracy must be considered separately from the truth of theological interpretation. "Faith is its own justification," he says.

Northern Ireland Minister To Speak In New Buffalo

NEW BUFFALO — The Rev. Ivan Foster, an associate of the internationally known Irish minister, Dr. Ian Paisley of Belfast, Northern Ireland, will be the guest speaker at the New Buffalo Bible Baptist church, Sunday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Foster has been pastor of the Bethel Free Presbyterian church in Enniskillen for the past six years. He attended Free Presbyterian Theological Hall and was ordained to the ministry in 1968.

On two ocassions, the Rev. Foster was imprisoned with Dr. Paisley for a period of three months in 1966 and for one month in 1969 rather than compromise their convictions.

The Rev. Foster is being brought from Ireland by Bob Jones university, Greenville, S.C., to speak at the university's annual Bible conference.

The university has booked the Rev. Foster for a limited number of speaking engagements in Fundamental churches while he is in the United States.

Dr. Marion E. Fast, pastor of the New Buffalo Bible Baptist church is a member of the Bob Jones university board of trustees and is acquainted with Dr. Paisley who is a fellow board member.

The public is invited to attend this service and hear of the political and religious conditions in Ireland, according to Dr. Fast.

REV. IVAN FOSTER

Jewish-Christian Service Set At SJ Church Sunday

A special Jewish-Christian worship service will be presented at the North Lincoln Baptist church, St. Joseph, at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, April 6.

The public is invited, according to the Rev. Howard Church, pastor.

Speaker for the service will be the Rev. Ben Alpert, missionary-in-charge of the Chicago branch of "The American Board of Missions to the Jews, Inc."

The worship service will be a sermonic presentation in the Orthodox Jewish costume and in the tradition of the great redemption festival that was instituted even before the Ten Commandments. It will be in the version of the Passover essentially as held since the time of the Babylonian captivity, according to the Rev. Church.

At this feast, Jesus appointed the Holy Communion, the Last Supper. Much of the symbolism that exists in the church today is derived from the Passover memorial, the Rev. Church says.

The worship service will be presented by "The American Board of Missions to The Jews," which was founded in 1894 by the former Rabbi, Leopold Conn, and is the largest agency of its kind. It has a staff of more than 50 fulltime missionaries who endeavor to bring the gospel of Christ to Jewish population centers throughout the United States and overseas.

For the evening service at 7 p.m., the film, "The Passover," which was originally made by for television by the Beth Star Shalom Hebrew Christian Fellowship of New York City and aired in several major cities in the United States, Australia, Canada and South America, will be shown.

The Jewish Passover is seen through flickering candles accompanied by the Hebrew national anthem, Hatikvah. The Passover is entwined with the "Last Supper" of Jesus and His disciples to show the complete relationship between the Jewish feast and the Christian Easter.

Special Events Are Planned

The youth department will be in charge of the Pastor's Aid program at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 6, at ST. MARK BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor.

The program, "A Family Affair," will feature the following families, Hayes, Smith, Perkins, Campbell, Christian, Davis, Watkins, Elim, Burton, Gray, Manuel, Rushing and Jefferson.

The Beginners choir of NEW PARADISE BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor, will hold a special program Sunday, April 6, at 3 p.m.

Speaker will be the Rev. Charles Shepherd. Special guests will be the Washington Singers under the direction of Mrs. Fredia Washington.

LAWRENCE — The Mercen Gospel Team will appear at 6 p.m. Sunday, April 6, at EAST ARLINGTON BAPTIST CHURCH. Featured will be Don Miller, speaker; Bob Friedl, chalk artist; Mrs. Glenda Rogers and Miss Ruth Blaha, music.

THREE OAKS — A congregational meeting will be held at noon Sunday, April 6, at THREE OAKS CHURCH OF CHRIST, according to Jack Van Arsdall, pastor.

A basket dinner will follow the meeting.

Revival Crusade To Be April 8-13

The Rev. Don Scarlett Sr., of Indianapolis, Ind., will be the evangelist for a revival crusade Tuesday, April 8, through Sunday, April 13, at the Church of the Nazarene, St. Joseph.

The public is invited to the services which will be held each evening at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 10:45 a.m., according to the Rev. W.E. Rothman, pastor.

The Rev. Scarlett has been the speaker for both denominational and interdenominational camp meetings, revivals and conventions throughout the United States.

He has pastored churches in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. He served as an evangelist for 20 years and returned to the field of evangelism in September of 1974 after 11 years in the pastorate.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

181. Elijah Is Taken to Heaven

When the time came for the Lord to take Elijah to heaven in a whirlwind, Elijah asked Elisha to remain in Gilgal, but Elisha swore never to leave the great prophet. They went on to Bethel, then to Jericho, and finally to the Jordan River. At each place Elisha was asked to stay behind, but each time he insisted upon accompanying Elijah. At the River Jordan, Elijah folded his mantle and struck the water, and the river parted.

"And it came to pass as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven. And Elisha saw it, and he cried, My father, my father! the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof. And he saw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces." (II Kings 2:11-12)

He picked up Elijah's mantle and struck the waters, and again they parted. And the young prophets who saw this knew that the spirit of Elijah rested upon Elisha.

Pastor's Final Service Sunday

The congregation of Trinity Lutheran church, St. Joseph, will honor the Rev. Albert P. Knoll for his retirement from the ministry Sunday, April 6.

The Rev. Knoll, who is completing 40 years in the ministry, will present his farewell sermon in the German service at 8 a.m. and in the English services at 9:15 and 11 a.m.

An informal reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Knoll will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the social hall.

The Rev. Knoll has been assistant pastor of Trinity Lutheran church since 1966.

To Conduct Meetings

HOLLAND — Jack Van Impe will conduct evangelistic meetings Sunday, April 20, through Sunday, April 27, at the Holland Civic Center, Holland, under the sponsorship of Holland area churches.

The meetings will be held each night at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Van Impe is known as the "Walking Bible" in recognition of his memorization of over 8,000 Bible verses.

Rev. L.I. Ricketts Takes New Position

The congregation of the Church of God, 1185 Maynard drive, Benton Harbor, will honor its pastor, the Rev. L.I. Ricketts, Sunday, April 6.

The Rev. Ricketts has resigned as pastor of the church to become Home Mission Representative for the Churches of God in Michigan.

The Rev. Ricketts has served as a pastor in the Benton Harbor area district for 23 years and was honored recently by the district at a dinner where he received a plaque for his 23 years of service.

A potluck dinner will be held Sunday following the 11 a.m. worship service. The public is invited.

Well-Known Priest To Conduct Workshops

KALAMAZOO — The Rev. Joseph Champlin, world renowned author, lecturer and teacher, will be in Kalamazoo April 20 and 21 to conduct workshops on the Liturgy for the priests and lay people of the Diocese.

The services of the Rev. Fr. Champlin were obtained by the Worship committee of the Catholic Diocese.

A Liturgy Workshop for the Laity will be held Sunday, April 20, at 7:30 p.m. and will acquaint members of parish councils and parish worship committees with recent developments in liturgy and the role of the Parish Worship Committees in the spiritual life of the parish.

Father Champlin will conduct the Priest's Liturgy Workshop Monday, April 21, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. He will focus on the role of the celebrant in liturgical celebration and acquainting the priests with the newly formed Diocesan Worship committee and the services it hopes to offer to the parishes of the Diocese of Kalamazoo.

Both workshops will be held at Nazareth college Conference center.

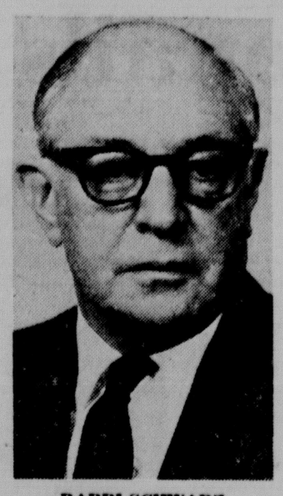

Father Champlin, a native of New York, has been a Catholic priest for 19 years. In addition to serving as a parish priest in the Diocese of Syracuse, he has authored numerous articles and pamphlets on the liturgy, pastoral theology, love and marriage.

He has written the books, "Don't You Really Love Me?" "The Priest Today and Tomorrow," "Together for Life," "Christ Present and Yet To Come," "The Mass in a World of Change," "The Sacraments in a World of Change," and "Together in Peace." Several of his books have also been published in Spain, England and Australia.

Father Champlin, 44, also has a syndicated weekly column, "Know Your Faith," which appears in over 75 Catholic newspapers. He has been a featured speaker on a CBS television show and on a NBC radio series. He is author and narrator of a cassette series, "Learning About the Liturgy," and has lectured on the new liturgy in over 100 dioceses since 1969.

He was named Visiting Lecturer at Princeton Theological seminary for the winter session of 1973 and is serving as chairman of the Syracuse Diocese Liturgical Commission, as president of the board of directors of Lee Memorial hospital, Fulton, New York, and received the high honor of being named Honorary Prelate by Pope Paul VI in 1974.

Clergy To Hear Rabbi

RABBI SCHWARZ

Dr. Joseph chwarz, Rabbi Emeritus of Temple B'nai Shalom, Benton Harbor, will give two lectures on the Prophets of Israel at the April meeting of the Twin Cities Ministerial association.

The meeting will begin with a breakfast at Whitcomb Tower at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 9, with the first lecture planned at 8 a.m. and followed by a discussion period. After a coffee break at 9:30 a.m., the second lecture will be given.

The Rev. Robert J. Lacker, president of the Twin Cities Ministerial association, says the lectures are open to all clergy of Berrien county and are sponsored free by the association. There is a $2 charge for the breakfast and reservations are necessary. Reservations may be made through Monday, April 7, by calling the Rev. Dale Landis association secretary, of St. Joseph.

Rabbi Schwarz is a well-known religious leader of the area and has served the Jewish community since 1949 at Temple Beth El until its merger with the Temple B'nai Shalom in 1971. A native of Germany, Rabbi Schwarz was graduated with honors from the Jewish Theological seminary in Breslau, Germany. After serving two German Jewish congregations, he left in 1938 during the rise of Nazi power. During the war years he served in Manila, Philippines, until he came to Benton Harbor.

In his 25 years in the community, he has served with distinction outside his own congregation as a religious teacher, fund raiser and many civic activities, the Rev. Lacker says.

In 1962, the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati conferred upon Rabbi Schwarz, the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree. He has served as president of the Twin Cities Ministerial association and president of the Berrien County Jewish community.

Volunteers Aid Archaeological Teams

Unpaid archaeological volunteers, working with skilled teams, are busy today digging up more historic sites than ever before in the lands of Biblical Palestine.

Important finds are constantly being made, increasing our knowledge of life in ancient times, and it is a mistake to think that the great days of archaeology there are over.

All volunteers working with archaeology teams must be at least 18 years old, and the oldest volunteer so far was 70. They include students, teachers, ministers, rabbis, businessmen and retired people.

Henry Thomas Frank points out these facts in his new book, "Discovering the Biblical World." An archaeologist, the author has had fieldwork experience in Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Italy and Greece. He is currently professor of Religion at Oberlin college.

In "Discovering the Biblical World," Frank discusses the most spectacular and exciting archaeological discoveries as well as lesser ones, tells how ancient unknown languages were unravelled by findings of stones in which political edicts were issued in idential versions in three languages — thus enabling scholars to decipher hitherto untranslateable material — and tells how political, social and religious changes swept through the countries affecting the lives of the peoples. He recounts in 19 chapters the major events included in the Bible.

This "you are there" retelling of Biblical history is amplified by descriptions of the historical sites as the traveller finds them today. The book is illustrated with 255 photographs, color and black-and-white, showing ancient objects, art works, unusual architecture, landscapes and people. There are 50 original maps by Hammond.

"Archaeological digs under way in the Biblical lands are staffed not only by professional field archaeologists, but by specialized geologists, biologists, anthropologists, ethnologists, potters, surveyors, photographers, artists and even computer experts," Frank says.

It was lack of funds that led to a call for volunteers, he says, and thousands from 28 countries applied in answer to the first international call for unpaid workers to increase manpower.

"The Gezer Expedition was the first to turn from the idea of a purely work force to a training dig to seek to instruct the volunteers in various phases of excavating technique. When the Joint Expedition to Tell el-Hesi went into the field for the first time in 1970, it did so with two purposes: to recover the occupational history of one of the most famous sites in Israel, and to offer volunteers an opportunity to obtain field experience under talented teachers and skilled archaeologists," Frank says.

Archaeological recovery of ancient life has tended at point after point to show with what faithfulness the Biblical writers recorded contemporary events, Frank says.

"This indicates that the Bible as a primary historical document is a trustworthy guide to those events and situations which it describes," Frank says.

He emphasizes, however, that there is a sharp distinction between the interpretation of the historian, the archaeologist and the theologian, and that the historical accuracy must be considered separately from the truth of theological interpretation. "Faith is its own justification," he says.

Northern Ireland Minister To Speak In New Buffalo

NEW BUFFALO — The Rev. Ivan Foster, an associate of the internationally known Irish minister, Dr. Ian Paisley of Belfast, Northern Ireland, will be the guest speaker at the New Buffalo Bible Baptist church, Sunday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Foster has been pastor of the Bethel Free Presbyterian church in Enniskillen for the past six years. He attended Free Presbyterian Theological Hall and was ordained to the ministry in 1968.

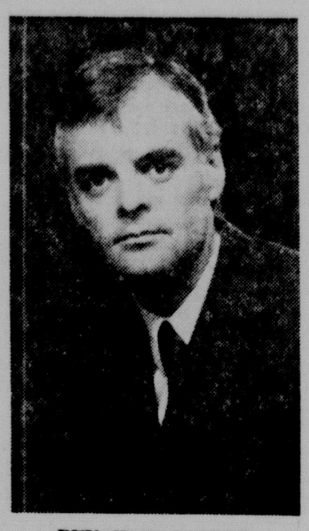

On two ocassions, the Rev. Foster was imprisoned with Dr. Paisley for a period of three months in 1966 and for one month in 1969 rather than compromise their convictions.

The Rev. Foster is being brought from Ireland by Bob Jones university, Greenville, S.C., to speak at the university's annual Bible conference.

The university has booked the Rev. Foster for a limited number of speaking engagements in Fundamental churches while he is in the United States.

Dr. Marion E. Fast, pastor of the New Buffalo Bible Baptist church is a member of the Bob Jones university board of trustees and is acquainted with Dr. Paisley who is a fellow board member.

The public is invited to attend this service and hear of the political and religious conditions in Ireland, according to Dr. Fast.

Jewish-Christian Service Set At SJ Church Sunday

A special Jewish-Christian worship service will be presented at the North Lincoln Baptist church, St. Joseph, at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, April 6.

The public is invited, according to the Rev. Howard Church, pastor.

Speaker for the service will be the Rev. Ben Alpert, missionary-in-charge of the Chicago branch of "The American Board of Missions to the Jews, Inc."

The worship service will be a sermonic presentation in the Orthodox Jewish costume and in the tradition of the great redemption festival that was instituted even before the Ten Commandments. It will be in the version of the Passover essentially as held since the time of the Babylonian captivity, according to the Rev. Church.

At this feast, Jesus appointed the Holy Communion, the Last Supper. Much of the symbolism that exists in the church today is derived from the Passover memorial, the Rev. Church says.

The worship service will be presented by "The American Board of Missions to The Jews," which was founded in 1894 by the former Rabbi, Leopold Conn, and is the largest agency of its kind. It has a staff of more than 50 fulltime missionaries who endeavor to bring the gospel of Christ to Jewish population centers throughout the United States and overseas.

For the evening service at 7 p.m., the film, "The Passover," which was originally made by for television by the Beth Star Shalom Hebrew Christian Fellowship of New York City and aired in several major cities in the United States, Australia, Canada and South America, will be shown.

The Jewish Passover is seen through flickering candles accompanied by the Hebrew national anthem, Hatikvah. The Passover is entwined with the "Last Supper" of Jesus and His disciplies to show the complete relationship between the Jewish feast and the Christian Easter.

THE BIBLE

181. Elijah Is Taken to Heaven

When the time came for the Lord to take Elijah to heaven in a whirlwind, Elijah asked Elisha to remain in Gilgal, but Elisha swore never to leave the great prophet. They went on to Bethel, then to Jericho, and finally to the Jordan River. At each place Elisha was asked to stay behind, but each time he insisted upon accompanying Elijah. At the River Jordan, Elijah folded his mantle and struck the water, and the river parted.

"And it came to pass as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven. And Elisha saw it, and he cried, My father, my father! the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof. And he saw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces." (II Kings 2:11-12)

He picked up Elijah's mantle and struck the waters, and again they parted. And the young prophets who saw this knew that the spirit of Elijah rested upon Elisha.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Sugar May Soften Toenails

Dear Ann Landers: I am a newlywed who is too embarrassed to discuss my problem with anyone who knows me. I hope you will reply and not mention the town I live in.

Problem: My husband's toenails are so long and sharp that I spend hours darning his new socks. He wears them only twice or three times and the toenails cut right through.

At night he scratches my legs to pieces. I used to wear pantyhose to bed but he ruined so many pairs by snagging them that I quit. Will you please tell me how to get my guy to trim his darned toenails? He says they don't bother HIM and that I should get off his back. — Clawed In Tennessee

Dear Clawed: You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar, dear. Buy a little pedicure set and offer to take care of your husband's toenails personally. He will find the sudsy water, foot massage and gentle clipping irresistible. Goodbye bleeding ankles and torn socks!

Gift Problem

Dear Ann Landers: My grandchildren range from 3 to 8 years of age. This last holiday was such a hassle I'm still not over it. I bought the three children the same gift with slight differences, such as color and size. They fought the whole day because all three wanted the same gift.

I told my daughter-in-law her children should be taught that a gift is a gift and they should be grateful for whatever they receive. She informed me in blunt terms, and I quote, "If you can't select a different gift for each child, based on age, sex and personality, then please give them all the same thing and prevent a lot of fighting."

Please help us ignorant, misguided grandparents everywhere. Tell us if gifts presented on the same day should be similar, different or identical? — Bewildered In Memphis

Dear Bea: Generally speaking, the age, sex and interest of each child should be considered when selecting a gift. Your grandchildren, however, seem extremely competitive — so, unless you can get some clue from their mom as to what each might like, it would be safer to buy them all the same gift and keep the blood off the rugs.

Quick Comeback

Dear Ann Landers: I know you must be sick to death by this time of the all-boy all-girl family mail, but I do hope you will find room for just one more.

My husband and I had three beautiful daughters. They are almost grown up now, but I remember so well a certain next-door neighbor who used to yell over the fence — "Hey, when are you going to have a boy?" (She was disgustingly smug about having had two of each.)

After a third time I shouted back, "When the girls grow up and get married we'll have the pleasure of three fine sons and someone else will have had the job of raising them. Sons always go over to the wife's family, you know."

That was the last time I heard a peep out of her. I hope you will print this letter so "Mother Of A Harem" will see it. Everyone needs a comeback with a sting in it now and then. This could be hers. — Wouldn't Trade 'em For The World

Dear Wouldn't Trade: Thanks for a lovely what-for. This should net you a new friend.

CONFIDENTIAL to Disappointed In Her And Feeling Betrayed: Why did you expect her to respect the confidence? You didn't when you passed on that choice bit of gossip. Let this be a lesson to you. Keep your lip zipped and you won't have to worry about being "betrayed."

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex—Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 6, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be a little pushed out of shape when your impulsive, generous gesture is not fully appreciated. Don't give in order to get.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Another will try to use you today to make himself look good in front of an audience. Let him know you're not a patsy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something you'll say unthinkingly will wound a sensitive friend. Apologize promptly so it doesn't leave a scar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful not to impose too selfishly upon the kindness of one who has already gone out of his way for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't ask advice from a close companion today unless you're prepared for a candid reply. What you'd hear would likely displease you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pay particular attention to common sense health practices today. Be moderate physically, and in partaking of the good things of life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Cupid will hit you with a few blunt arrows today, if you're too possessive or demanding of your loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't rule the roost with too heavy a hand today. Friction can be avoided if you aren't too impatient or temperamental.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to do more talking and thinking about what should be done at this time instead of doing it. Get off your duff. Act.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Yesterday you were a wise and prudent shopper. Not so today. Be careful. You could buy a pig in a poke.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be understanding and tolerant of one weaker than yourself today. Encouraging words and a pat on the back will be deeply appreciated.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be too flirtatious or coy today. It could backfire if someone you were just putting on a bit takes you seriously.

FOR MONDAY APRIL 7, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be alert for opportunity from an unexpected quarter today. Prompt action and a quick decision will be called for.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) One you're very friendly with will awaken your interest regarding a new project with unusual fringe benefits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The next few days will offer some unique possibilities to advance your status where work or career is concerned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) By adding just a slight twist you can use something you've learned from past experience to solve a present problem.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) In business dealings today don't take things at face value alone. With a little imagination you may be able to gain a bonus.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll do your best thinking under pressure today. This will give you an advantage the competition didn't allow for.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your financial and career prospects are very promising now. Clever ideas and work well-done will pay larger-than-usual rewards.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something of importance in the personal sense can be advanced now through several of your social contacts. Ask their help.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The next few days' conditions will be more to your liking regarding a matter you want finalized. Stay on top of it till completion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A decision of yours will be helpfully influenced by the advice you'll receive from a friend with a vivid imagination.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Some unusual conditions are at work that will have an effect upon your finances. A small windfall may come your way.

April 6, 1975

You'll tackle a challenging project this year. It's loaded with possibilities. It will prove successful if you're patient and lay a sound foundation.

Your Birthday

April 7, 1975

Rewards will come to you this year from something you did for another in the past. This person will present you with an opportunity for surprising profit.

A new technique is being used to help the growth of bone. Fractures that failed to heal, and some birth defects, are responding to stimulation by electrical current.

Dr. Andrew Bassett, of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, has devised an electro-magnetic method for the healing of bone.

It is believed that this method may reduce by many months the rehabilitation of people with fractures that fail to heal.

Baths of hot wax, have been used for centuries for the treatment of a variety of conditions.

This has been revived by Dr. Robert T. Pettigrew, at Great Britain's Edinburgh Royal Infirmary. He has been using hot wax baths for seriously ill cancer patients.

He has found that many patients who were incapacitated, responded remarkably well to the hot baths, and showed dramatic improvement. In fact, cancer cells that in some instances did not react to any other form of treatment seemed to be more vulnerable to this form of treatment.

The high temperatures that can be induced by this method holds great promise in carefully selected patients.

A number of hospitals in the United States will try to repeat Dr. Pettigrew's findings. If successful, there may be wider applications for this revival of an old form of treatment.

A pressurized, inflatable plastic boot is being used at the King's College Hospital in London to reduce clots in deep veins of the leg.

Dr. L.T. Cotton, in a large group of clinical cases, has been able to reduce by 80 per cent this complication of surgery.

The method is being tried in the United States and the results here, too, are very impressive.

Thousands of cases will be studied at random, in an effort to substantiate the present promising value of the plastic boot.

Organize Foundation

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Singing Teachers' Association, which had planned to commemorate the 30th anniversary of tenor Richard Tucker's Metropolitan Opera debut by presenting him with its Citation for Distinguished Achievement by an American Singer, made the presentation to his widow.

Mrs. Tucker announced the organization of the Richard Tucker Music Foundation. The foundation, with Mrs. Tucker as chairman, will embark on various projects in aid of young singers.

Tucker was born in Brooklyn and entirely trained in the United States. He died Jan. 8, 17 days before his 30th anniversary at the Met.

South wasn't proud of his three notrump call, but he had that allergy about being shut out by a preemptive bid. In any event the game was rubber bridge, the hour late and South wanted to get home.

If West had opened a heart South would almost surely have found himself left with an unfinished rubber, but West opened his fourth best club and South counted quickly to nine tricks.

He went right up with dummy's ace of clubs. He needed two entries to dummy and he could not afford a heart shift.

He led a spade at trick two. East ducked and South was in with the king. He led out high diamonds. The queen might drop but South didn't really care. He needed just four diamond tricks and they were certain.

What do you do now?

A — Pass. You will probably beat four clubs but a double is really bad percentage.

Dr. Lester DeBoer, pastor of the Kalamazoo Bible church, will be speaker.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Sugar May Soften Toenails

Dear Ann Landers: I am a newlywed who is too embarrassed to discuss my problem with anyone who knows me. I hope you will reply and not mention the town I live in.

Problem: My husband's toenails are so long and sharp that I spend hours darning his new socks. He wears them only twice or three times and the toenails cut right through.

At night he scratches my legs to pieces. I used to wear pantyhose to bed but he ruined so many pairs by snagging them that I quit. Will you please tell me how to get my guy to trim his darned toenails? He says they don't bother HIM and that I should get off his back. — Clawed In Tennessee

Dear Clawed: You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar, dear. Buy a little pedicure set and offer to take care of your husband's toenails personally. He will find the sudsy water, foot massage and gentle clipping irresistible. Goodbye bleeding ankles and torn socks!

Gift Problem

Dear Ann Landers: My grandchildren range from 3 to 8 years of age. This last holiday was such a hassle I'm still not over it. I bought the three children the same gift with slight differences, such as color and size. They fought the whole day because all three wanted the same gift.

I told my daughter-in-law her children should be taught that a gift is a gift and they should be grateful for whatever they receive. She informed me in blunt terms, and I quote, "If you can't select a different gift for each child, based on age, sex and personality, then please give them all the same thing and prevent a lot of fighting."

Please help us ignorant, misguided grandparents everywhere. Tell us if gifts presented on the same day should be similar, different or identical? — Bewildered In Memphis

Dear Bea: Generally speaking, the age, sex and interest of each child should be considered when selecting a gift. Your grandchildren, however, seem extremely competitive — so, unless you can get some clue from their mom as to what each might like, it would be safer to buy them all the same gift and keep the blood off the rugs.

Quick Comeback

Dear Ann Landers: I know you must be sick to death by this time of the all-boy all-girl family mail, but I do hope you will find room for just one more.

My husband and I had three beautiful daughters. They are almost grown up now, but I remember so well a certain next-door neighbor who used to yell over the fence — "Hey, when are you going to have a boy?" (She was disgustingly smug about having had two of each.)

After a third time I shouted back, "When the girls grow up and get married we'll have the pleasure of three fine sons and someone else will have had the job of raising them. Sons always go over to the wife's family, you know."

That was the last time I heard a peep out of her. I hope you will print this letter so "Mother Of A Harem" will see it. Everyone needs a comeback with a sting in it now and then. This could be hers. — Wouldn't Trade 'em For The World

Dear Wouldn't Trade: Thanks for a lovely what-for. This should net you a new friend.

CONFIDENTIAL to Disappointed In Her And Feeling Betrayed: Why did you expect her to respect the confidence? You didn't when you passed on that choice bit of gossip. Let this be a lesson to you. Keep your lip zipped and you won't have to worry about being "betrayed."

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex—Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 6, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be a little pushed out of shape when your impulsive, generous gesture is not fully appreciated. Don't give in order to get.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Another will try to use you today to make himself look good in front of an audience. Let him know you're not a patsy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something you'll say unthinkingly will wound a sensitive friend. Apologize promptly so it doesn't leave a scar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful not to impose too selfishly upon the kindness of one who has already gone out of his way for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't ask advice from a close companion today unless you're prepared for a candid reply. What you'd hear would likely displease you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pay particular attention to common sense health practices today. Be moderate physically, and in partaking of the good things of life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Cupid will hit you with a few blunt arrows today, if you're too possessive or demanding of your loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't rule the roost with too heavy a hand today. Friction can be avoided if you aren't too impatient or temperamental.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to do more talking and thinking about what should be done at this time instead of doing it. Get off your duff. Act.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Yesterday you were a wise and prudent shopper. Not so today. Be careful. You could buy a pig in a poke.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be understanding and tolerant of one weaker than yourself today. Encouraging words and a pat on the back will be deeply appreciated.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be too flirtatious or coy today. It could backfire if someone you were just putting on a bit takes you seriously.

FOR MONDAY APRIL 7, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be alert for opportunity from an unexpected quarter today. Prompt action and a quick decision will be called for.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) One you're very friendly with will awaken your interest regarding a new project with unusual fringe benefits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The next few days will offer some unique possibilities to advance your status where work or career is concerned.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) By adding just a slight twist you can use something you've learned from past experience to solve a present problem.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) In business dealings today don't take things at face value alone. With a little imagination you may be able to gain a bonus.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll do your best thinking under pressure today. This will give you an advantage the competition didn't allow for.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your financial and career prospects are very promising now. Clever ideas and work well-done will pay larger-than-usual rewards.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something of importance in the personal sense can be advanced now through several of your social contacts. Ask their help.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The next few days' conditions will be more to your liking regarding a matter you want finalized. Stay on top of it till completion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A decision of yours will be helpfully influenced by the advice you'll receive from a friend with a vivid imagination.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Some unusual conditions are at work that will have an effect upon your finances. A small windfall may come your way.

A new technique is being used to help the growth of bone. Fractures that failed to heal, and some birth defects, are responding to stimulation by electrical current.

Dr. Andrew Bassett, of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, has devised an electro-magnetic method for the healing of bone.

It is believed that this method may reduce by many months the rehabilitation of people with fractures that fail to heal.

Baths of hot wax, have been used for centuries for the treatment of a variety of conditions.

This has been revived by Dr. Robert T. Pettigrew, at Great Britain's Edinburgh Royal Infirmary. He has been using hot wax baths for seriously ill cancer patients.

He has found that many patients who were incapacitated, responded remarkably well to the hot baths, and showed dramatic improvement. In fact, cancer cells that in some instances did not react to any other form of treatment seemed to be more vulnerable to this form of treatment.

The high temperatures that can be induced by this method holds great promise in carefully selected patients.

A number of hospitals in the United States will try to repeat Dr. Pettigrew's findings. If successful, there may be wider applications for this revival of an old form of treatment.

A pressurized, inflatable plastic boot is being used at the King's College Hospital in London to reduce clots in deep veins of the leg.

Dr. L.T. Cotton, in a large group of clinical cases, has been able to reduce by 80 per cent this complication of surgery.

The method is being tried in the United States and the results here, too, are very impressive.

Thousands of cases will be studied at random, in an effort to substantiate the present promising value of the plastic boot.

Sagging Economy Catches State Lottery

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The sagging economy has caught up with the Michigan lottery, and officials are no longer talking in terms of exceeding last year's collection figures. "We hope that it's a $65 million year for the 12 months ending in June," said Dave Hanson, a lottery bureau spokesman.

That was the amount of revenue the state collected from the game for the fiscal year ending last June 30. "In good economic times we would hope to exceed last year's figure. In bad times, like now, we hope to meet that figure. Our best customers are factory workers and they are hardest hit by unemployment," Hanson said.

Lottery revenue to the state for the nine months ending March 31 is still $2 million ahead of the previous period — $50 million compared to $48 million for the same period a year ago, according to figures released Friday. Ticket sales and revenue, however, have been down slightly each month since last November, partly due to the recession, said Hanson. Revenue for March, for example, was about $2.65 million, compared to $2.85 million for the same month last year, said Hanson.

"But we're still ahead of last year over-all, and we anticipate the introduction of the new $1 game will start to pick business up slightly," the lottery spokesman emphasized.

Lottery officials said comparing the latest figures with those of a year ago is complicated by several factors which affect sales. First, $1 lottery tickets went on sale permanently last Oct. 10 as an addition to the 50-cent tickets.

Second, lottery chief Gus Harrison has introduced a series of bonuses and special prizes from month to month. For example, during March of last year the lottery offered a special March Madness contest of special cash prizes, which unquestionably boosted ticket sales.

The lottery bureau sold 5.17 million $1 and 50-cent tickets in November 1974. In November 1973, a total of 5.199 million 50-cent tickets were sold. Other figures, comparing the more recent month with the same month a year ago:

December, 4.6 million to 5.3 million tickets; January, 4.95 million tickets to 5.3 million; and February, 5.3 million to 5.5 million.

FUNERAL SERVICES: Pallbearers carry one of eleven caskets into burial services for the Charity Ruppert family in a Mt. Healthy, Ohio, cemetery Friday. Mrs. Ruppert and her son Leonard's family were found shot to death Easter night in her Hamilton, Ohio, home. Her other son, James, has been charged with aggravated murder in the case. (AP Wirephoto)

AMC Wagoneer Recall

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors is recalling 1,671 of its 1975 Jeep Cherokee Wagoneer and truck models to screen for a possibly defective weld on the accelerator pedal. AMC said Friday the substandard weld on vehicles built between March 10 and March 20 could result in a loosening of the pedal and cause the engine to return automatically to an idling position.

Sagging Economy Catches State Lottery

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The sagging economy has caught up with the Michigan lottery, and officials are no longer talking in terms of exceeding last year's collection figures. "We hope that it's a $65 million year for the 12 months ending in June," said Dave Hanson, a lottery bureau spokesman.

That was the amount of revenue the state collected from the game for the fiscal year ending last June 30. "In good economic times we would hope to exceed last year's figure. In bad times, like now, we hope to meet that figure. Our best customers are factory workers and they are hardest hit by unemployment," Hanson said.

Lottery revenue to the state for the nine months ending March 31 is still $2 million ahead of the previous period — $50 million compared to $48 million for the same period a year ago, according to figures released Friday. Ticket sales and revenue, however, have been down slightly each month since last November, partly due to the recession, said Hanson. Revenue for March, for example, was about $2.65 million, compared to $2.85 million for the same month last year, said Hanson.

"But we're still ahead of last year over-all, and we anticipate the introduction of the new $1 game will start to pick business up slightly," the lottery spokesman emphasized.

Lottery officials said comparing the latest figures with those of a year ago is complicated by several factors which adfect sales. First, $1 lottery tickets went on sale permanently last Oct. 10 as an addition to the 50-cent tickets.

Second, lottery chief Gus Harrison has introduced a series of bonuses and special prizes from month to month. For example, during March of last year the lottery offered a special March Madness contest of special cash prizes, which unquestionably boosted ticket sales.

The lottery bureau sold 5.17 million $1 and 50-cent tickets in November 1974. In November 1973, a total of 5.199 million 50-cent tickets were sold. Other figures, comparing the more recent month with the same month a year ago:

December, 4.6 million to 5.3 million tickets; January, 4.95 million tickets to 5.3 million; and February, 5.3 million to 5.5 million.

AMC Wagoneer Recall

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors is recalling 1,671 of its 1975 Jeep Cherokee Wagoneer and truck models to screen for a possibly defective weld on the accelerator pedal. AMC said Friday the substandard weld on vehicles built between March 10 and March 20 could result in a loosening of the pedal and cause the engine to return automatically to an idling position.

Hughes' Spruce Goose Won't Be Chopped Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A public outcry from aviation buffs around the country has led to a one-year postponement of a plan to dismantle billionaire Howard Hughes' huge flying boat, the Spruce Goose.

"It was purely that," said Director Michael Collins of the Smithsonian's Air and Space Museum of the letter campaign after the Feb. 27 announcement of the plan. Under the plan, the huge wooden craft would be sliced up for display at the Smithsonian and at eight other U.S. museums.

Collins confirmed Friday that he had agreed with the Hughes conglomerate firm, Summa Corporation, for the delay.

"It seems too bad to me to have the Smithsonian responsible for cutting it up if someone is willing to build a place to exhibit it in Southern California," Collins said.

"If someone comes along with a good idea, the Smithsonian won't stand in the way."

The airplane, known officially as the HK1 and popularly as the "Flying Lumberyard" and the "Spruce Goose," was in some respects the largest airplane ever built.

Constructed by the Hughes organization near the end of World War II when metals were scarce, it was built largely of plywood, using techniques never before employed. It had a wingspan of 320 feet, fully 60 per cent longer than that of today's Boeing 747.

The plane was flown only once, in November 1947 with Hughes at the controls, at a time when the $17-million contract for the craft was under critical investigation by a Senate subcommittee.

Collins, the former astronaut who now directs the Air and Space Museum, announced in February that the plane — which Hughes has maintained since it was built — would be sliced into pieces and a 51-foot section displayed at the Smithsonian's new air museum, due to open on July 4, 1976.

An outpouring of letters and other protests from the public — not organized by any one group, a Smithsonian spokesman said — led to a change in plans.

Vanity Plates May Go Patriotic

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Patriotic slogans from America's 200-year history could be top attention getters for 1976 Michigan vanity license plates, Secretary of State Richard Austin said Friday.

"TRUMAN" is one that probably will be snapped up in the resurgence of popularity for the 33rd president. "JULY 4," "1976," "USA," and even "A. BURR" are other possibilities.

Vanity plates cost $25 more than regular plates. They must have at least two numbers or letters and no more than six.

"AMERICA" is one letter too long.

Personalized plates must be ordered from May 1 through June 30 this year. More than 5,000 personalized plates are now in use, ranging from simple first and last names to zippier things like, "BOW WOW," "GAS HOG," and "JOY B2U," Austin said.

Applications can be picked up at secretary of state branch offices beginning April 15, Austin said.

Planned ADC Cut Attacked

DETROIT (AP) — A crash program to cut down on fraud in Aid to Dependent Children welfare cases came under attack Friday as a "purge" and an "overly broad attempt to drop thousands of eligible families."

A spokesman for the Detroit Task Force on Hunger, Dick Skutt, on Friday criticized the "corrective action plan" ordered by Social Services Director John Dempsey on March 20.

"This program is specifically designed to discourage participation in the ADC program, a fact which is particularly obnoxious at this point when ADC provides the only salvation available for several hundred thousand people whether the current economy recovers or not," Skutt said.

Under the review program, 120,000 of the families are receiving mailed questionaires that they must return within 20 days. Another 24,000 families are being visited at home, while the remaining 70,000 are being asked to call on their local welfare office.

Skutt says many illiterate ADC recipients or those who cannot speak English may lose benefits because of inability to fill out the forms.

Blues Would 'Welcome' Cost Containment Talks

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Blue Cross-Blue Shield says it would welcome discussions on cost containment — after its 33 per cent rate hike request is taken care of.

"We said last year and we say again this year that we are willing and anxious to talk about any possible cost containment efforts," Blues Treasurer Clifford Gardner told hearing officer Kenneth DeShetler today.

DeShetler is conducting formal hearings on the rate increase request.

Gardner asked DeShetler to disallow any testimony by Kenneth Tannenbaum, deputy director of the Michigan Insurance Bureau.

Tannenbaum has called the Blues' request "fantastic" and has said it can't be considered without looking at ways the Blues can cut or contain costs.

Gardner accused the insurance bureau of bringing the cost containment question up at the last minute to muddy the waters.

"We do not feel that the Michigan Insurance Bureau should remain silent on these issues during the year, only to suddenly trot them out during rate hearings," he said.

The Blues' requested rate increase would bring them an extra $300 million in the next year.

Gardner said there isn't much time during the rate hearing schedule to discuss "in any reasonable manner" such cost containment questions as health care utilization, hospital beds, utilization review or prospective reimbursement.

"We'd like to have public hearings on the subjects at any time they can be thoroughly considered," he said.

Blasts U.S. Officials

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — World Airways President Edward J. Daly, who flew more than 50 Vietnam orphans here this week, has accused the Army and State Department of failing to cooperate with his airline's offers of more assistance.

Support Grows To Scrap Michigan Primary Election

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who won the 1972 Democratic presidential primary in Michigan, may not get a chance to repeat the performance if he seeks the nation's highest office again next year.

The chairman of the state House Elections Committee says there is growing sentiment to scrap Michigan's presidential preference primary election.

"There is a 50-50 shot that there won't be a presidential primary in Michigan in 1976. It cost $3 million in 1972 and didn't mean a thing," Rep. Alfred Sheridan, D-Taylor, said Friday.

The primary costs too much and isn't worth the trouble, he explained. He said getting rid of the primary would not be an attempt to erode Wallace's political base.

"The feeling for George Wallace in Michigan is there, with or without a primary," he said.

Sheridan said he will soon introduce two bills to get rid of or modify Michigan's presidential primary.

One would push the election back from May to June, when other candidates run in the regular state primary. That would be a less expensive two-in-one package, Sheridan said.

The other bill would eliminate the presidential primary altogether.

The 1972 presidential primary was Michigan's first in 40 years. Wallace captured a stunning 51 per cent of the Democratic votes, while South Dakota Sen. George McGovern polled 27 per cent and Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey got 16 per cent.

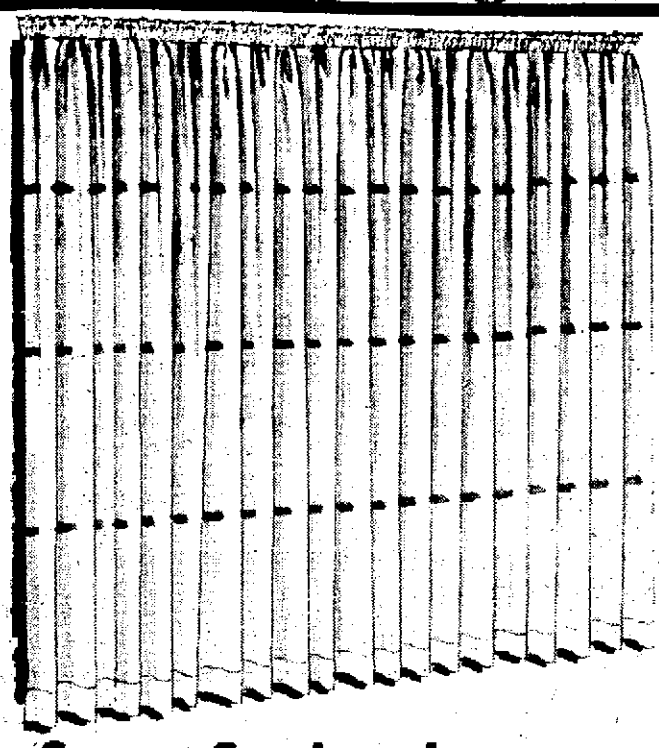

"We had a $3 million popularity contest that didn't mean a thing. The man who won the primary didn't get any consideration in the final stages of the national convention," Sheridan said. The state paid the election costs.

Sun Heat Reduces Expenses

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The owner of a solar energy house built in Connecticut lives there three or four days a week.

Except for one week in December, enough solar heat was generated during each winter week to take care of the demand over the weekend. In addition to the solar energy equipment itself, other design elements boost the efficiency of energy usage year-round.

Clerestory windows in back of the roof sheds formed by the solar collectors provide natural lighting and ventilation for summer cooling. Roof overhangs protect the one and one-half-story wall of windows facing south from excessive heat gain when the sun is high in summer, yet assist heat gain when the sun is low in winter.

The large window wall also draws attention to the role that windows play in energy conservation. The natural light provided by the window area cuts down on the need for artificial lighting in the daytime. Sliding glass doors and fixed picture windows flanked by operating casements provide ventilation, thus reducing air conditioning loads.

"We've found that windows are very important in solar heated homes," architect Donald Watson says.

"Research indicates that a homeowner can expect a minimum of 25 per cent of his annual heating requirements from a well-organized window design facing south with insulating shutters that retain heat inside the house at night."

The windows in the Connecticut house are quality wood window units with insulating glass — two panes of glass with an insulating air space between.

"A top-quality, wood-framed window with insulating glass backed by an insulating shutter to limit heat loss at night," Watson says, "is a superior heat collector to some of the inexpensive solar panels currently available."

"These low-cost panels have just been put on the market," he adds, "so nobody knows how long they'll last. Good windows, on the other hand, often last as long as the house."

What about costs?

"A solar energy system costing $3,500 and providing 50 to 75 per cent of a home's heating requirements would slash $400 to $600 from the annual fuel bill of the average house and return the investment in six to nine years."

— Rick Krijawa, of Niles, to erect a chain link fence around the Goldblatt's department store, Fairplain plaza, 1889 M-139, $2,287.

— Frank Yates, 2221 Irving drive, to construct a family room addition to his house at that address, $2,000.

— Gerald Still, of Coloma, to repair fire damage to a dwelling he owns at 1290 Rose avenue, $1,500.

—Robert Hettinger, 2800 Territorial, to re-roof a dwelling for himself at that address, $900.

— Richard Shaffer, 1301 Pearl, to erect a chain link fence for himself at that address, $662.

— Beulah Cromer, 2259 Irving drive, to demolish a shed for himself at that address.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I have just read a government pamphlet that says the ideal place to install a thermostat is between 2½ and 3 feet off the floor. Why is it, then, that every thermostat I have ever seen is about 5 feet high on a wall?

A. — Because a thermostat placed at the recommended height would not be practical. For one thing, it could be easily bumped or manipulated by children. For another, it would not be easy to read. Placement of a thermostat at about 5 feet high is fine. More important is that it should not be placed near outside doors, windows, hot water pipes, radiators or directly in line with the rays of the sun — in other words, it should be on a wall where the surrounding air is reasonably average for the whole house.

Q. — I intend to build a retaining wall of concrete. What kind of concrete mixture should be used?

A. — While a 1:3:4 mixture (one part of cement to 3 parts of sand and 4 parts of gravel) is generally used, a 1:2½:3½ mixture will make a stronger wall. Remember that too much water in the mixture will weaken the concrete.

Q. — Within a few weeks I expect to begin making a couple of window boxes with some pine wood I have on hand. There are a number of knots in the wood. Do they have to be treated with anything before the window boxes are painted?

A. — Yes. Prime them with one of the products designed for sealing knots or with shellac.

Q. — We recently moved into a house that has a hall closet with no door on it. I can see why, because there really isn't enough space for the door to swing open all the way. Since we are using the closet for clothes, not boxes, as the other family did, I'd like to buy a door for it. Is there a particular type for this kind of opening or must I use a sliding door?

A. — A sliding door must be built into the wall, involving considerable carpentry. Double doors of the sliding type that bypass each other are good and not as much work to install, but some persons don't like them because only half a closet is accessible at one time. Nevertheless, they are quite popular. A folding door of the accordion variety and bi-fold doors are other possibilities.

There are so many different kinds of modern doors on the market, designed for closets where home owners do not have or want swing space, that your best bet is to visit a dealer where several models are on display and others are illustrated in catalogs. You can then make a choice based on style, cost and ease of installation.

LUBRICANT

NEW YORK (AP) — When tool blades and other metals are not intended to be painted, a regular application of oil or other lubricant will provide sufficient protection.

Two Municipalities Grant Four Permits

In New Buffalo, permits went to:

Richard Krueger, 217 West Clay street, for a cement and glass building to surround a swimming pool, estimated cost $6,794; Lawrence Bauer, 202 South Willard street, utility shed, $150; and Oselka Construction company, to raze a residence on Stromer road, $1,500.

In Watervliet township, Building Inspector Donald Muth issued a permit to Contractor John Walter of Boyer road, Coloma, to construct a 12 by 16-foot addition to a house owned by Joseph Novotny at 228 Summit drive. Estimated cost: $2,500.

Sun Heat Reduces Expenses

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The owner of a solar energy house built in Connecticut lives there three or four days a week.

Except for one week in December, enough solar heat was generated during each winter week to take care of the demand over the weekend. In addition to the solar energy equipment itself, other design elements boost the efficiency of energy usage year-round.

Clerestory windows in back of the roof sheds formed by the solar collectors provide natural lighting and ventilation for summer cooling. Roof overhangs protect the one and one-half-story wall of windows facing south from excessive heat gain when the sun is high in summer, yet assist heat gain when the sun is low in winter.

The large window wall also draws attention to the role that windows play in energy conservation. The natural light provided by the window area cuts down on the need for artificial lighting in the daytime. Sliding glass doors and fixed picture windows flanked by operating casements provide ventilation, thus reducing air conditioning loads.

"We've found that windows are very important in solar heated homes," architect Donald Watson says.

"Research indicates that a homeowner can expect a minimum of 25 per cent of his annual heating requirements from a well-organized window design facing south with insulating shutters that retain heat inside the house at night."

The windows in the Connecticut house are quality wood window units with insulating glass — two panes of glass with an insulating air space between.

"A top-quality, wood-framed window with insulating glass backed by an insulating shutter to limit heat loss at night," Watson says, "is a superior heat collector to some of the inexpensive solar panels currently available."

"These low-cost panels have just been put on the market," he adds, " so nobody knows how long they'll last. Good windows, on the other hand, often last as long as the house."

What about costs?

"A solar energy system costing $3,500 and providing 50 to 75 per cent of a home's heating requirements would slash $400 to $600 from the annual fuel bill of the average house and return the investment in six to nine years."

— Dual Builders, to change roof style on a service station at 1827 M-139, at the Fairplain plaza, $4,000.

— Voyd Thomas, Benton Harbor, to make general repairs to a dwelling at 270 Burton, which is owned by Homer Walker, $3,500.

— Voyd Thomas, Benton Harbor, to make general repairs to a dwelling at 1019 East Main, which is owned by Oliver Richardson, $3,500.

— Rick Krijawa, of Niles, to erect a chain link fence around the Goldblatt's department store, Fairplain plaza, 1889 M-139, $2,287.

— Frank Yates, 2221 Irving drive, to construct a family room addition to his house at that address, $2,000.

— Gerald Still, of Coloma, to repair fire damage to a dwelling he owns at 1290 Rose avenue, $1,500.

—Robert Hettinger, 2800 Territorial, to re-roof a dwelling for himself at that address, $900.

— Richard Shaffer, 1301 Pearl, to erect a chain link fence for himself at that address, $662.

— Beulah Cromer, 2259 Irving drive, to demolish a shed for himself at that address.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I have just read a government pamphlet that says the ideal place to install a thermostat is between 2½ and 3 feet off the floor. Why is it, then, that every thermostat I have ever seen is about 5 feet high on a wall?

A. — Because a thermostat placed at the recommended height would not be practical. For one thing, it could be easily bumped or manipulated by children. For another, it would not be easy to read. Placement of a thermostat at about 5 feet high is fine. More important is that it should not be placed near outside doors, windows, hot water pipes, radiators or directly in line with the rays of the sun — in other words, it should be on a wall where the surrounding air is reasonably average for the whole house.

Q. — I intend to build a retaining wall of concrete. What kind of concrete mixture should be used?

A. — While a 1:3:4 mixture (one part of cement to 3 parts of sand and 4 parts of gravel) is generally used, a 1:2½:3½ mixture will make a stronger wall. Remember that too much water in the mixture will weaken the concrete.

Q. — Within a few weeks I expect to begin making a couple of window boxes with some pine wood I have on hand. There are a number of knots in the wood. Do they have to be treated with anything before the window boxes are painted?

A. — Yes. Prime them with one of the products designed for sealing knots or with shellac.

Q. — We recently moved into a house that has a hall closet with no door on it. I can see why, because there really isn't enough space for the door to swing open all the way. Since we are using the closet for clothes, not boxes, as the other family did, I'd like to buy a door for it. Is there a particular type for this kind of opening or must I use a sliding door?

A. — A sliding door must be built into the wall, involving considerable carpentry. Double doors of the sliding type that bypass each other are good and not as much work to install, but some persons don't like them because only half a closet is accessible at one time. Nevertheless, they are quite popular. A folding door of the accordion variety and bi-fold doors are other possibilities.

There are so many different kinds of modern doors on the market, designed for closets where home owners do not have or want swing space, that your best bet is to visit a dealer where several models are on display and others are illustrated in catalogs. You can then make a choice based on style, cost and ease of installation.

LUBRICANT

NEW YORK (AP) — When tool blades and other metals are not intended to be painted, a regular application of oil or other lubricant will provide sufficient protection.

Legislators In No Rush To Act On Juvenile Code

By MARY SCHEER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — No one is predicting fast action on a bill revamping Michigan's juvenile code.

"The issue is a very emotional one," said Rep. Lynn Jondahl, D-East Lansing, the bill's sponsor. "We'll go into extended periods of deliberation and won't see fast action." He said action might not come for 11-12 months.

Oakland County Probate Court Judge Eugene Moore of the Michigan Association of Probate Judges said his association would like at least a year of in-depth study on the measure. Moore is chairman of the association's Juvenile Affairs Committee.

The bill spells out for the first time uniform procedures and requirements for juvenile courts throughout the state, Jondahl said. Currently "we have 83 systems of juvenile justice, one in each county." He said the bill spells out in the code for the first time certain rights of detained juveniles regarding solitary confinement, hair length and dress.

The bill forbids a youngster under 14 to waive right to counsel and bars any statement by a youngster under age 14 from being admitted in evidence unless it's made in the presence of his attorney.

Moore says the probate judges want to help smooth out the bill's rough edges and don't intend to flatly stand in its way, but some provisions have raised major disagreement.

One of the major areas of contention is the removal of status offenses — truancy, running away, drinking, curfew violations — from the juvenile court's jurisdiction. This will put these problems in the hands of existing agencies designed to handle them, Jondahl said. As it stands now, he said, there's too much reliance on the courts to handle these problems.

For a family with a problem child in these areas, especially low income families, Jondahl said, the bill would make getting help easier and a more private affair.

"Any parents now who have a problem are very reluctant to file a petition against the child. They're worried as far as personal pride, and what might be the effect of the label the child would get," Jondahl said.

"Under our revision they would be able to select services in the same sense other people now do who have higher income," he said. "Our hope is that, as far as status offenses go, whenever possible a juvenile offender be kept in his own home if possible, provided necessary services exist."

Where services don't exist, Jondahl said, the bill lists options for treating the problem.

The probate judges want a compromise on this issue, Moore said.

"We think the court ought to be the last resort. If the family or child are not amenable to voluntary resources, or if that resource doesn't exist, there has to be some final authority which says: 'No child, you can't run away at the age of 14.'"

The bill raises from 17 to 18 the maximum age limit of a juvenile.

"We're just using the logic of the age of majority," Jondahl said. "Studies recommend the age of majority be the cutoff age."

The judges "have no objection, provided the legislature puts in the bill the resources to work with those 17-year-olds," Moore said. "If we're going to take them out of adult court we don't think they should be comingled with 13-year-olds or 14-year-olds in the same institution but should be provided with separate facilities."

The bill requires that on a juvenile's 18th birthday or on the termination of juvenile court jurisdiction all juvenile records be destroyed.

"The whole rationale for the juvenile court system is based upon the desire to make it unique, acknowledging juveniles are in their formative years," Jondahl said. "Those records ought to be expunged — that's a unique age and jurisdiction."

That's fine, Moore said, except in "some cases, probably the very serious types like serious assault, armed robbery, murder, these kinds of things.

"While they should not be public while the person is a juvenile, if that same individual as an adult gets into trouble and the adult court judge is ready to sentence, he should be entitled to know whether that person had a long record of, say, armed robberies as a juvenile, otherwise he won't know whether to put him on probation or in jail."

Jondahl said the bill's financial costs haven't been figured yet, but Moore warned they could run high.

More juvenile court judges would have to be hired, he said, because the bill would forbid referees from taking pleas or hearing contested or noncontested hearings in which a judicial decision is to be made.

PROMOTED: Wayne C. Dahring of Sawyer, has recently been promoted to sales manager of mid-central region of Esna division of American corporation, Union, N.J., manufacturers of aircraft and individual fasteners. Son of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Dahring, former St. Joseph residents, he and his wife, Sharon, and three children will be moving to Detroit.

Drop Boxes For Voters In '45th'

LANSING — State Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) has announced a new system of communication with voters in his district.

He said "drop boxes" have been placed in every bank in the state's 45th legislative district and district residents can drop comments and questions into the boxes.

Effectiveness of the boxes will get a test soon when questionnaires are mailed out to all registered voters in the district, the two-term legislator said.

Use of the boxes require no postage, he said.

Expansion Application Is Filed

LANSING — Jordan's Nursing home, Inc., 9953 Red Arrow highway, Bridgman, has filed an application for expansion of its facilities, according to officials of the state health department here.

Under the proposed expansion, 42 beds would be added to the existing 63 beds in the long-term care facility which opened early last year. Estimated cost of the project is set at $392,000 with a projected completion date set for December.

The health facility planning and construction division of the state health department must approve the proposed expansion plans before construction can begin, officials said.

Smietanka Will Speak

John A. Smietanka, Berrien county prosecutor, will address the Berrien county Republican Women's club at a luncheon meeting, Wednesday, April 9, at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville, according to Mrs. Bernice Tretheway, club chairman. Smietanka will report on crime in Berrien county and operations of his office, according to Mrs. Tretheway. Reservations for the noon luncheon may be phoned to Mrs. John (Joyce) Collier of Stevensville, or Miss Elsie Eysenbach, Benton Harbor, by Monday, April 7, or by contacting any of the club's executive committee members. All interested women may attend, Mrs. Tretheway said.

Libraries Given Publication

NILES — A publication dealing with learning disabilities among children has been donated to Berrien, Cass and Van Buren county libraries by the southwestern Michigan chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. Mrs. Richard Forbes of Niles said the donation of the publication, "Journal of Learning Disabilities," is one of the group's services to communities in the three-county area.

Hydrant Broken In BH

A broken fire hydrant in Benton Harbor Friday night gushed water for a short time until water department employes turned off a valve, according to city police. Police said the hydrant at Pearl street and East Empire avenue apparently was struck by a vehicle, but there were no known witnesses or skid marks. An area resident called police at 7:34 p.m.

PUMP-OUTS FREQUENT?

Home Sewage Field May Be Too Small

Rural home owners who find they must have their septic tanks pumped out once a year or more probably need a larger disgposal area for their present system.

On the average, a normal septic tank needs to be pumped only once every four or five years, according to the Berrien County Health department.

Pumping a septic tank too often can be costly, as the charge runs from $40 to $60 per 1,000 gallons pumped, Robert Godbold, department environmentalist, pointed out.

Goldbold said any homeowner having his septic tank pumped once a year or more should have his system analyzed by a sewer system installer. He said some of the pumpers in Berrie county are also and can automatically analyze a system that has to be pumped frequently.

Berrien, Cass DARTs Described In Magazine

Dial-A-Ride programs in Berrien and Cass counties were featured in an article published in the February edition of the Kiwanis magazine.

The article was authored by Richard Gosswiller and his wife, Marianne, of Michiana Shores, a village south of New Buffalo. Gosswiller is a freelance writer and former editor of the magazine.

Gosswiller said he wrote the article in connection with Kiwanis clubs which are developing transportation systems for senior citizens. The area Dial-A-Ride programs operate in the Twin Cities and Cassopolis and are designed to provide transportation for the elderly. The programs are primarily federally funded for the first three years of operation.

He said "drop boxes" have been placed in every bank in the state's 45th legislative district and district residents can drop comments and questions into the boxes.

Effectiveness of the boxes will get a test soon when questionnaires are mailed out to all registered voters in the district, the two-term legislator said.

Use of the boxes require no postage, he said.

Expansion Application Is Filed

LANSING — Jordan's Nursing home, Inc., 9953 Red Arrow highway, Bridgman, has filed an application for expansion of its facilities, according to officials of the state health department here.

Under the proposed expansion, 42 beds would be added to the existing 63 beds in the long-term care facility which opened early last year. Estimated cost of the project is set at $392,000 with a projected completion date set for December.

The health facility planning and construction division of the state health department must approve the proposed expansion plans before construction can begin, officials said.

Hydrant Broken In BH

A broken fire hydrant in Benton Harbor Friday night gushed water for a short time until water department employes turned off a valve, according to city police. Police said the hydrant at Pearl street and East Empire avenue apparently was struck by a vehicle, but there were no known witnesses or skid marks. An area resident called police at 7:34 p.m.

PUMP-OUTS FREQUENT?

Home Sewage Field May Be Too Small

Rural home owners who find they must have their septic tanks pumped out once a year or more probably need a larger disgposal area for their present system.

On the average, a normal septic tank needs to be pumped only once every four or five years, according to the Berrien County Health department.

Pumping a septic tank too often can be costly, as the charge runs from $40 to $60 per 1,000 gallons pumped, Robert Godbold, department environmentalist, pointed out.

Goldbold said any homeowner having his septic tank pumped once a year or more should have his system analyzed by a sewer system installer. He said some of the pumpers in Berrie +county are also and can automatically analyze a system that has to be pumped frequently.

Berrien, Cass DARTs Described In Magazine

Dial-A-Ride programs in Berrien and Cass counties were featured in an article published in the February edition of the Kiwanis magazine.

The article was authored by Richard Gosswiller and his wife, Marianne, of Michiana Shores, a village south of New Buffalo. Gosswiller is a freelance writer and former editor of the magazine.

Gosswiller said he wrote the article in connection with Kiwanis clubs which are developing transportation systems for senior citizens. The area Dial-A-Ride programs operate in the Twin Cities and Cassopolis and are designed to provide transportation for the elderly. The programs are primarily federally funded for the first three years of operation.

Terrorist Bomb Rips Building Near Ford Talk

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A terrorist bomb ripped the 21st floor of a Standard Oil Co. of California office building Friday night while President Ford spoke at a hotel five blocks away, police said. There were no reports of injuries.

Ford was finishing a speech to a group of industrial and economic leaders when the bomb went off, but authorites said there was no indication the blast was related to Ford's day-long visit here.

"It looked like a very powerful device," said Police Capt. Ed Laherty. "There was extensive damage to the 21st floor. It buckled walls."

A spokesman for Standard Oil, Dale Basye, said the explosive had been placed in a women's restroom.

Laherty said a preliminary search of several other floors failed to turn up additional explosives.

The San Francisco Police Department was alerted to the impending explosion when an unidentified woman called the switchboard about 9 p.m. PDT. She said a terrorist group calling itself the Red Gherrilla Family placed the device in the building. The caller did not mention Ford, police said.

Thirty-seven employes were evacuated from the building, at 555 Market St. in the heart of the city's financial district, and the explosion occurred about 9:35 p.m., police said.

A second call to the police switchboard about 9:40 p.m. said another bomb would go off on the 15th floor of the building at 10 p.m. No explosion occurred, but the search continued at the cordoned-off skyscraper.

Police said at first that the explosion had taken place on the 15th floor of the structure.

It was not known whether the same woman made both calls. The second call did not refer to any terrorist group, police said.

It was the latest in a wave of terrorist bombings in the San Franncisco Bay area.

At that time, the group said in a communique that the bombing was "to help defend the people from fascist intimidation and harassment." It pledged solidarity with the Weather Underground, the New World Liberation Front and other radical groups.

N-Plant Demand Down Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — Uncertainty about load growth and inability to finance have pushed the demand for nuclear reactors to generate electric power down sharply compared with the last two years, the industry magazine Nucleonics Week says.

In a survey published in its latest issue, the magazine said U.S. manufacturers of nuclear reactors have sales or options for only nine units this year, compared with sales or letters of intent for 29 in 1974 and for 49 in 1973.

taken to San Quentin Prison.

Authorities said Benjamin Thomas Sargis, 41, was arrested as he fled out the rear of the apartment, armed with a loaded 9mm automatic pistol. He was booked for investigation of parole violation and illegal possession of firearms and burglary tools.

Albert Brent Franklin, 23, of Menlo Park, and Rebecca Lokken Hansen, 22, were booked for investigation of harboring a fugitive.

Authorities said the raid followed several months of investigation by the FBI and the sheriff's Organized Crime Unit which showed that several apartment residents were wanted for parole violations and some were carrying out "criminal activities."

In a development related to the Hearst case, an attorney says a federal grand jury investigating the case will not require the elderly and ailing mother of sports activist Jack Scott to testify next week.

The attorney, Doron Weinberg, said the decision came after he provided documented proof that Mrs. John Scott's health would be harmed if she were forced to testify. She suffers from severe hypertension and her condition is aggravated by stress, he said.

"I also had told them that I didn't think she knew anything anyway," Weinberg said. "I don't think that either of the Scotts knew anything."

Mrs. Scott had been subpoenaed for next Thursday's grand jury session. The only known witness now scheduled to testify is former long jumper Phillip Shinnick, a friend of Jack Scott.

Subpoenas for the Mrs. Scott and her husband, who testified earlier, came after reports that their son may have provided hiding places for Miss Hearst and her Symbionese Liberation Army comrades.

Judge Won't Release Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The commercial television networks and a record firm have been turned down for a second time in their efforts to reproduce and play the White House Watergate tapes.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had been asked to permit public access to the 28 tapes used as evidence during the Watergate cover-up trial, which he presided over.

Boards Can Fire Strikers--Court

Supreme Court said.

The appeals court improperly ordered the school board and the union to submit their dispute to compulsory arbitration, the Supreme Court said.

"The Constitution pr ides that it is the legislature, not the judiciary, that has the power to 'enact laws for the resolution of disputes involving public employes,'" the Supreme Court said. "The legislature has chosen to provide for the resolution of impasses in collective bargaining only in the case of municipal police and fire departments. Apart from that enactment, there is no statute for the resolution of impasses in either public or private collective bargaining."

A court "is without power to make a contract for parties or to confer on someone else the power to make a contract for them. By like token, it cannot compel the parties to confer on someone else the power to make a contract," the high court said.

Joining Levin on the majority were Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh and Justices Mary Coleman and John Fitzgerald.

The dissenters agreed with the majority that the appeals court's compulsory arbitration order was improper.

But dissenting justices John B. Swainson, Thomas M. kavanagh and G. Mennen Williams disagreed with the majority on other points.

The Teacher Tenure Act is "the teachers' Magna Carta" and "the heart of it is this guarantee of due process in any discharge proceeding, especially prior notice and hearing," the dissent said.

The Public Employe Relations Act contains no discharge procedure, the dissent said. "As a consequence, it is neither legally nor logically appropriate to say that there is a discharge provision in PERA that conflicts with, and hence repeals by implication, the discharge provisions of the Teacher Tenure Act. The legislature is wrestling with the problem of curbing school strikes. A bill drafted by a special committee is now in the House Labor Committee chaired by Rep. Daisy Elliott, D-Detroit.

Many two-year teacher contracts expire this year, and lawmakers fear that unless adequate legislation is implemented quickly, there may be a repeat of the dozens of strikes that crippled schools around Michigan two years ago.

Esther Williams Found Guilty Of Drunk Driving

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — Actress - swimmer Esther Williams has been found guilty of drunken driving. The 51 - year - old film star was fined $315 and was placed on two years' probation by Municipal Court Judge Albert Blanford.

Miss Williams was driving and her husband, actor Fernando Lamas, was a passenger in a car that was stopped by the California Highway Patrol on Christmas night. Authorities said urine samples showed blood alcohol readings in Miss Williams higher than the reading that legally constitutes drunken driving.

Miss Williams' doctor testified Friday that she suffered from a urinary infection that could make the blood alcohol reading inacurrate, but prosecution medical testimony said the urinary problem would not affect the accuracy of the test.

Star Held In Drug Smuggling

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Thomas Noel Rettig, star of the "Lassie" television series in the 1950s, has been ordered held in lieu of $5,000 bond after arraignment on a charge of conspiring to import cocaine.

U.S. Commissioner Richard Wood set a preliminary hearing Fridayfor April 18 in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

Rettig, 33, was accused of hiding cocaine in a Peruvian liquor bottle, according to Drug Enforcement Administration agents. In December 1972, Rettig was convicted in San Luis Obispo County of cultivation of marijuana. He was sentenced to six months in county jail, but the sentence was suspended and he was put on two years probation.

Bradley Gaining Strength

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors at UCLA Medical Center say Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, "continues to make progress and gain strength" as he recovers from a stroke.

They said Friday, however, that it is not known when he will be released from the hospital.

Wallace's Son To Wed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace Jr., 23 - year - old son of the governor of Alabama, and Janice Culbertson, a 22 - year - old Montgomery artist, will be married on Aug. 16.

The younger Wallace, a songwriter and student at Huntingdon College here, has two married sisters and a younger sister who is still in school. His fiancee describes him as "basically reserved and philosophical."

Reo Truck Posts Bond

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The nation's 10th largest truckmaker, Diamond Reo Trucks Inc., will operate until at least April 16 but only on a parttime basis, a federal judge said Friday.

U.S. Bankruptcy Court Judge Edward Benson said the firm posted a loss indemnity bond of $800,000 to keep working. The money is to assure FMC Corp., a financing company that says it already is owed $7.4 million by the truckmaker, that Diamond Reo will not lose more money. Benson said Diamond Reo lost about $3 million from its operations between Dec. 6 and March 31. The judge denied a request to appoint a receiver for Diamond Reo at least until another hearing April 16.

Worker Layoffs Decline

DETROIT (AP) — Worker layoffs in the nation's auto industry next week will decline by more than 21,000 from this week as the companies plan to operate all but three of their car and truck assembly plants. Layoffs will idle 215,930 of the industry's 712,000 blue collar workers, the fewest furloughs since the week of March 10. Some 206,555 workers will remain on indefinite layoff and 9,375 will be on temporary furlough beginning Monday, when Chrysler Corp. shuts two plants and Ford Motor Co. closes one facility for the week. This week, 237,155 workers are on layoff, including 207,405 on open-ended furlough and 29,750 on temporary layoff.

$20.6 Million In Bonuses

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — More than 39,000 eligible Michigan veterans have received a total of $20.6 million in Vietnam Veteran Era Bonus payments so far, it was announced Friday. The payments began Feb. 26. A noncombat veteran is eligible for payments of $15 per month served up to $450 maximum. A combat veteran is eligible for $600. Voters approved the fund last November. More than 300,000 veterans have applied since applications became available Jan. 30, the Department of Military Affairs said.

T-Men Raid Dead Man's Home

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Federal agents said they found illegal whisky in a raid on a Ludington home Friday but learned the home's owner died just hours before their arrival. U.S. Treasury agents in Grand Rapids said the raid was at the home of a Clifford Lillyburg, who died Thursday afternoon. Mason County sheriff's deputies said the death appeared to be natural and they have no formal report on the incident. Treasury agents said they seized about 25 gallons of moonshine at Lillyburg's home and the adjoining home of Michael Eckley, 33. Eckley was charged with possession of moonshine.

Charlevoix Plant Cleared

ARGONNE, Ill. (AP) — A laboratory specializing in atomic research says radiation from a nuclear power plant at Charlevoix, Mich., cannot be blamed for the area's unusual number of infant deaths. The Argonne National Laboratory made the finding after checking reports the Big Rock Point plant might be releasing radioactivity causing increased deaths among infants from cancer. The 1973 claim by Dr. Gerald Drake of Petoskey, Mich., drew front page headlines at the time. Drake contended infant deaths, embryo deaths, leukemia, cancer and congenital defects increased in Charlevoix County after the plant began operating in 1962.

May Seek Hart's Seat

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Rep. Donald Riegle, D-Flint, said Friday he's thinking about running for the Senate seat now held by Philip Hart. "It would depend on how many people in the Democratic party and other people outside the party across the state of Michigan would feel about the kind of candidacy that I might wage," Riegle told a news conference. The Flint Democrat said he'd make the race only if Hart, D-Mich., decides not to seek another term next year. Hart has said he's made up his mind but won't announce the decision until this summer. Riegle said he would continue Hart's stands on many issues.

Ants Attack

Parts of the building had to be evacuated briefly and officers called in insecticide sprayers from the Public Works Department.

Colleges Offer New Dimension In Vacations

By CRISPIN Y. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

Vacation spots such as Acapulco, Hawaii and San Francisco have been joined by such exotic places as Oxford, Ohio; Eugene, Ore.; Ann Arbor, Mich.; Ithaca, N.Y.; and Claremont, Calif.

Universities in these U.S. cities are offering vacation courses for the family this summar. The programs, designed for the colleges' alumni, offer a living-learning situation for children and adults. They range in length from three days to one week, and in weekly cost from $84.50 to $345 for single adults and from $35 to $220 for children.

Seminar toplcs vary from a series of workshops with no over-all theme to as many as four separate courses offered by one university. Subject matter may include the history of the Soviet Union, the energy crisis, the economy and American history.

For example, Miami (Ohio) University plans an "Education Vacation" program for June 1620. It is preceded by the annual alumni weekend during commencement.

Alumni director Douglas M. Wilson described the program as "a serious academic effort to offer an in-depth, interesting and stimulating educational program to all alumni and friends."

Miami's Education Vacation fees, which include room, board and instruction, range from $69.50 for children under 13 to $84.50 everybody else.

The program theme, "Energy Problems: A National Crisis," features seminars on "Energy and Society," "Energy Resources" and "Atomic Energy." Time is set aside for sports, picnics, movies, dancing and just plain relaxing.

The Miami children's program, divided into two age groups, offers games, trips and service projects designed to acquaint the participants with the sources, harnessing and use of energy.

Brown, Dartmouth, Colgate, Cornell and Pomona also offer a children's program at reduced prices. But Harvard, the University of Oregon and Stanford offer no children's program in their vacation education plans.

George Brunelle, director of continuing education for the Stanford Alumni Association, says their program appeals to people seeking an intellectual experience, "those who want more than just a vacation."

Stanford's program, now in its 10th year, consists of four professors providing a total of 16 lectures and seminars, one field trip and several evening excursions. This year the theme is "The Reshaping of the American Dream."

Enrollment in the Stanford program in the past decade has averaged 225 students, ranging in age from 28 to 80, Brunelle said.

The university has a nonalumni fee that is $12 higher than the alumni prices of $170 for day-commuter students and $325 for resident students.

Although most universities open their summer courses to nonalumni, some — such as the University of Michigan — offer just an alumni-only program. Others, such as Harvard, admit nonalumni only if there is space. Colgate will admit nonalumni if they are contributors or parents of students or alumni.

Most colleges offer one-weeklong seminar or a series of seminars, and a few, such as the University of Oregon, Cornell and Harvard, feature several separate programs.

The University of Oregon summer alumni program courses will be held simultaneously Aug. 13-23 with "Crime and Justice" and "Conflicts in the American Economy" as themes.

Although Oregon offers no children's programming, high school-age teens are allowed to participate if accompanied by their pupil-parent.

In addition to sponsoring two separate, week-long programs during a four-week period, Cornell offers two workshops in various fields each week.

Harvard offers a geographical diversion, with three separate weekly courses in Cambridge, Mass., and a three-day program at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Thefts, Vandalism Investigated

NEW SPRAY RULES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government agency says it will meet with industry officials before deciding whether to take action on a 1973 petition that it toughen federal controls to reduce health hazards from aerosol sprays.

Robbers Liked The Neighborhood

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — After three men robbed Lou Wheeler of Ogden and cut his telephone cord, the first thing he did was to go next door to phone police. The bandits were there, too, robbing his neighbor. Wheeler told police the three men knocked on his door Thursday night and he told them to come in and they did, armed with a knife. They took $20 from his pocket, cut the phone cord and fled. Wheeler said when he went next door, he found the three robbing Wilma Evans. Mrs. Evans said they took $130 from her and left.

The Teacher Tenure Act is "the teachers' Magna Carta" and "the heart of it is this guarantee of due process in any discharge proceeding, especially prior notice and hearing," the dissent said.

The Public Employe Relations Act contains no discharge procedure, the dissent said. "As a consequence, it is neither legally nor logically appropriate to say that there is a discharge provision in PERA that conflicts with, and hence repeals by implication, the discharge provisions of the Teacher Tenure Act. The legislature is wrestling with the problem of curbing school strikes. A bill drafted by a special committee is now in the House Labor Committee chaired by Rep. Daisy Elliott, D-Detroit.

Many two-year teacher contracts expire this year, and lawmakers fear that unless adequate legislation is implemented quickly, there may be a repeat of the dozens of strikes that crippled schools around Michigan two years ago.

Esther Williams Found Guilty Of Drunk Driving

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — Actress - swimmer Esther Williams has been found guilty of drunken driving. The 51 - year - old film star was fined $315 and was placed on two years' probation by Municipal Court Judge Albert Blanford.

Miss Williams was driving and her husband, actor Fernando Lamas, was a passenger in a car that was stopped by the California Highway Patrol on Christmas night. Authorities said urine samples showed blood alcohol readings in Miss Williams higher than the reading that legally constitutes drunken driving.

taken to San Quentin Prison.

Authorities said Benjamin Thomas Sargis, 41, was arrested as he fled out the rear of the apartment, armed with a loaded 9mm automatic pistol. He was booked for investigation of parole violation and illegal possession of firearms and burglary tools.

Albert Brent Franklin, 23, of Menlo Park, and Rebecca Lokken Hansen, 22, were booked for investigation of harboring a fugitive.

Authorities said the raid followed several months of investigation by the FBI and the sheriff's Organized Crime Unit which showed that several apartment residents were wanted for parole violations and some were carrying out "criminal activities."

In a development related to the Hearst case, an attorney says a federal grand jury investigating the case will not require the elderly and ailing mother of sports activist Jack Scott to testify next week.

The attorney, Doron Weinberg, said the decision came after he provided documented proof that Mrs. John Scott's health would be harmed if she were forced to testify. She suffers from severe hypertension and her condition is aggravated by stress, he said.

"I also had told them that I didn't think she knew anything anyway," Weinberg said. "I don't think that either of the Scotts knew anything."

Mrs. Scott had been subpoenaed for next Thursday's grand jury session. The only known witness now scheduled to testify is former long jumper Phillip Shinnick, a friend of Jack Scott.

Subpoenas for the Mrs. Scott and her husband, who testified earlier, came after reports that their son may have provided hiding places for Miss Hearst and her Symbionese Liberation Army comrades.

Judge Won't Release Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The commercial television networks and a record firm have been turned down for a second time in their efforts to reproduce and play the White House Watergate tapes.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had been asked to permit public access to the 28 tapes used as evidence during the Watergate cover-up trial, which he presided over.

Star Held In Drug Smuggling

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Thomas Noel Rettig, star of the "Lassie" television series in the 1950s, has been ordered held in lieu of $5,000 bond after arraignment on a charge of conspiring to import cocaine.

U.S. Commissioner Richard Wood set a preliminary hearing Fridayfor April 18 in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

Rettig, 33, was accused of hiding cocaine in a Peruvian liquor bottle, according to Drug Enforcement Administration agents. In December 1972, Rettig was convicted in San Luis Obispo County of cultivation of marijuana. He was sentenced to six months in county jail, but the sentence was suspended and he was put on two years probation.

Bradley Gaining Strength

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors at UCLA Medical Center say Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, "continues to make progress and gain strength" as he recovers from a stroke.

They said Friday, however, that it is not known when he will be released from the hospital.

Wallace's Son To Wed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace Jr., 23 - year - old son of the governor of Alabama, and Janice Culbertson, a 22 - year - old Montgomery artist, will be married on Aug. 16.

The younger Wallace, a songwriter and student at Huntingdon College here, has two married sisters and a younger sister who is still in school. His fiancee describes him as "basically reserved and philosophical."

Reo Truck Posts Bond

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The nation's 10th largest truckmaker, Diamond Reo Trucks Inc., will operate until at least April 16 but only on a parttime basis, a federal judge said Friday. U.S. Bankruptcy Court Judge Edward Benson said the firm posted a loss indemnity bond of $800,000 to keep working. The money is to assure FMC Corp., a financing company that says it already is owed $7.4 million by the truckmaker, that Diamond Reo will not lose more money. Benson said Diamond Reo lost about $3 million from its operations between Dec. 6 and March 31. The judge denied a request to appoint a receiver for Diamond Reo at least until another hearing April 16.

Worker Layoffs Decline

DETROIT (AP) — Worker layoffs in the nation's auto industry next week will decline by more than 21,000 from this week as the companies plan to operate all but three of their car and truck assembly plants. Layoffs will idle 215,930 of the industry's 712,000 blue collar workers, the fewest furloughs since the week of March 10. Some 206,555 workers will remain on indefinite layoff and 9,375 will be on temporary furlough beginning Monday, when Chrysler Corp. shuts two plants and Ford Motor Co. closes one facility for the week. This week, 237,155 workers are on layoff, including 207,405 on open-ended furlough and 29,750 on temporary layoff.

$20.6 Million In Bonuses

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — More than 39,000 eligible Michigan veterans have received a total of $20.6 million in Vietnam Veteran Era Bonus payments so far, it was announced Friday. The payments began Feb. 26. A noncombat veteran is eligible for payments of $15 per month served up to $450 maximum. A combat veteran is eligible for $600. Voters approved the fund last November. More than 300,000 veterans have applied since applications became available Jan. 30, the Department of Military Affairs said.

T-Men Raid Dead Man's Home

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Federal agents said they found illegal whisky in a raid on a Ludington home Friday but learned the home's owner died just hours before their arrival. U.S. Treasury agents in Grand Rapids said the raid was at the home of a Clifford Lillyburg, who died Thursday afternoon. Mason County sheriff's deputies said the death appeared to be natural and they have no formal report on the incident. Treasury agents said they seized about 25 gallons of moonshine at Lillyburg's home and the adjoining home of Michael Eckley, 33. Eckley was charged with possession of moonshine.

Charlevoix Plant Cleared

ARGONNE, Ill. (AP) — A laboratory specializing in atomic research says radiation from a nuclear power plant at Charlevoix, Mich., cannot be blamed for the area's unusual number of infant deaths. The Argonne National Laboratory made the finding after checking reports the Big Rock Point plant might be releasing radioactivity causing increased deaths among infants from cancer. The 1973 claim by Dr. Gerald Drake of Petoskey, Mich., drew front page headlines at the time. Drake contended infant deaths, embryo deaths, leukemia, cancer and congenital defects increased in Charlevoix County after the plant began operating in 1962.

May Seek Hart's Seat

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Rep. Donald Riegle, D-Flint, said Friday he's thinking about running for the Senate seat now held by Philip Hart. "It would depend on how many people in the Democratic party and other people outside the party across the state of Michigan would feel about the kind of candidacy that I might wage," Riegle told a news conference. The Flint Democrat said he'd make the race only if Hart, D-Mich., decides not to seek another term next year. Hart has said he's made up his mind but won't announce the decision until this summer. Riegle said he would continue Hart's stands on many issues.

Colleges Offer New Dimension In Vacations

By CRISPIN Y. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

Vacation spots such as Acapulco, Hawaii and San Francisco have been joined by such exotic places as Oxford, Ohio; Eugene, Ore.; Ann Arbor, Mich.; Ithaca, N.Y.; and Claremont, Calif.

Universities in these U.S. cities are offering vacation courses for the family this summar. The programs, designed for the colleges' alumni, offer a living-learning situation for children and adults. They range in length from three days to one week, and in weekly cost from $84.50 to $345 for single adults and from $35 to $220 for children.

Seminar topics vary from a series of workshops with no over-all theme to as many as four separate courses offered by one university. Subject matter may include the history of the Soviet Union, the energy crisis, the economy and American history.

For example, Miami (Ohio) University plans an "Education Vacation" program for June 1620. It is preceded by the annual alumni weekend during commencement.

Alumni director Douglas M. Wilson described the program, as "a serious academic effort to offer an in-depth, interesting and stimulating educational program to all alumni and friends."

Miami's Education Vacation fees, which include room, board and instruction, range from $69.50 for children under 13 to $84.50 everybody else.

The program theme, "Energy Problems: A National Crisis," features seminars on "Energy and Society," "Energy Resources" and "Atomic Energy." Time is set aside for sports, picnics, movies, dancing and just plain relaxing.

The Miami children's program, divided into two age groups, offers games, trips and service projects designed to acquaint the participants with the sources, harnessing and use of energy.

Brown, Dartmouth, Colgate, Cornell and Pomona also offer a children's program at reduced prices. But Harvard, the University of Oregon and Stanford offer no children's program in their vacation education plans.

George Brunelle, director of continuing education for the Stanford Alumni Association, says their program appeals to people seeking an intellectual experience, "those who want more than just a vacation."

Stanford's program, now in its 10th year, consists of four professors providing a total of 16 lectures and seminars, one field trip and several evening excursions. This year the theme is "The Reshaping of the American Dream."

Enrollment in the Stanford program in the past decade has averaged 225 students, ranging in age from 28 to 80, Brunelle said.

The university has a nonalumni fee that is $12 higher than the alumni prices of $170 for day-commuter students and $325 for resident students.

Although most universities open their summer courses to nonalumni, some — such as the University of Michigan — offer just an alumni-only program. Others, such as Harvard, admit nonalumni only if there is space. Colgate will admit nonalumni if they are contributors or parents of students or alumni.

Most colleges offer one weeklong seminar or a series of seminars, and a few, such as the University of Oregon, Cornell and Harvard, feature several separate programs.

The University of Oregon summer alumni program courses will be held simultaneously Aug. 13-23 with "Crime and Justice" and "Conflicts in the American Economy" as themes.

Although Oregon offers no children's programming, high school-age teens are allowed to participate if accompanied by their pupil-parent.

In addition to sponsoring two separate, week-long programs during a four-week period, Cornell offers two workshops in various fields each week.

Harvard offers a geographical diversion, with three separate weekly courses in Cambridge, Mass., and a three-day program at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Thefts, Vandalism Investigated

NEW SPRAY RULES

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government agency says it will meet with industry officials before deciding whether to take action on a 1973 petition that it toughen federal controls to reduce health hazards from aerosol sprays.

Robbers Liked The Neighborhood

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — After three men robbed Lou Wheeler of Ogden and cut his telephone cord, the first thing he did was to go next door to phone police. The bandits were there, too, robbing his neighbor. Wheeler told police the three men knocked on his door Thursday night and he told them to come in and they did, armed with a knife. They took $20 from his pocket, cut the phone cord and fled. Wheeler said when he went next door, he found the three robbing Wilma Evans. Mrs. Evans said they took $130 from her and left.

FENNVILLE TO VOTE ON 17-MILL TAX

FENNVILLE — Fennville school district voters will go to the polls Monday to decide the fate of a one-year 17-mill property tax levy for school operations and a one-mill levy for building and site fund.

Of the 17 mills, 14 are renewal and 3 are additional, to cover increased costs of maintaining existing programs, Supt. James Tackmann said.

Current state equalized valuation of the school district is $25,877,205. Seventeen mills would raise about $440,000 under the present tax base. If approved, total school operating millage for 1975-76 would be 26.09 mills. Another five mills has been levied previously for debt retirement.

Current operating budget of the district is $1,858,000, according to Tackmann. He said no proposed operating budget for 1975-76 has been decided on yet, but indicated the budget would go over the $2 million mark.

Polls in the middle school gymnasium will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Coloman Finds $147, Hands It To Police

A Coloma man found an envelope containing some $147 in Benton Harbor, Friday. Because of his honesty—and two utility bills also in the envelope—city police were able to quickly notify the owner. John Saltzman, 48, 6370 Beck road, Coloma, told police he found the envelope on the ground near the Farmers & Merchants National bank branch at Colfax avenue and Hinkley street. He brought the envelope and contents to police headquarters at 5:27 p.m. A water bill and an electric bill were made out to J.D. Woods of 319 East May street, police said. Woods was called, and he identified the contents, saying they were lost. Within 15 minutes, Woods again had his money, and bills.

Bangor Eyes Tax And Council Posts

BANGOR — Six candidates, including two incumbents, will vie for three two-year seats on the Bangor city counil in Monday's non-partisan city election here.

Voters will also decide the fate of a property tax proposal to cover the cost of snow removal and general maintenance of sidewalks in the city. The proposition seeks one mill for the next three years and a half-mill tax for the following seven years. One mill would raise about $7,800 yearly.

Collier, 62, of Parkway drive, is seeking his second term. He is employed at Ray Pohn associates and he and his wife Margaret, have three grown children.

Ely, 28, of Arlington road, is also seeking his second term. He is owner of Ely Hardware store. He and his wife, Sandra, have two children.

Maddox, 32, of 8 South Walnut street, is employed at Bohn Aluminum, South Haven. He and his wife, Barbara, have two children.

Mrs. Lindberg, 43, of 1220 Hastings street, is employed at Adams Electronics, and Lindberg Trailer Rentals. She is the widow of Alfred Lindberg, former councilman.

Mrs. Reynolds, 52, of 922 Third street, is employed at South Haven Rubber company. She and her husband, Vern, have one daughter.

Van Buren Has Barn Builder Auction

HARTFORD — The third annual "barn builder" auction will be held at the Van Buren Youth fairgrounds beginning at 10 a.m. April 12, according to Edward A. Poole, county extension 4-H youth agent.

More than $20,000 has been raised in the first two auctions. Poole said the money goes towards development of the fairgrounds.

He said the Junior Livestock Producers association will be joined by the 4-H Horse council in sponsoring and operating the auction this year.

Auctioned will be items donated by area and county businessmen, Poole said.

The items include farm machinery, appliances, foods, sporting goods, farm animals and other items, Poole added.

NEW FENNVILLE HIGH SCHOOL OPEN: Classes at Fennville's new $2,650,000 high school have been running smoothly since doors to school opened March 17, according to Supt. James Tackmann. New school, financed by bond issue passed by school district voters in December, 1972, is located just west of old high school, 2½ blocks north of M-89 in Fennville. School has a capacity of 750 students and houses grades 9-12. Junior high students, grades 6-8, now attend old high school building, eliminating split sessions for district. General contractor was Pioneer Construction company, Grand Rapids. Formal dedication ceremonies are slated for sometime in May.

Politicos' Blizzard Engulfs Newsmen

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

Veteran Capitol news correspondents can't recall such a flurry of legislative self-congratulation and back-patting. To read the releases, a foreigner would think he must be in heaven.

To guarantee that impression, state Senate Democrats hired six new "press research aides," pushing the number of people who spread the political good word to 20. Minority Senate Republicans have to try harder with only three press aides.

House Democrats have a publicity staff of seven and Republicans, again the minority, have five.

The total taxpayer cost is an estimated $1 million-plus.

Don't expect your lawmaker's press releases to volunteer news about why he bills taxpayers for a personal color television set, a floor-to-ceiling office mirror, a kitchenette, a $14-a-yard, ankle-deep carpet or an office toilet to eliminate walks down the Capitol's long hallways to public facilities.

For example, nonsmokers in Michigan "have an unsung hero in Rep. Michael H. Conlin, R-Jackson," sings a shamelessly proud news release from freshman Conlin about bills to provide smoker and nonsmoker areas in restaurants, public meetings and hospitals.

But Conlin issued no news release when a charge of public intoxication against him was dismissed March 27 because a prosecution witness had to stay home and baby-sit. Conlin also did not announce he paid a $15 fine the same day for having an expired driver's license when arrested by Lansing police in his car on the intoxication charge Nov. 13, 1974.

One Friday, Sen. Hal Ziegler, R-Jackson, sent out press releases about two bills he sponsored. When Capitol reporters didn't display the excitement Ziegler wanted, he reissued the exact release the following Monday. Only the date was changed. Sen. David Holmes, D-Detroit, appears to hold the record for most releases in a single day. He recently delivered nine.

And Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, issued two releases simultaneously about a statewide arts conference.

BH Eases Rules On Auto Defects

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Benton Harbor police, under a new recession-triggered policy, will void traffic tickets issued for defective equipment, if the motorist shows proof that corrections have been made within three days after the ticket is issued.

Lt. Jack Weatherly this morning said the policy began this month with an eye to high unemployment that spells money shortage for many people.

The policy does not apply for moving violations, such as speeding or running traffic signs.

"If we hear a car with a loud muffler that's gone out, we issue the ticket, but will voided it, if repairs are made within three days," Weatherly said. The same holds for other defects, such as bald tires or defective lights.

"If a motorist gets repairs made, he may not have enough money left to pay the ticket," Weatherly commented. Now, the motorist can fix the muffler within three days and bring the vehicle to police headquarters. Officers will inspect the vehicle and void the ticket, if repairs are completed.

Also included in the policy are motorists who are stopped, but ticketed only for not having a driver's license or registration papers in their possession. Weatherly said if motorist possesses these papers, but just left them home, he can bring them to the station within three days and the ticket will be voided.

South Haven Break-Ins Investigated

SOUTH HAVEN — State police at South Haven investigated two breaking and entering complaints of rural South Haven homes yesterday

Household items valued at $1,230 were reported taken from a home owned by Sam Mayfield of Chicago on 24th avenue, Covert township. The entry occurred sometime in the past month, the owner said.

A television and radio valued at $430 was taken from the residence of Mrs. Sumner Sollitt, 16th avenue, Geneva township. The theft occurred sometime since March 28, police said.

Man Accused Of Witness Threat

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A South Haven man scheduled for trial next week on a charge of arson in connection with a November lumberyard fire was arrested yesterday for allegedly threatening a key witness with a gun, according to state police from the South Haven post.

Duane Thompson, 23, route 4, South Haven, demanded preliminary examination when arraigned in 57th District court at Allegan on a charge of extortion. He was ordered held in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Thompson and another man are scheduled to appear in Van Buren circuit court Tuesday in connection with a fire that destroyed the main building of the Lappo Lumber company, South Haven township on Nov. 20.

Thompson is accused of threatening a 16-year-old South Haven youth who is a key witness in the arson case. The complaint alleges that Thompson and another man threatened to kill the juvenile with a .38 caliber pistol in the youth's Allegan county home on March 28.

State police say they also hold a warrant for Samuel Lopez, 23, of 269 Park avenue, South Haven on a charge of felonious assualt in connection with the same incident.

Lopez has not been charged in the lumberyard fire.

The youth testified at a preliminary hearing that he was with Thompson when the fire was started.

Coloman Finds $147, Hands It To Police

A Coloma man found an envelope containing some $147 in Benton Harbor, Friday. Because of his honesty—and two utility bills also in the envelope—city police were able to quickly notify the owner. John Saltzman, 48, 6370 Beck road, Coloma, told police he found the envelope on the ground near the Farmers & Merchants National bank branch at Colfax avenue and Hinkley street. He brought the envelope and contents to police headquarters at 5:27 p.m. A water bill and an electric bill were made out to J.D. Woods of 319 East May street, police said. Woods was called, and he identified the contents, saying they were lost. Within 15 minutes, Woods again had his money, and bills.

Bangor Eyes Tax And Council Posts

BANGOR — Six candidates, including two incumbents, will vie for three two-year seats on the Bangor city counil in Monday's non-partisan city election here.

Voters will also decide the fate of a property tax proposal to cover the cost of snow removal and general maintenance of sidewalks in the city. The proposition seeks one mill for the next three years and a half-mill tax for the following seven years. One mill would raise about $7,800 yearly.

Collier, 62, of Parkway drive, is seeking his second term. He is employed at Ray Pohn associates and he and his wife Margaret, have three grown children.

Ely, 28, of Arlington road, is also seeking his second term. He is owner of Ely Hardware store. He and his wife, Sandra, have two children.

Maddox, 32, of 8 South Walnut street, is employed at Bohn Aluminum, South Haven. He and his wife, Barbara, have two children.

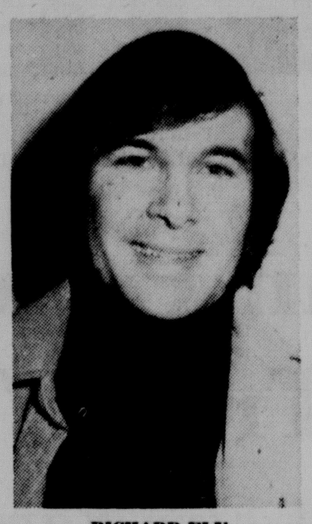

Mrs. Lindberg, 43, of 1220 Hastings street, is employed at Adams Electronics, and Lindberg Trailer Rentals. She is the widow of Alfred Lindberg, former councilman.

Mrs. Reynolds, 52, of 922 Third street, is employed at South Haven Rubber company. She and her husband, Vern, have one daughter.

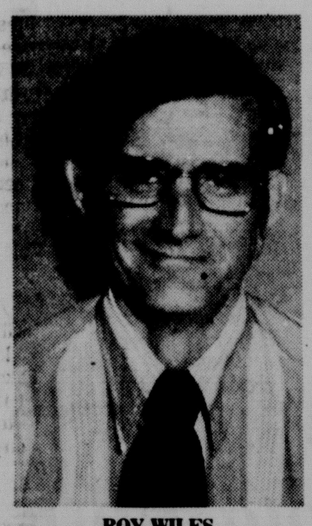

Polls at the townhall will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Van Buren Has Barn Builder Auction

HARTFORD — The third annual "barn builder" auction will be held at the Van Buren Youth fairgrounds beginning at 10 a.m. April 12, according to Edward A. Poole, county extension 4-H youth agent.

More than $20,000 has been raised in the first two auctions. Poole said the money goes towards development of the fairgrounds.

He said the Junior Livestock Producers association will be joined by the 4-H Horse council in sponsoring and operating the auction this year.

Auctioned will be items donated by area and county businessmen, Poole said.

The items include farm machinery, appliances, foods, sporting goods, farm animals and other items, Poole added.

South Haven Break-Ins Investigated

SOUTH HAVEN — State police at South Haven investigated two breaking and entering complaints of rural South Haven homes yesterday

Household items valued at $1,230 were reported taken from a home owned by Sam Mayfield of Chicago on 24th avenue, Covert township. The entry occurred sometime in the past month, the owner said.

A television and radio valued at $430 was taken from the residence of Mrs. Sumner Sollitt, 16th avenue, Geneva township. The theft occurred sometime since March 28, police said.

Politicos' Blizzard Engulfs Newsmen

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

Veteran Capitol news correspondents can't recall such a flurry of legislative self-congratulation and back-patting. To read the releases, a foreigner would think he must be in heaven.

To guarantee that impression, state Senate Democrats hired six new "press research aides," pushing the number of people who spread the political good word to 20. Minority Senate Republicans have to try harder with only three press aides.

House Democrats have a publicity staff of seven and Republicans, again the minority, have five.

The total taxpayer cost is an estimated $1 million-plus.

Don't expect your lawmaker's press releases to volunteer news about why he bills taxpayers for a personal color television set, a floor-to-ceiling office mirror, a kitchenette, a $14-a-yard, ankle-deep carpet or an office toilet to eliminate walks down the Capitol's long hallways to public facilities.

For example, nonsmokers in Michigan "have an unsung hero in Rep. Michael H. Conlin, R-Jackson," sings a shamelessly proud news release from freshman Conlin about bills to provide smoker and nonsmoker areas in restaurants, public meetings and hospitals.

But Conlin issued no news release when a charge of public intoxication against him was dismissed March 27 because a prosecution witness had to stay home and baby-sit. Conlin also did not announce he paid a $15 fine the same day for having an expired driver's license when arrested by Lansing police in his car on the intoxication charge Nov. 13, 1974.

One Friday, Sen. Hal Ziegler, R-Jackson, sent out press releases about two bills he sponsored. When Capitol reporters didn't display the excitement Ziegler wanted, he reissued the exact release the following Monday. Only the date was changed. Sen. David Holmes, D-Detroit, appears to hold the record for most releases in a single day. He recently delivered nine.

And Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, issued two releases simultaneously about a statewide arts conference.

NEW FENNVILLE HIGH SCHOOL OPEN: Classes at Fennville's new $2,650,000 high school have been running smoothly since doors to school opened March 17, according to Supt. James Tackmann. New school, financed by bond issue passed by school district voters in December, 1972, is located just west of old high school, 2½ blocks north of M-89 in Fennville. School has a capacity of 750 students and houses grades 9-12. Junior high students, grades 6-8, now attend old high school building, eliminating split sessions for district. General contractor was Pioneer Construction company, Grand Rapids. Formal dedication ceremonies are slated for sometime in May.

BH Eases Rules On Auto Defects

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Benton Harbor police, under a new recession-triggered policy, will void traffic tickets issued for defective equipment, if the motorist shows proof that corrections have been made within three days after the ticket is issued.

Lt. Jack Weatherly this morning said the policy began this month with an eye to high unemployment that spells money shortage for many people.

The policy does not apply for moving violations, such as speeding or running traffic signs.

"If we hear a car with a loud muffler that's gone out, we issue the ticket, but will voided it, if repairs are made within three days," Weatherly said. The same holds for other defects, such as bald tires or defective lights.

"If a motorist gets repairs made, he may not have enough money left to pay the ticket," Weatherly commented. Now, the motorist can fix the muffler within three days and bring the vehicle to police headquarters. Officers will inspect the vehicle and void the ticket, if repairs are completed.

Also included in the policy are motorists who are stopped, but ticketed only for not having a driver's license or registration papers in their possession. Weatherly said if motorist possesses these papers, but just left them home, he can bring them to the station within three days and the ticket will be voided.

Man Accused Of Witness Threat

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A South Haven man scheduled for trial next week on a charge of arson in connection with a November lumberyard fire was arrested yesterday for allegedly threatening a key witness with a gun, according to state police from the South Haven post.

Duane Thompson, 23, route 4, South Haven, demanded preliminary examination when arraigned in 57th District court at Allegan on a charge of extortion. He was ordered held in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Thompson and another man are scheduled to appear in Van Buren circuit court Tuesday in connection with a fire that destroyed the main building of the Lappo Lumber company, South Haven township on Nov. 20.

Thompson is accused of threatening a 16-year-old South Haven youth who is a key witness in the arson case. The complaint alleges that Thompson and another man threatened to kill the juvenile with a .38 caliber pistol in the youth's Allegan county home on March 28.

State police say they also hold a warrant for Samuel Lopez, 23, of 269 Park avenue, South Haven on a charge of felonious assualt in cnnection with the same incident.

Lopez has not been charged in the lumberyard fire.

The youth testified at a preliminary hearing that he was with Thompson when the fire was started.

The fire caused an estimated $500,000 damages to the lumberyard

Celtics Nip Bullets To Take Edge For Best Record

BOSTON (AP) — Only 15 seconds were left in the game as Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn pleaded for his team to take a time out.

But John Havlicek, who had the ball, didn't hear him.

However, instead of resulting in disaster, it turned into an important victory for the Celtics.

Eventually, with four seconds remaining, Dave Cowens hit a jump shot from the foul line and the Celtics outlasted the Washington Bullets 95-94 Friday night in a gruelling, physical game.

The triumph lifted the Celtics' record to 59-22, the best in the National Basketball Association, with only tonight's game at Philadelphia remaining for them in the regular season. Washington dropped to 58-22 with two games to play—at home against Atlanta tonight and against New Orleans Sunday afternoon.

If both teams finish the season with the same record, the Celtics would gain an opening round bye in the playoffs and the home court advantage in any playoff series because of their better record within the Eastern Conference.

Friday night's game, the fourth during the season between the clubs (the series wound up 2-2), came down to the closing seconds. After Wes Unseld put the Bullets ahead 94-93 on a layup with 15 seconds to go, the Celtics quickly inbounded the ball and Havlicek moved it swiftly past midcourt.

"I was calling for a time out, and I guess they (The Bullets) figured we were going to call it," said the emotionally drained Heinsohn, indicating that Washington might have relaxed its defense momentarily. That lapse proved costly.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Milwaukee downed New York 109-101, Chicago beat New Orleans 111-87, Buffalo dumped Philadelphia 108-97, Golden State whipped Phoenix 128-99, Portland defeated Kansas City-Omaha 116-110 and Seattle upended Los Angeles 111-102.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 12 points to spark a fourth-quarter Milwaukee rally that put a sizable dent in New York's playoff hopes.

Norm Van Lier pumped in 32 points as Chicago clinched the Central Division championship.

Rick Barry scored 19 points in the third quarter as Golden State won easily.

Geoff Petrie and Sidney Wicks combined for 50 points as Portland posted its 10th straight home victory.

DODGERS, REDS RENEW RIVALRY

Baseball Starts Monday

From Associated Press

The Reds, the team that traditionally opens the major league season, host the defending league champions at Riverfront Stadium before an expected sellout crowd of 52,000, including Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The Reds won National League pennants in 1970 and 1972 and took the West Division title in 1973 before the Dodgers dethroned them last year. The sellout crowd at Riverfront marks the 10th time that those bitter rivals have played to a capacity crowd and reflects the most enthusiastic advance ticket sale in baseball history. Half of the 24 major league teams have reported increases in their season's ticket sales.

The game between the West's power teams precedes by hours three more opening games Monday night. In the National League, Montreal will visit St. Louis and Houston will host Atlanta. California will entertain Kansas City in the American League.

Kuhn will travel to Cleveland Tuesday to attend Frank Robinson's debut as the major leagues' first black manager. Jackie RK NIDOW, Rachael, will throw out the first ball before Cleveland's Gaylord Perry matches pitches with Doc Medich of the New York Yankees in the American League game.

Nine other games will be played Tuesday, including seven openers.

The Milwaukee Brewers, featuring home run king Hank Aaron, will start Jim Slaton against Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox. Vida Blue hopes to get the Oakland A's off on the right track toward a fourth straight American League championship, pitching against Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox.

Joe Coleman of Detroit faces Jim Palmer of Baltimore and Minnesota will throw Bert Blyleven against Texas' Ferguson Jenkins in the other American League openers.

In the National League, it's Philadelphia at New York, Pittsburgh at Chicago and San Francisco at San Diego. Steve Carlton goes for the Phillies against the Mets' Tom Seaver; the Pirates will serve Dock Ellis against Chicago's Rick Reuschel and San Francisco will send Jim Barr against San Diego's Randy Johnson.

Former Ace Bryant Reveals Retirement

Tigers Pounded By Mets

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four players were separated from major league baseball teams Friday — but only one wanted to go.

Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants announced his retirement while three others were cut — pitchers Claude Osteen of the St. Louis Cardinals and Balor Moore of the Montreal Expos and infielder Bobby Valentine of the California Angels.

The 27-year-old Bryant, a 24-game winner in 1973 who dropped off to a disastrous 3-15 mark last season, told a news conference that he was retiring for personal reasons, family and business.

"It's hard for some people to understand how you can give up a $50,000-a-year job," said Bryant. But he added he had decided that his family was more important than a baseball career.

Bryant has an interest in a restaurant in Flagstaff, Ariz., and is considering going into the ranching business in that area.

In his last appearance with the Giants, Bryant gave up 10 hits and four runs in five innings Wednesday in a spring training game against the California Angels.

Osteen, a 17-year veteran with a 189-179 lifetime record, was placed on waivers by the Cardinals. Osteen enjoyed his greatest days with the Los Angeles Dodgers, including two 20-game seasons, before he was traded to Houston in 1974. The 35-year-old southpaw was shipped to St. Louis last August.

Moore, another left-hander, was sent outright to Montreal's Memphis farm club in the International League. Moore, 24, has been troubled by arm problems and had not pitched this spring until last Thursday, when he worked two scoreless innings against Minnesota.

Valentine, at one time considered a mainstay of the Angels, was sent to Charleston of the International League.

In action on the field, the Cincinnati Reds belted Boston pitchers for 14 hits but needed Ken Griffey's running in the 16th inning to pull out a 1-0 decision over the Red Sox.

Elsewhere in spring training, Pittsburgh edged the New York Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings, Minnesota beat Montreal 7-4, Philadelphia blanked a second Pittsburgh team 4-0, Cleveland topped Oakland 4-3, Milwaukee blasted the Chicago Cubs 12-6, Tulsa of the American Association shaded St. Louis 1-0, San Francisco needed 11 innings to get by Santa Clara University 1-0; Baltimore stopped Atlanta 6-1; the New York Mets whipped Detroit 9-1; Houston trimmed Texas 8-7 and Los Angeles turned back California 9-2.

John Stearns hit a solo homer and his teammates had fun scoring off some wild Detroit Tiger pitching as the New York Mets took a 9-1 victory to snap a five-game lossing streak.

It was the fourth straight loss for the Tigers, who are now 11-19 with two games to go in the Grapefruit League season. The Mets are 8-17.

Tiger Joe Coleman pitched five innings and gave up only one run. In the third inning he filled the bases with two walks and a hit, then hit Joe Torre with a pitch to force in the run.

Tiger ace reliever John Hiller, who took the loss, also had control problems. In the seventh he gave up three runs on two walks, a single, a balk and a double.

In the ninth, Lemanczyk gave up four runs on four hits, a rare error by Aurelio Rodriguez who let a grounder go through his legs, and a wild pitch.

The Tigers only run came in the second off Randy Tate when Danny Meyers doubled, and Tom Veryzer singled him home.

'M' Coach Olympic Selection

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — University of Michigan diving coach Dick Kimball and Ohio State diving coach Ron O'Brien have been named to coach the U.S. Olympic diving team at the 1976 Olympic games at Montreal.

The announcement was made Friday after a joint meeting of the national Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Olympic Diving Committee here, where the national AAU diving championships were under way.

Kimball, 39, has coached diving at Michigan for 16 years. He coached the U.S. men at the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo and will guide platform divers at Montreal, an AAU spokesman said.

O'Brien, 37, will coach springboard divers in his third Olympic assignment. He was assistant coach and manager at Mexico City in 1968 and coached the U.S. women at Munich in 1972.

Kimball, whose children, Vicky, 14, and Bruce, 11, are national AAU platform divers, has coached three former Olympians at Michigan. Bob Webster won gold medals in 1960 and 1964 and Micki King won a gold medal in 1972. Another student, Dick Rydze, won a silver medal at Munich.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves have cut their major league baseball roster to 26 players, one over the opening day limit.

The Braves sent six players to their minor league camp Thursday and released infielder Leo Foster outright to Class AAA Tidewater, a New York Mets' farm club.

Woman Coaching Boys Track Team

Mother Of Five Earns Respect

But Mrs. Mabry, an elementary school physical education teacher, has won respect of the team members. In her first official venture last week, she coached them to fifth place out of 70 teams in the Class B Huron Relays.

"She's one of the best coaches I've ever had," said Ed Poindexter, Inkster's standout hurdler. "She's dedicated to give Inkster a better track program."

Mrs. Mabry, who lives on Detroit's West Side, says she applied for the job for the past three years but was twice rejected in favor of male applicants. This year, she was the only one to apply.

"It really made me mad when I was turned down," she said. "Some men with less seniority were chosen before, and although I was very disappointed, I was determined to apply whenever the position was open."

"No, the money for coaching never entered my mind," she added. "The head coach gets only $600, and this is little compared to the time and work involved."

Last year, Inkster High Athletic Director Khamalaw White, who coached track at the school for 20 years ending in 1969, came out of retirement to coach the track team rather than hand over the reins to Mrs. Mabry.

"I wasn't ready then for a woman to take over so I applied, too," White said. "But this year I decided on equal opportunity. And she seems to be doing very well."

Phoenix, Minnesota Both Come Up WHA 'Winners'

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jack Norris finally won a "big" game. And he did it before the largest crowd to ever watch a World Hockey Association contest.

Phoenix edged the Minnesota Fighting Saints 2-1 Friday night as Norris stopped a point-blank shot by Fran Huck with nine seconds remaining in the game.

"Everybody did a good job and worked hard," Norris said. "And that is amazing because we dressed 13 rookies tonight. We won the game like we won games all year, by working hard."

The victory put Phoenix into the WHA playoffs. And, despite the loss, Minnesota also qualified for post-season play when Toronto crushed Winnipeg 7-1.

"I don't feel bad about backing into the playoffs," said Saints Coach Harry Neale. "We may not have earned it tonight, but we earned it during the year.

"It was unfortunate that we had to lose before the big crowd. We wanted to win. We tried and played well. Phoenix deserved to win — they played a near-perfect game."

Don Borgeson opened the scoring for Phoenix in the first period, hammering in his 29th goal of the season from the side of the faceoff circle. After Wayne Connelly tied it up for Minnesota on a second period power play, Jim Niekamp scored the deciding goal three minutes later for the Roadrunners.

"We're kind of like the 'Amazing Mets' a few years back," Norris said. "They ought to call us the 'Rambling Roadrunners.' We keep rambling on."

In other WHA games Friday, Chicago defeated New England 3-1 and Edmonton stopped Vancouver 5-3.

A three-goal burst in the second period gave Edmonton an insurmountable lead as the Oilers moved into sole possession of fourth place in the Canadian Division, two points ahead of the Vancouver Blazers.

Ex-Coach Dies In Storm

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Police found the body of a 74 - year - old former high school basketball coach on Friday slumped over the steering wheel of his car in a snow bank.

The victim was identified as Rexford Emery of Saginaw. Officers said the engine of the car was running, and the tires were smoking.

Authorities said Emery died of an apparent heart attack, becoming the latest victim of the mid-week storm that dumped 17 inches of snow in the area and left drifts up to eight feet.

Emery coached the Saginaw St. Mary's High School basketball team that took the parochial school state championship in 1923.

Celtics Nip Bullets To Take Edge For Best Record

BOSTON (AP) — Only 15 seconds were left in the game as Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn pleaded for his team to take a time out.

But John Havlicek, who had the ball, didn't hear him.

However, instead of resulting in disaster, it turned into an important victory for the Celtics.

Eventually, with four seconds remaining, Dave Cowens hit a jump shot from the foul line and the Celtics outlasted the Washington Bullets 95-94 Friday night in a gruelling, physical game.

The triumph lifted the Celtics' record to 59-22, the best in the National Basketball Association, with only tonight's game at Philadelphia remaining for them in the regular season. Washington dropped to 58-22 with two games to play—at home against Atlanta tonight and against New Orleans Sunday afternoon.

If both teams finish the season with the same record, the Celtics would gain an opening round bye in the playoffs and the home court advantage in any playoff series because of their better record within the Eastern Conference.

Friday night's game, the fourth during the season between the clubs (the series wound up 2-2), came down to the closing seconds. After Wes Unseld put the Bullets ahead 94-93 on a layup with 15 seconds to go, the Celtics quickly inbounded the ball and Havlicek moved it swiftly past midcourt.

"I was calling for a time out, and I guess they (The Bullets) figured we were going to call it," said the emotionally drained Heinsohn, indicating that Washington might have relaxed its defense momentarily. That lapse proved costly.

The alert Havlicek, Boston's team captain and game-high scorer with 22 points, spotted Cowens at the foul line and hit him with a perfect pass. Cowens' shot was just as accurate.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Milwaukee downed New York 109-101, Chicago beat New Orleans 111-87, Buffalo dumped Philadelphia 108-97, Golden State whipped Phoenix 128-99, Portland defeated Kansas City-Omaha 116-110 and Seattle upended Los Angeles 111-102.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 12 points to spark a fourth-quarter Milwaukee rally that put a sizable dent in New York's playoff hopes.

Norm Van Lier pumped in 32 points as Chicago clinched the Central Division championship.

Rick Barry scored 19 points in the third quarter as Golden State won easily.

Geoff Petrie and Sidney Wicks combined for 59 points as Portland posted its 10th straight home victory.

DODGERS, REDS RENEW RIVALRY

Baseball Starts Monday

From Associated Press

The Reds, the team that traditionally opens the major league season, host the defending league champions at Riverfront Stadium before an expected sellout crowd of 52,000, including Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The Reds won National League pennants in 1970 and 1972 and took the West Division title in 1973 before the Dodgers dethroned them last year. The sellout crowd at Riverfront marks the 10th time that those bitter rivals have played to a capacity crowd and reflects the most enthusiastic advance ticket sale in baseball history. Half of the 24 major league teams have reported increases in their season's ticket sales.

The game between the West's power teams precedes by hours three more opening games Monday night. In the National League, Montreal will visit St. Louis and Houston will host Atlanta. California will entertain Kansas City in the American League.

Kuhn will travel to Cleveland Tuesday to attend Frank Robinson's debut as the major leagues' first black manager. Jackie RK NIDOW, Rachael, will throw out the first ball before Cleveland's Gaylord Perry matches pitches with Doc Medich of the New York Yankees in the American League game.

Nine other games will be played Tuesday, including seven openers.

The Milwaukee Brewers, featuring home run king Hank Aaron, will start Jim Slaton against Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox. Vida Blue hopes to get the Oakland A's off on the right track toward a fourth straight American League championship, pitching against Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox.

Joe Coleman of Detroit faces Jim Palmer of Baltimore and Minnesota will throw Bert Blyleven against Texas' Ferguson Jenkins in the other American League openers.

In the National League, it's Philadelphia at New York, Pittsburgh at Chicago and San Francisco at San Diego. Steve Carlton goes for the Phillies against the Mets' Tom Seaver; the Pirates will serve Dock Ellis against Chicago's Rick Reuschel and San Francisco will send Jim Barr against San Diego's Randy Johnson.

Former Ace Bryant Reveals Retirement

Tigers Pounded By Mets

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four players were separated from major league baseball teams Friday — but only one wanted to go.

Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants announced his retirement while three others were cut — pitchers Claude Osteen of the St. Louis Cardinals and Balor Moore of the Montreal Expos and infielder Bobby Valentine of the California Angels.

The 27-year-old Bryant, a 24-game winner in 1973 who dropped off to a disastrous 3-15 mark last season, told a news conference that he was retiring for personal reasons, family and business.

"It's hard for some people to understand how you can give up a $50,000-a-year job," said Bryant. But he added he had decided that his family was more important than a baseball career.

Bryant has an interest in a restaurant in Flagstaff, Ariz., and is considering going into the ranching business in that area.

In his last appearance with the Giants, Bryant gave up 10 hits and four runs in five innings Wednesday in a spring training game against the California Angels.

Osteen, a 17-year veteran with a 189-179 lifetime record, was placed on waivers by the Cardinals. Osteen enjoyed his greatest days with the Los Angeles Dodgers, including two 20-game seasons, before he was traded to Houston in 1974. The 35-year-old southpaw was shipped to St. Louis last August.

Moore, another left-hander, was sent outright to Montreal's Memphis farm club in the International League. Moore, 24, has been troubled by arm problems and had not pitched this spring until last Thursday, when he worked two scoreless innings against Minnesota.

Valentine, at one time considered a mainstay of the Angels, was sent to Charleston of the International League.

In action on the field, the Cincinnati Reds belted Boston pitchers for 14 hits but needed Ken Griffey's running in the 16th inning to pull out a 1-0 decision over the Red Sox.

Elsewhere in spring training, Pittsburgh edged the New York Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings, Minnesota beat Montreal 7-4, Philadelphia blanked a second Pittsburgh team 4-0, Cleveland topped Oakland 4-3, Milwaukee blasted the Chicago Cubs 12-6, Tulsa of the American Association shaded St. Louis 1-0, San Francisco needed 11 innings to get by Santa Clara University 1-0; Baltimore stopped Atlanta 6-1; the New York Mets whipped Detroit 9-1; Houston trimmed Texas 8-7 and Los Angeles turned back California 9-2.

John Stearns hit a solo homer and his teammates had fun scoring off some wild Detroit Tiger pitching as the New York Mets took a 9-1 victory to snap a five-game lossing streak.

It was the fourth straight loss for the Tigers, who are now 11-19 with two games to go in the Grapefruit League season. The Mets are 8-17.

Tiger Joe Coleman pitched five innings and gave up only one run. In the third inning he filled the bases with two walks and a hit, then hit Joe Torre with a pitch to force in the run.

Tiger ace reliever John Hiller, who took the loss, also had control problems. In the seventh he gave up three runs on two walks, a single, a balk and a double.

In the ninth, Lemanczyk gave up four runs on four hits, a rare error by Aurelio Rodriguez who let a grounder go through his legs, and a wild pitch.

The Tigers only run came in the second off Randy Tate when Danny Meyers doubled, and Tom Veryzer singled him home.

The Tigers send Luke Walker to face the Mets Saturday at St. Petersburg, then finish off with another game against the Mets on Sunday at Lakeland.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves have cut their major league baseball roster to 26 players, one over the opening day limit.

The Braves sent six players to their minor league camp Thursday and released infielder Leo Foster outright to Class AAA Tidewater, a New York Mets' farm club.

'M' Coach Olympic Selection

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — University of Michigan diving coach Dick Kimball and Ohio State diving coach Ron O'Brien have been named to coach the U.S. Olympic diving team at the 1976 Olympic games at Montreal.

The announcement was made Friday after a joint meeting of the national Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Olympic Diving Committee here, where the national AAU diving championships were under way.

Kimball, 39, has coached diving at Michigan for 16 years. He coached the U.S. men at the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo and will guide platform divers at Montreal, an AAU spokesman said.

O'Brien, 37, will coach springboard divers in his third Olympic assignment. He was assistant coach and manager at Mexico City in 1968 and coached the U.S. women at Munich in 1972.

Kimball, whose children, Vicky, 14, and Bruce, 11, are national AAU platform divers, has coached three former Olympians at Michigan. Bob Webster won gold medals in 1960 and 1964 and Micki King won a gold medal in 1972. Another student, Dick Rydze, won a silver medal at Munich.

The tournament will be held March 27-29, 1976 at the Spectrum.

Flint Northern Wins Invitational

Young took first in the 880 and second in the 440 as Northern amassed 48 points.

Woman Coaching Boys Track Team

Mother Of Five Earns Respect

But Mrs. Mabry, an elementary school physical education teacher, has won respect of the team members. In her first official venture last week, she coached them to fifth place out of 70 teams in the Class B Huron Relays.

"She's one of the best coaches I've ever had," said Ed Poindexter, Inkster's standout hurdler. "She's dedicated to give Inkster a better track program."

Mrs. Mabry, who lives on Detroit's West Side, says she applied for the job for the past three years but was twice rejected in favor of male applicants. This year, she was the only one to apply.

"It really made me mad when I was turned down," she said. "Some men with less seniority were chosen before, and although I was very disappointed, I was determined to apply whenever the position was open."

"No, the money for coaching never entered my mind," she added. "The head coach gets only $600, and this is little compared to the time and work involved."

Last year, Inkster High Athletic Director Khamalaw White, who coached track at the school for 20 years ending in 1969, came out of retirement to coach the track team rather than hand over the reins to Mrs. Mabry.

"I wasn't ready then for a woman to take over so I applied, too," White said. "But this year I decided on equal opportunity. And she seems to be doing very well."

Phoenix, Minnesota Both Come Up WHA 'Winners'

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jack Norris finally won a "big" game. And he did it before the largest crowd to ever watch a World Hockey Association contest.

Phoenix edged the Minnesota Fighting Saints 2-1 Friday night as Norris stopped a point-blank shot by Fran Huck with nine seconds remaining in the game.

"Everybody did a good job and worked hard," Norris said. "And that is amazing because we dressed 13 rookies tonight. We won the game like we won games all year, by working hard."

The victory put Phoenix into the WHA playoffs. And, despite the loss, Minnesota also qualified for post-season play when Toronto crushed Winnipeg 7-1.

"I don't feel bad about backing into the playoffs," said Saints Coach Harry Neale. "We may not have earned it tonight, but we earned it during the year.

"It was unfortunate that we had to lose before the big crowd. We wanted to win. We tried and played well. Phoenix deserved to win — they played a near-perfect game."

Don Borgeson opened the scoring for Phoenix in the first period, hammering in his 29th goal of the season from the side of the faceoff circle. After Wayne Connelly tied it up for Minnesota on a second period power play, Jim Niekamp scored the deciding goal three minutes later for the Roadrunners.

"We're kind of like the 'Amazing Mets' a few years back," Norris said. "They ought to call us the 'Rambling Roadrunners.' We keep rambling on."

In other WHA games Friday, Chicago defeated New England 3-1 and Edmonton stopped Vancouver 5-3.

A three-goal burst in the second period gave Edmonton an insurmountable lead as the Oilers moved into sole possession of fourth place in the Canadian Division, two points ahead of the Vancouver Blazers.

Ex-Coach Dies In Storm

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Police found the body of a 74 - year - old former high school basketball coach on Friday slumped over the steering wheel of his car in a snow bank.

The victim was identified as Rexford Emery of Saginaw. Officers said the engine of the car was running, and the tires were smoking.

Authorities said Emery died of an apparent heart attack, becoming the latest victim of the mid-week storm that dumped 17 inches of snow in the area and left drifts up to eight feet.

Emery coached the Saginaw St. Mary's High School basketball team that took the parochial school state championship in 1923.

Colonels Win Eastern Title

Gilmore Keys Playoff Victory Over NY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — As if the Eastern Division Championship of the American Basketball Association wasn't enough incentive for his team, Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown gave another reason the Colonels had for beating New York 108-99 in a one-game playoff Friday night.

"Before the season, no one picked us to win the division," said Brown, dripping from a post-game victory shower.

"We had five new players and two new coaches and no one thought we could win it all. We talked about that before the game and then we went out and won," Brown added.

Kentucky, paced by Artis Gilmore's 28 points and 33 rebounds, raced out to a 47-29 lead in the second quarter. The Nets closed within three points in the last period but never got any closer.

The victory gave Kentucky only their second divisional title ever and sent them into action Sunday night against Memphis as the Colonels open the Eastern Division playoffs at home.

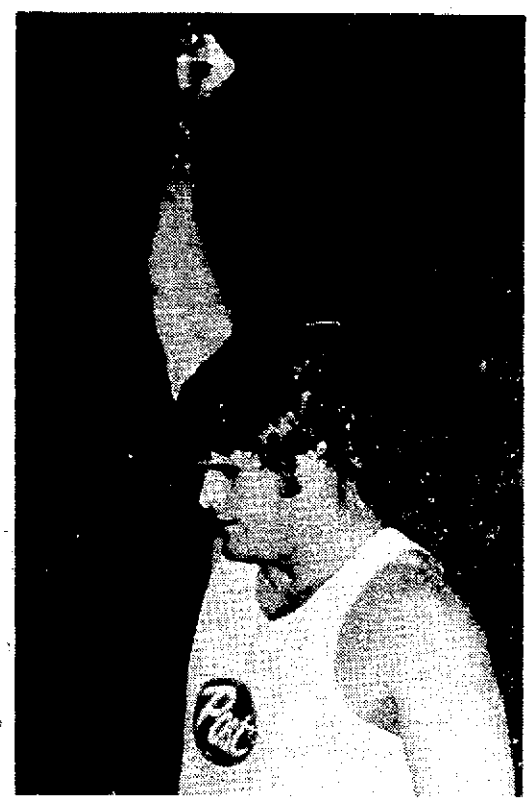

Brown said just the feat of tying New York for the regular season lead was amazing.

"Two weeks ago we were four games back and we've had to win 10 games in the last 14 days. Anyone familiar with our injury situation knows we're only playing with seven and a half men," Brown said.

Nets' Coach Kevin Loughery said he was pleased with his teaam's effort. "I'm very proud of our team for hanging in there the way we did after trailing by 18. I thought if we ever got it to one we would take them — but we never got it to one," Loughery added.

Loughery said the Colonels will see a few different wrinkles from New York if the two hook up in the division playoffs.

"We were changing defenses around tonight. I don't want to take anything away from Kentucky because they shot very well, but when we get time to practice we'll work on a few things and if we're fortunate enough to play them again they'll see something new."

NEW CHAMP: Brain Oldfield raises a fist as he accepts acclaim of crowd after unloosing the longest shot put ever in track and field history. The put was 72 feet, 6½ inches Friday night at the International Track Association Indoor Meet at the Cow Palace. The professional shot putter bettered the world indoor mark of 72 feet, 2¾ set by amateur George Woods last year. (AP Wirephoto)

Rangers Get Into Playoffs

New York Triumph Puts Out Flames

ATLANTA (AP) — No sooner had the New York Rangers clinched a spot in the National Hockey League playoffs than they were talking confidently of their chances of winning the Stanley Cup.

"We're good enough to beat anybody, at any time, anywhere, under any conditions," said Derek Sanderson, who scored the winning goal which gave the Rangers a 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Flames Friday night.

The triumph put both the Rangers and the New York Islanders into the playoffs and eliminated Atlanta, which had been struggling to catch the two New York clubs.

In the night's other NHL game, the Vancouver Canucks defeated the Minnesota North Stars 4-1 to clinch first place in Division 2.

"You know we're really going into the playoffs strong," said Ranger veteran Rod Gilbert afterwards. "This type of comeback really lifts the morale."

"I don't know what this club can do," Francis said. "This is the first time we've had them all back from their injuries. It's only in the last week or 10 days that everyone's been back. This is the healthiest we've been since Nov. 15."

Over in the Flames dressing room, the players were subdued and disappointed.

"I've not much to say," Coach Fred Creighton told reporters. "They were the winners, and we were the loser. It was as simple as that. We started off well, then made some mistakes we shouldn't have."

Tom Lysiak put the Flames on the scoreboard at 9:04 of the first period when he bulled his way past two Rangers and beat Ranger goaltender Gilles Villemure. Rey Comeau knocked in a rebound later in the period to give Atlanta a 2-0 lead.

Francis said he told his players before the third period that they needed a quick goal and Jean Ratelle responded with a power-play score after only 29 seconds of play. Rick Middleton tied the game less than two minutes later with a 20-foot slap shot past Atlanta's Phil Myre.

The playoff matchups will depend on the results of games to be played before the season ends Sunday night, but Francis figures the Rangers probably will meet the Islanders.

"At least we won't have to worry about transportation," he said.

John Gould triggered a threegoal spree in the second period as the Canucks trimmed the North Stars, who were held to just one shot in the first period and 10 for the game.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have signed linebacker Robert Brazile of Jackson State, the National Football League team's 1975 first-round draft choice.

Weiskopf Fashions Large Halfway Greensboro Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — "The golf tournament," said Tom Weiskopf, "is not over yet."

But, it appeared it might as well be.

"I don't know about catching Tom," Lee Trevino said, "but second money ain't bad."

Weiskopf, again exhibiting the deft touch and controlled power that won him seven tournaments in four countries in 1973, pulled away to a commanding five stroke advantage — within one shot of the largest halfway lead of the year — in Friday's second round of the $225,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The weather was fierce. The temperature was in the 40s. The winds — though diminished from the gale force blasts that reached dangerous levels in Thursday's play — was 20-25 miles per hour with higher gusts.

The difficulty of the playing conditions — severe, but not so severe as the day before — made Weiskopf appreciate even more the fantastic 64 he'd shot in the first round.

"The more I think of it, the more I think that was the greatest round I've ever played."

The two rounds gave him a seven-under-par total of 135 for two trips over the 6,643-yard Sedgefield Country Club course and left most of the rest of them just playing for second.

Dave Hill, alone in that position after a struggling 73 that included six bogeys, said he wasn't even concerned with that.

"I'm just trying to find me a golf swing," the dedicated perfectionist said. "I'm experimenting on every shot."

Asked if being five shots back at 140 bothered him, Hill replied:

"Not at all. That don't bother me. The only thing that bugs me is my golf swing."

Lee Trevino, Perry Leslie and Bill Ziobro, grouped at 141, were the only others in the field under par after 36 holes. Trevino had a second-round 70, Leslie a 73 and Ziobro a 68.

Miller shot a 70 and headed the group at 142. South African Gary Player, the Masters and British Open title-holder, also had a 70 but remained well back at 146. Arnold Palmer shot 73 and just made the cut for the last two rounds.

Sam Snead missed. The still active veteran, who has won this tournament a record eight times, had a 76 and failed to qualify at 153.

'Sudsy' Has Talent For Moving Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — "Sudsy" often sacrifices himself, but he doesn't feel he's sacrificing a slice of his salary in the process.

"Sudsy" is Gary Sutherland, the Detroit Tigers' often unnoticed second baseman who has a special talent for moving runners along at his own expense.

Sutherland usually bats second because of his bat control. He rarely strikes out and if the situation calls for hitting the ball to the right side of the infield to move a runner from second to third, righthanded hitting Sudsy usually does it.

Such actions don't help baseball players fatten their batting averages but, "if I can hit about .250 and do those things it's a big asset," he said, after a spring training game.

But what about contract time? A consistent .250 average isn't going to put a player in much of a salary bracket.

"I feel if you do the job you're going to get paid for it," Sutherland said. "Money is not the big thing with me ... I'd like to make as much as possible, but it's not a driving force. If you help the team to the championship that's where the money is. Everybody collects."

Sutherland's talents may be even more valuable this season than last year, his first in Detroit after being traded by Montreal, which had him in the minor leagues in 1972 and 1973.

Speedy Ron LeFlore, in his first full season with the Tigers, is the leadoff batter. If he gets a walk or single there's a good chance he'll steal second. Sutherland could move him to third easily and then Willie Horton or Nate Colbert could hit even a shallow fly ball to score LeFlore.

"My style would fit in more batting second because I make contact with the ball," said the kinky blond-haired Sutherland. "I take a lot of pitches and if LeFlore is on first that'll give him time to go (steal). If he gets to second most of the time, I can hit the ball on the ground to right and move him to third."

Last year Sutherland and rookie John Knox battled for the regular second base job. Sudsy won and wound up leading the Tigers in at-bats with 619. He batted .254 and did a decent job in the field, booting only 18 chances in 149 games.

Sutherland has a new shortstop to work with this year in rookie Tom Veryzer, since Ed Brinkman was traded to St. Louis.

"I don't think it'll be a serious problem," he said, referring to adjusting to the techniques of his new double play partner.

There isn't much that is a serious problem to Sutherland, not since the 30-year-old from Monrovia, Calif., solved the problem of proving he was of major league caliber.

Pistons Get Rent Break

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Coleman Young is reportedly offering the Detroit Pistons a major rent reduction as an inducement to continue playing in Cobo Arena.

City Councilman Jack Kelley says Young will offer the Pistons a $100,000 rent reduction. The city now receives about 11 per cent of the gate, which came to about $150,000 this season.

The National Basketball Association club had made a "handshake agreement" to move future games to Olympia Stadium, but the deal seems to be falling apart, according to Lincoln Cavalieri, Olympia general manager.

"Right now the deal is in limbo," he said. "They are going to listen to the mayor."

Change Worked

With goal posts moved behind the end zone in the National Football League in 1974 there were 309 fewer field goals attempted than in 1973. The change meant 208 fewer field goals made.

Ski Business Booms At Michigan Lodges

DETROIT (AP) — Business at Michigan's ski lodges was up at least 15 per cent this winter from a year ago as the resorts enjoyed sustained cold weather and an unexpected side benefit of the recession, the Auto Club of Michigan reports.

Vastly improved availability of gasoline also was a major factor as many of the lodges posted their best season in decades, the auto club said.

Club touring manager Jerry Ratke said a survey of 56 lodges showed a vast improvement this year despite the "feeling of doom and gloom which swept the tourism industry last fall with auto layoffs."

He said that although snowfall was below normal in many areas, widespread lodge closings were experienced on only one weekend.

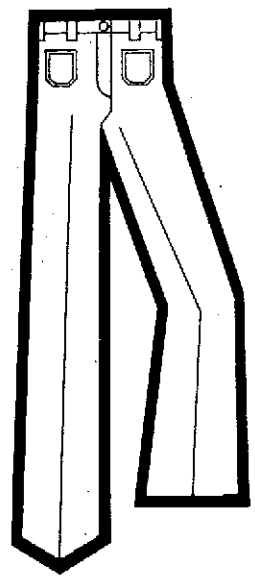

"Continued below-freezing temperatures enabled lodges, especially those in southeast Michigan, to use snow-making equipment to help adequate bases," he said.

The survey also showed that proprietors of several lodges in southeast and northwest Lower Michigan believed the economy actually helped business.

"In the south, lodge operators said they attracted Detroit-area skiers who pared down on expenses by staying near home," Ratke said.

"Many northern lodge operators said they appealed to skiers who in past years had taken expensive trips to the western U.S. or Europe."

Colonels Win Eastern Title

Gilmore Keys Playoff Victory Over NY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — As if the Eastern Division Championship of the American Basketball Association wasn't enough incentive for his team, Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown gave another reason the Colonels had for beating New York 108-99 in a one-game playoff Friday night.

"Before the season, no one picked us to win the division," said Brown, dripping from a post-game victory shower.

"We had five new players and two new coaches and no one thought we could win it all. We talked about that before the game and then we went out and won," Brown added.

Kentucky, paced by Artis Gilmore's 28 points and 33 rebounds, raced out to a 47-29 lead in the second quarter. The Nets closed within three points in the last period but never got any closer.

The victory gave Kentucky only their second divisional title ever and sent them into action Sunday night against Memphis as the Colonels open the Eastern Division playoffs at home.

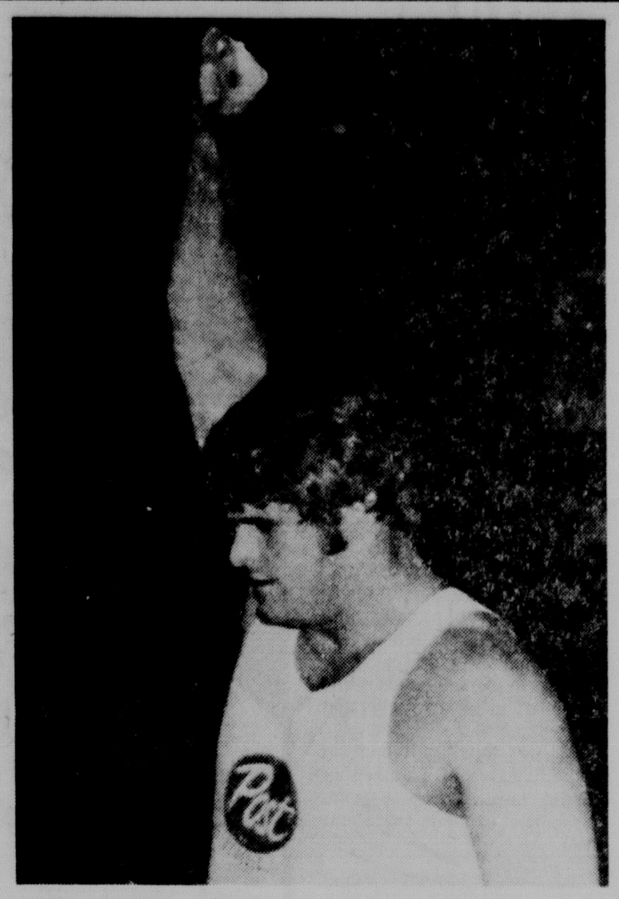

Brown said just the feat of tying New York for the regular season lead was amazing.

"Two weeks ago we were four games back and we've had to win 10 games in the last 14 days. Anyone familiar with our injury situation knows we're only playing with seven and a half men," Brown said.

Nets' Coach Kevin Loughery said he was pleased with his teaam's effort. "I'm very proud of our team for hanging in there the way we did after trailing by 18. I thought if we ever got it to one we would take them — but we never got it to one," Loughery added.

Loughery said the Colonels will see a few different wrinkles from New York if the two hook up in the division playoffs.

"We were changing defenses around tonight. I don't want to take anything away from Kentucky because they shot very well, but when we get time to practice we'll work on a few things and if we're fortunate enough to play them again they'll see something new."

NEW CHAMP: Brain Oldfield raises a fist as he accepts acclaim of crowd after unloosing the longest shot put ever in track and field history. The put was 72 feet, 6½ inches Friday night at the International Track Association Indoor Meet at the Cow Palace. The professional shot putter bettered the world indoor mark of 72 feet, 2¾ set by amateur George Woods last year. (AP Wirephoto)

Ski Business Booms At Michigan Lodges

DETROIT (AP) — Business at Michigan's ski lodges was up at least 15 per cent this winter from a year ago as the resorts enjoyed sustained cold weather and an unexpected side benefit of the recession, the Auto Club of Michigan reports.

Vastly improved availability of gasoline also was a major factor as many of the lodges posted their best season in decades, the auto club said.

Club touring manager Jerry Ratke said a survey of 56 lodges showed a vast improvement this year despite the "feeling of doom and gloom which swept the tourism industry last fall with auto layoffs."

He said that although snowfall was below normal in many areas, widespread lodge closings were experienced on only one weekend.

The survey also showed that proprietors of several lodges in southeast and northwest Lower Michigan believed the economy actually helped business.

"In the south, lodge operators said they attracted Detroit-area skiers who pared down on expenses by staying near home," Ratke said.

"Many northern lodge operators said they appealed to skiers who in past years had taken expensive trips to the western U.S. or Europe."

Rangers Get Into Playoffs

New York Triumph Puts Out Flames

ATLANTA (AP) — No sooner had the New York Rangers clinched a spot in the National Hockey League playoffs than they were talking confidently of their chances of winning the Stanley Cup.

"We're good enough to beat anybody, at any time, anywhere, under any conditions," said Derek Sanderson, who scored the winning goal which gave the Rangers a 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Flames Friday night.

The triumph put both the Rangers and the New York Islanders into the playoffs and eliminated Atlanta, which had been struggling to catch the two New York clubs.

In the night's other NHL game, the Vancouver Canucks defeated the Minnesota North Stars 4-1 to clinch first place in Division 2.

"You know we're really going into the playoffs strong," said Ranger veteran Rod Gilbert afterwards. "This type of comeback really lifts the morale."

"I don't know what this club can do," Francis said. "This is the first time we've had them all back from their injuries. It's only in the last week or 10 days that everyone's been back. This is the healthiest we've been since Nov. 15."

Over in the Flames dressing room, the players were subdued and disappointed.

"I've not much to say," Coach Fred Creighton told reporters. "They were the winners, and we were the loser. It was as simple as that. We started off well, then made some mistakes we shouldn't have."

Tom Lysiak put the Flames on the scoreboard at 9:04 of the first period when he bulled his way past two Rangers and beat Ranger goaltender Gilles Villemure. Rey Comeau knocked in a rebound later in the period to give Atlanta a 2-0 lead.

Francis said he told his players before the third period that they needed a quick goal and Jean Ratelle responded with a power-play score after only 29 seconds of play. Rick Middleton tied the game less than two minutes later with a 20-foot slap shot past Atlanta's Phil Myre.

The playoff matchups will depend on the results of games to be played before the season ends Sunday night, but Francis figures the Rangers probably will meet the Islanders.

"At least we won't have to worry about transportation," he said.

John Gould triggered a threegoal spree in the second period as the Canucks trimmed the North Stars, who were held to just one shot in the first period and 10 for the game.

Hubby Muffed Dance Chance

By GAY McGEE

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — "Picture the scene," said 52-year-old Ada Flood. "My husband had been begging me to dance for him...but I told him I wasn't ready. He giggled every time I came home."

Mrs. Flood has been taking belly dancing lessons at the Bay City YWCA. .

"The night we got our finger cymbals, I passed up coffee with the girls, went straight home, hung up my coat and kept those noisy little cymbals quiet while I got them out of my pocket and on my fingers.

"He was watching television in the living room. I walked up behind him, struck a pose, clicked the cymbals twice and said:

"I'm here.'"

"Wait," he said, "until this program is over."

Mrs. Flood still feels her husband lost his chance and vows never to dance for him. But she comes across like a real life "Maude" who's loving every minute of it.

She plans to confine her dancing to the bedroom, counting 1-2, 1-2-3.

"With the door closed," she said. "Every woman fantasizes."

Her belly-dancing companion, Gert Verity, a 68-year-old widow, says she just hums, "When the girls in France do the hoochy-koochy dance" while she's practicing.

They came to belly dancing from a Bible study class they also were attending together. And they defended it during one of the classes because "they all thought it was funny."

"There's a world of difference between real belly dancing and the hoochy koochy," Mrs. Verity said. "It's an art form. It's beautiful."

Mrs. Verity had a fall at an ice skating rink but has missed only a few classes because of the accident.

Mrs. Flood works at rebuilding automotive starters, generators and alternators in her husband's shop.

"God meant us to have fun," said Mrs. Flood. "I'm getting my fun by being with my friends and keeping my body limber at the same time. I wouldn't go out and dance. That's not my bag — but it's a great hobby."

The two grandmothers are unusually articulate students, but their motive for attending instructor Judi Tara's classes was typical. They needed a little exercise, and they wanted to see what the excitement was all about.

A survey of the 100 pupils who filled the five classes at the YWCA showed they ranged in age from a 19-year-old counter girl to Mrs. Verity. There were several registered nurses, a choir director, a smattering of teachers and cosmetologists and many like the 28-year-old who listed her occupation as "mother."

They were married to a banker, a firefighter, a mechanic, an airline agent and a purchasing agent, among many husbands' occupations.

A pair of students said they wanted to be more sexy and sensuous, but one young lady said she merely wanted to keep her mind active.

Several admitted they thought it would be "fun to dance for my husband."

Three Eye Vacancy On Allegan Council

ALLEGAN — Three candidates are seeking to fill the remaining two years of a four-year term on the city council here in the annual municipal election Monday.

Also, two incumbents are running unopposed for two four-year terms on the five-member non-partisan council. There are no other issues on the ballot.

HENRY BARBER

MRS. NORMA J. STONE

Monte H. Lane, Chester Pendowski and Mrs. Jeanette Rumery are the three candidates vying to replace Lawrence Morgan, a council appointee who decided not run. Morgan was appointed last year to fill, until this election, the vacancy created by the resignation of former Mayor Joe Armstrong.

Lane, 47, is the owner and operator of the Lane Soft Water company in Allegan. He and his wife, Gloria, have two daughters and reside at 132 Grand street.

Pendowski, 102 Julia street, is a supervisor at the Brown Paper company in Kalamazoo. He and is wife, Helen, have five children. Pendowski is 54 years old.

Mrs. Rumery, 56, and her husband, Weldon, live at 8 Weeks street. They are the parents of three children. Mrs. Rumery is a housewife. Her husband is president and manager of the Allegen county fair.

Barber, 40, 120 Hill street, has been on the council for the past four years, the last two as mayor. He is the president of the American National bank in Allegan. He and his wife, Marilyn, have three children.

Mrs. Stone, 40, 1719 Linn street, a housewife, has been mayor pro tem for the past two years of her six-year tenure on the council. She and her husband, Ray, have seven children.

The council elects the mayor and mayor pro tem yearly.

NUCLEAR POWER

Forum To Air Both Sides

A Nuclear Forum tonight in the Unitarian church, 601 Main street, St. Joseph, will feature four authorities speaking on both sides of the subject.

Panelists will be:

Dr. G. Hoyt Whipple, professor radiological health, School of Public Health University of Michigan, who will replace Donald C. Cook, chairman and chief executive officer of American Eletric Power Co. who originally had been invited.

Dr. Dean E. Abrahamson, professor of public affairs and chairman of the All-university Council on Environmental Quality at University of Minnesota.

The forum is sponsored by the YWCA, Grand Mere Association, American Association of University Women, League of Women Voters, United for Survival and Unitarian Fellowship of Berrien county.

John Paul Taylor, of St. Joseph, will be panel moderator.

Michigan Means A Smile, A Hug To Viet Orphan

DETROIT (AP) — It took only a smile and a hug for 6-year-old Vo Van Hay to win a place in the hearts of his new American family Friday.

The cheerful boy was one of three Michigan-bound Vietnamese orphans who completed their transoceanic trip in the last 48 hours.

One of the three has as adoptive parents Mr. and Mrs. Lim Wong of Berrien Springs. They flew to California Friday for their first glimpse of the child.

Vo Van joined the big, happy family of railroad worker Ernest Berbas and his wife, Jeanene, of suburban Waterford Township in Oakland County. Arrangements for his adoption began last August and were intensified as the Vietnam warfront disintegrated last week.

Berbas, father of six children and grandfather of one, pulled out all the stops Wednesday after being told it would take at least 45 days to complete the government paper work for the adoption.

He had spent the whole day pleading his cause before a middle-of-the-night call from the Friends of Children of Vietnam notified him early Thursday that Vo Van was on his way to the United States along with about 45 other orphans headed from Saigon to Oakland, Calif.

Berbas touched base again with all the State Department people he had met in his efforts to speed up the paper work. He also appealed to Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich. some congressmen and state legislators.

It all paid off Friday morning as Berbas, his wife and their five children ranging in age from 5 to 22 were on hand at the airport for the arrival of the smiling boy.

"He was so happy and had such a big smile...it was just as if we had known him forever," said Berbas.

As television cameras and still cameras clicked, Vo Van, who speaks no English, turned the tables on the photographers by producing his toy camera and simulated taking pictures himself.

Berbas forgot for at least a brief moment the worries involved in the fact he was on a week's layoff from his job as a yard brakeman in the Grand Trunk and Western Railroad yards near Pontiac.

"We are just delighted with Vo Van (who is to be renamed Timothy Scott Berbas), and he will be a great companion for our other little guy, our son Christopher," said Berbas.

Vo Van is scheduled to be enrolled next week in kindergarten at Williams Lake School, as a classmate of Christopher.

A second Vietnamese orphan brought to the Detroit area faced rougher going for the moment. Hoan Thi Van, who will be 2 years old in July, arrived in Detroit Thursday and was admitted to Children's Hospital for treatment of malnutrition, dysentery and other ailments.

The couple has two other children, 5 and 6, both of whom were adopted through the Friends of All Children.

The third Michigan adoptee is 13-month-old Danh Thi Phoung, to be rechristened Ohnma Lisa Wong. Her foster parents are Lim Wong and his wife, Mavis, of Berrien Springs.

The childless couple, both of whom teach in the Dowagiac area, flew to California Friday for their first glimpse of their new child.

William L. Raye, 2, Toledo, Ohio, $50 for use of marijuana April 2 in St. Joseph.

Sentenced for impaired driving were: Donald L. Ferry, 44, 1412 Langley, St. Joseph, $150; Joseph R. Culvahouse, 43, Bridgman, $150; Freddie R. Jenkins, 28, 1199 Parkway, Benton Harbor, $200 and six months probation; Larry J. LaVanway, 28, 4948 Beck, Coloma, $500 for second offense.

Man Pleads Guilty To Gun Charge

PAW PAW — Michael Robinson, 29, route 2, 63rd avenue, Hartford, pleaded guilty when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh District court on an amended charge of possession of a firearm while intoxicated.

Robinson had been charged with carrying a concealed weapon in connection with a complaint Oct. 12 following a disturbance outside a Hartford bar. Police said he was arrested after they had seen a man waving a shotgun inside a pickup truck near the bar.

In another case, James C. Shaffner, no age listed, Galesburg, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of uttering and publishing a no account check. The preliminary examination was scheduled for April 15 and Shaffner released on his own recognizance.

Computer May Spare Kids Dental Pains

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Children may be spared some future dental problems by a new five-minute operation to remove wisdom tooth "buds" spotted by a computer forecasting system, says a UCLA dental school senior who helped develop the process.

The computer system allows dentists to predict the size and shape of a child's jaw by maturity so that they can determine if the wisdom teeth will have sufficient space in which to grow, says dental student Patrick K. Turley.

MARATHON: Beth McKay, left, and Monica Simmons, both of Bangor, were among 14 members of Van Buren association for Retarded Citizens youth group that held two-day rocking chair marathon Wednesday and Thursday. Rockers raised reported $1,250 that will be used to send delegate to International Special Olympics at Mt. Pleasant, Mich., in August, and for activities at work activity center, Arlington school for trainable retarded, near Bangor. Miss McKay is president of youth group. (Marguerite Smith photo)

New Appeal Is Filed By Ex-Buchanan Teacher

BUCHANAN — Former Buchanan high school teacher John Moulder has filed a new appeal of his dismissal by the Buchanan school board to the state teacher tenure commission.

The 58 - year - old South Bend resident has asked the commission to reverse the board's Oct. 3, 1974, dismissal on grounds the board committed "substantive" errors during an eight-session public hearing sought by the teacher.

Clifford Weiler, Lansing attorney representing the English instructor, said Moulder has claimed that there was not reasonable and just cause for his dismissal, and that his discharge was too severe for the allegations filed against him.

The commission, on Feb. 14, rejected Moulder's earlier appeal that procedural errors were committed during the hearing.

Weiler said the commission, in agreeing to hear a further appeal, ruled that only written depositions would be received and no oral testimony would be presented. No date has been set to receive the depositions, Weiler said.

Moulder has also appealed a Michigan Employment Security commission ruling that he wait six weeks before collecting unemployment compensation under a federal program. Jack York, Michigan Education association representative, said no date has been set by the employment security commission to hear the compensation appeal. The ruling was made because the MESC held Moulder was let go for reason.

Moulder was dismissed after high school principal Dr. Walter Vanderbush leveled a series of allegations against the teacher including that he was ineffective in the classroom and failed to provide classroom control.

Breaking Windows Gets Pair 30 Days

District Judge Hugh Black handed county jail terms to two St. Joseph teenagers yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court for throwing rocks through two large plate glass windows.

Karl W. Wahl, 18, 1503 State street, and Washington R. O'Brien, Jr., 18, 404 LaSalle, were both sentenced to 30 days in jail, fine and costs of $200, one year probation and restitution of $153.50 each.

Earlier they pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to commit malicious destruction to property valued under $100. On the night of March 22 the boys hurled rocks through two windows, measuring six feet by eight feet, at the Bella Villa motel, Lincoln township.

Judge Black commented that he hopes others will take notice of the stiff sentences for vandalism. The two, originally charged with malicious destruction to property valued over $100 (a felony), were sentenced on reduced charges.

Berrien Sentence 'Frees' Jailed Pair

Two men were sentenced yesterday in Berrien circuit court, but were immediately freed after leaving court, since both had spent more time in jail than the jail terms imposed on them.

Sentenced to 90 days in jail each by Judge Julian Hughes were Amos Ray Jr., 24, 370 Walnut street, Benton Harbor, and Isadore Davis, 19, Detroit.

However, Ray had already spent 147 days in jail, and Davis 127 days. The two had pleaded no contest to unrelated charges, and waived their right to a presentence investigation, allowing Hughes to sentence them on the spot.

Ray pleaded no contest to a charge of being a disorderly person by loitering in a public place Sept. 4 at Territorial road and Fifth street, Benton Harbor. A charge of delivery of LSD was dismissed by the prosecutor's office.

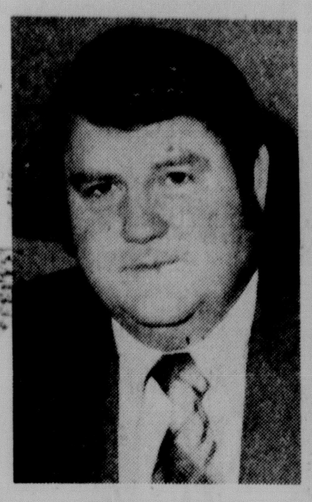

Davis pleaded no contest to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property valued at less than $100—a stolen car Oct. 20 on I-94 in Benton township.

Four Evacuation Vessels Steaming Toward Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. Navy task force including four aircraft carriers began assembling in the Western Pacific today for possible evacuation of Americans and South Vietnamese from Saigon, official sources said.

The sources said the task force had no orders to move into Vietnam waters but the threat to the capital was being assessed by the hour.

No major action was reported around Saigon today but intense fighting was reported to the south in the Mekong River delta. The heavily populated delta was held intact by the government during the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong offensive despite loss of the northern and central parts of the country.

Attacks on government positions were also reported near Lai Khe, 30 miles north of Saigon, and near the provincial capital of Ham Tan, 75 miles to the east.

Two American ships evacuated 14,000 Vietnamese refugees from Vung Tau southeast of Saigon to Phu Quoc island in the Gulf of Thailand.

The U.S. aircraft carriers Enterprise, Coral Sea, Midway and Hancock were reported in various locations from off the coast of Japan and the Philippines to midway between the Philippines and Indochina, sources said.

All the carriers have attack bombers aboard.

A fifth ship, the helicopter carrier Okinawa, is standing by in the Gulf of Thailand off Cambodia for evacuation of Americans from Phnom Penh. It has hundreds of U.S. Marines aboard.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Embassy discounted the possibility of sabotage in the crash Friday of a U.S. Air Force jet carrying Vietnamese war orphans to America. About 200 of the 319 persons aboard were feared killed when the C5A Galaxy crashed in a rice paddy 1½ miles from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport shortly after takeoff.

It was the second worst aircraft disaster on record.

An embassy spokesman "everything points to mechanical failure. The pilot's report said the aft (rear) pressure doors blew and went through the aft loading doors. They hit the tail and put the elevators out of action.

Pentagon sources said they suspected sabotage because the C5A is built so that controls should not be affected if the doors blow out.

What caused the doors to blow was not clear.

Aboard the C5A Galaxy were 243 orphans, 43 women employes of the U.S. defense attache's office, 23 volunteers escorting the orphans, and 10 crew members.

In Washington, U.S. intelligence sources reported North Vietnam was pouring more than 1,000 fresh troops a day into South Vietnam in apparent buildup for an attack on Saigon. Military analysts estimate Hanoi has nearly a quarter of a million combat soldiers in South Vietnam. Four strategic reserve North Vietnamese divisions have been reported in the south, raising the total to 18.

Two reserve divisions spotted near Hue are reported moving south.

By comparison, South Vietnam has 13 divisions, about half of them scattered in disorderly retreat. Three-fourths of the country was lost to the Communist-led forces over the past month.

President Nguyen Van Thieu in a television speech accused the United States of backing off its commitments.

He said: "the Americans and their Congress have now seen what they must do in order to avoid themselves being accused of betraying the people of the Republic of (South) Vietnam."

Thieu said that Washington had promised that if Hanoi violated the Paris cease-fire agreement "the U.S. government would react strongly and offer adequate economic and military aid for South Vietnam ..."

He added that the "strong reaction promised by the U.S. government did not exist."

Oil Well Sets Depth Record

ITHACA, Mich. (AP) — A new record for Michigan's deepest oil well was reached today.

Officials of McClure Oil Co. of Alma say their test well southeast of here hit the 13,000 foot level early today, surpassing by four feet the old record for the state's deepest oil well.

Russian Pressure Reported

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — "Soviet pressure" forced the International Chess Federation (FIDE) to strip Bobby Fischer of the world chess crown and award it to Soviet grandmaster Anatoly Karpov by default, a Filipino chess official said today.

Florencio Campomanes, deputy president of FIDE, said the Soviets pressured some federation delegates at a meeting March 18-20 in the Dutch city of Bergen to reject one of Fischer's conditions before playing Karpov — a rule that would declare the defending champion the winner if the match reached a 9-9 tie.

FIDE awarded the world chess title to Karpov on Thursday after Fischer failed to send word he would play the Russian challenger under rules voted by the federation.

Campomanes' accusation apparently was a reaction to Soviet charges that Fischer was incapable of defending his title.

"The Soviet chess federation knew that without the 9-9 rule, Bobby would not play, and that it could regain the world title with a paper champion," Campomanes said. He said Fischer "gave them the title on a silver platter.

"One Middle Eastern delegate was invited to Moscow just before the Bergen meeting in an effort to convince him not to vote the Fischer proposal," he said.

"Another Asian delegate was visited in his home on a Saturday and a Sunday by Soviet diplomatic officials. Another independent-minded Scandinavian delegate complained of so much Soviet pressure in his own city so that he reacted violently and voted against the Soviet advices.

"How many others were pressured but could not speak out for fear of a boycott by Soviet grandmasters ... we will never know."

Townships Can't Cut Salaries Of Officials

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Townships cannot reduce salaries of elected township officials during the officials' term of office under a measure Gov. William Milliken has signed into law.

The measure, signed Friday, also prohibits townships from raising salaries of their officials within 60 days prior to an election.

More Americans Like Spending

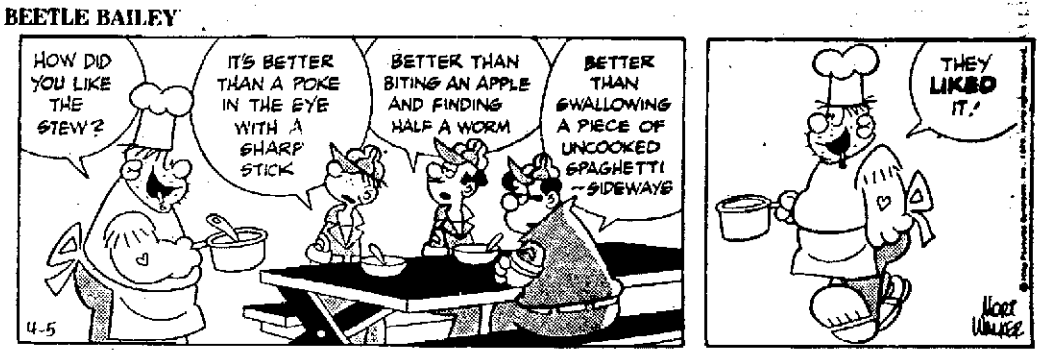

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are getting a brighter outlook on spending money, curbing inflation and slowing the rate of unemployment, according to a Harris survey released Thursday.

The percentage of Americans willing to spend money rather than save for a rainy day or invest has risen to an 18-month high of 30 per cent. However, 50 per cent said they will still save their money.

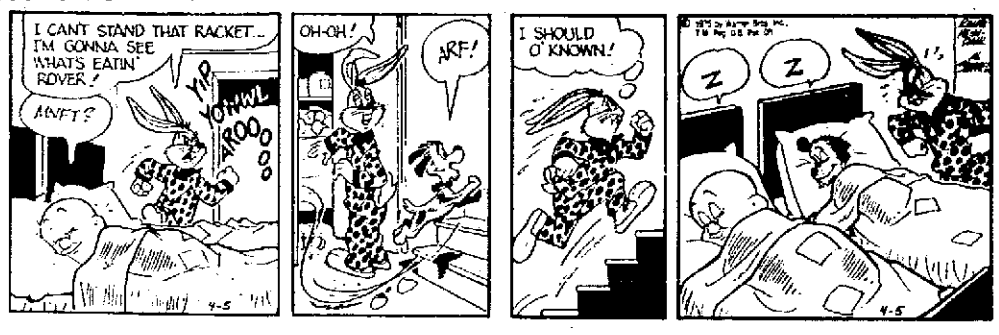

Those willing to spend money on new clothes numbered 60 per cent while those certain to buy minor appliances totalled six per cent.

More Americans Like Spending

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are getting a brighter outlook on spending money, curbing inflation and slowing the rate of unemployment, according to a Harris survey released Thursday.

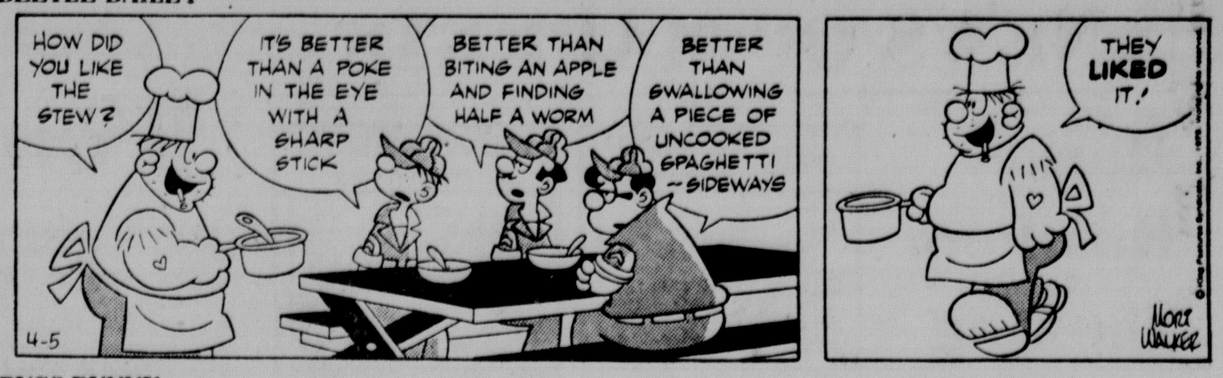

The percentage of Americans willing to spend money rather than save for a rainy day or invest has risen to an 18-month high of 30 per cent. However, 50 per cent said they will still save their money.

Those willing to spend money on new clothes numbered 60 per cent while those certain to buy minor appliances totalled six per cent.

Only four per cent said they would be willing to buy a new automobile a figure unchanged from March 1974.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Has Poor Showing

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, troubled by federal budget worries and the Southeast Asia situation, turned in its poorest showing of the year this past week.

The slackened pace of trading contrasted sharply with the record-breaking activity of the first three months of 1975.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, losing ground in all five trading days, fell an even 23 points to 747.26.

It was the biggest setback for the Dow since the week of Dec. 2-6, when it tumbled 31.06 points to a 12-year low of 577.60 before embarking on one of its sharpest advances on record.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 2.97 to 80.88, and the New York Stock Exchange's composite index was down 1.48 at 42.98.

Losers overwhelmed gainers 1,327 to 478 among the 2,007 issues traded on the NYSE.

Big Board volume, at 74.40 million shares, barely surpassed the 73.18 million total recorded in the previous week, which was shortened to four trading days by the Good Friday holiday.

Analysts said the market had several concerns on its mind. But by far the most influential was a straining bond market, where long-term interest rates were climbing under heavy borrowing demand from corporations and the government, seeking to finance the federal deficit.

Brokers noted that a steady decline in interest rates had been a major stimulant for the stock market's strong early-1975 rally. The latest developments raised fears that that downtrend in the cost of money might be reversing itself.

There was a wide variety of other worries, from the Communist-led thrusts into Cambodia and South Vietnam to a continued climb in the unemployment rate, with the March figure hitting 8.7 per cent, up from 8.2 in January and February.

The market also got a psychological setback on Thursday, when IBM, a Wall Street favorite frequently described as a "bellwether" issue, dropped below 200 for the first time in several weeks. The stock wound up the week at 198, down 9½.

IBM's weakness carried over to other issues in the pantheon of glamor growth stocks. Xerox, for example fell 4 to 67¾ and Eastman Kodak lost 3¾ to 89⅛.

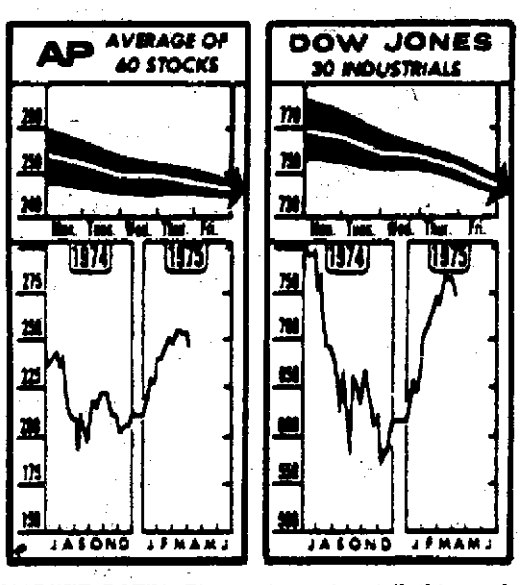

Sears, Roebuck, the nation's largest retailer, skidded 4¼ to 63. On Thursday the company reported a 2.9 per cent decline in March sales while most other major store-chain operators were posting increases.

In all, 153 issues hit new 1975 highs on the Big Board, against 34 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was down 6.8 at 247.3.

MARKET DOWN: The stock market fell this week with the Dow Jones average closing at 747.26 Friday, down 23.0 from the week prior. The Associated Press average dropped by 6.8 over the same period, to close at 247.3. Analysts attributed the slump to fears that the government deficit could lead to higher interest rates. INVESTORS' GUIDE

Shulsky Advises Talk With Trust Officer

BY SAM SHULSKY
TRUST FUND

Q. We want to leave some money to our child and grandchildren but we have no faith in our daughter's ability to handle money. At our death we would like to tie up the capital so as to assure our daughter of long-term income and our grandchildren of an education.

A. Your best bet is to talk to the trust department of your bank or to see an estate lawyer.

TREASURY BONDS

Q. I am interested in Treasury bonds. How do I buy them and is there a best time? I hear they pay as high as 12 per cent.

A. Bite your tongue! The day our government has to pay 12 per cent for money, we will be in deep trouble. Currently Treasury securities are yielding 5 to 6 percentage points below your rumored report.

If you are still interested, you can buy Treasury issues — running from short-term bills to long-term bonds — at your nearest Federal Reserve Bank or branch. An inquiry there will tell you when they are being offered.

Q. I am 28, earn $16,000 a year, and have $28,000 group life and $10,000 whole life insurance. My investments consist of some electronic stocks, mutual funds and weekly E bond purchases. A financial adviser suggested that I cash in all my present insurance and buy some 9½ per cent real estate mortgage bonds selling at 65. He would then use the bond interest to pay the premium on new term insurance and for the purchase of shares of a mutual fund, which he assures me will provide financial security in later years. You comments, please.

A. I am reluctant to give life insurance advice without knowing more about your responsibilities. But two points call for comment: (1) Term insurance has excellent uses, but I have been told by experts that it is not the idea base for a lifetime insurance program. Sometimes it may not be renewable, and even if renewed, only at a prohibitive premium in later years. (2) I don't know which real estate mortgage bond he is recommending as a source of money with which to buy term insurance and mutual fund shares. But it should be obvious that a real estate mortgage selling at 65 cents on the dollar and yielding 14.6 per cent is hardly a triple-A base of operations.

Finally, anyone who "assures" that any equity investment "will provide financial security in later years" is a knave, and anyone who believes him is a fool.

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES?

Q. My wife and I are in our early 70s. We are divided on the question of savings certificates versus long-term bonds. She favors 7½ per cent savings accounts. I would like to put some money into 9 to 11 per cent bonds because I have been told that savings accounts provide no protection against inflation. She doesn't want to tie up our money in bonds for 15 years or more, even though I tell her that bonds can always be sold.

A. There is nothing unusual about the position of either one of you. This is a popular argument. High grade long-term bonds today yield about 1 per cent more than the 7½ per cent offered by savings certificates. While it is true that a bond due in the year 2005 can be liquidated tomorrow, it is also true that there is no guarantee as to what price you will get. You may show a profit or a loss on the sale.

Secondly, you must cut your bond sights to around 8½ to 8¾ per cent (not 9 to 11 per cent) if you want to talk about the same quality as insured savings. So what you are talking about is a difference of only 1 per cent. Finally, savings accounts and bonds don't offer any protection against inflation.

STUDY REVEALS MORE STRESS

Women Hit Harder By Layoffs

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "Women who are the last hired and first fired in these times of economic recession" suffer more stress than men when they find themselves unemployed, a University of Michigan study indicates.

"While women, in general, report twice as much stress as men, unemployed women report almost four times more stress than unemployed men," according to Dr. Rachell Warren of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations, a joint unit of U-M and Wayne State University.

Dr. Warren said 766 men and women in eight Detroit-area communities were interviewed last spring as part of a U-M study, "Helping Networks in the Urban Community," funded by the National Institute of Mental Health.

The study is designed to determine where people go to resolve their problems or get help.

Dr. Warren said such stress symptoms as headache, tension, depression and trouble falling asleep were reported by less than 10 per cent of both the employed and unemployed men interviewed in the study.

But an average of 18 per cent of employed women, 23 per cent of housewives and 33 per cent of the unemployed women complained of those symptoms.

"Contrary to the popular stereotype, it is not the working woman who suffers the most stress in our society," Dr. Warren says. "Our preliminary findings suggest that she experiences far fewer psychological stress symptoms than housewives or women who are unemployed."

"Blue collar women have the most problems and receive the least help from anyone, including their spouses. That is why they are under more stress from a layoff than their white collar counterparts or males of either job status."

"Support systems"—places where people go to get help— differ according to the sex and occupation of the individual, Dr. Warren reports.

The blue collar man is more likely to rely on his co-workers as problem helpers than the blue collar woman, she says. White collar men and women are the most likely to use the services of formal professional agencies.

Both blue and white collar men receive more problem-solving help from their wives than wives receive from their husbands, she says.

In short, Dr. Warren says, "women in general give twice as much help as they receive, and blue collar women receive the least of all."

Traditional manpower studies have focused on the male as the breadwinner, Dr. Warren says, despite the fact that many families, especially in the lower income brackets, cannot subsist without the wife's earnings.

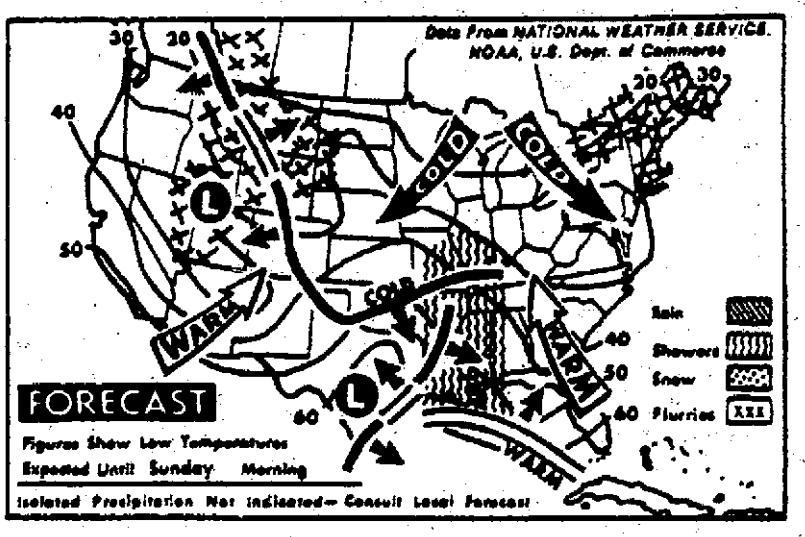

"It is time that policy makers become aware of the severe threat that unemployment poses to the female as well," she says.

NATIONWIDE SURVEY

Most Bosses Like First-Name Policy

DETROIT (AP) — An overwhelming percentage of bosses call their secretary by her first name and prefer to be addressed in the same manner, according to results of a nationwide survey.

Ninety-five per cent of the more than 500 employers who responded to the survey said they used their secretaries' first names, and 72 per cent indicated they preferred being called by their first names.

"We spend so much time together, a more formal address would be unnatural," was a typical comment.

But several of those who said they do not want to be addressed by their first names rejected the idea vehemently.

"I'd fire her — if she did," wrote a lawyer from Missouri.

"This is a professional office," declared another executive. "We expect dignity and self-respect in dealing with each other. No first names."

According to the survey, conducted by Kelly Services, Inc., professionals such as doctors, lawyers and accountants were more reluctant than other groups to be called by their first names.

But most businesses indicated that when a secretary is new or when clients are present they prefer the more formal "Mr." or "Miss."

Age differences between employers and employees did not appear to be a major factor in the use of a more formal approach.

The survey showed many of those who responded believed a relaxed, informal atmosphere in an office helped increase productivity.

As a Michigan health insurance executive put it:

$150,000 Asked By Benton Man

A Benton township man has filed suit in Berrien circuit court for injuries allegedly sustained when he fell while painting a ceiling at the Donald C. Cook nuclear plant in Lake township.

Named defendants in the suit were Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., I&M Power Co., American Electric Power Co., and American Electric Power Service Corp. The latter two are the parent firm of I&M.

The plaintiff, Henry L. Christopher, of 2542 Brice road, seeks $150,000, claiming he was injured May 20, 1974, while working as a painter for J.L. Manta Co., which was doing painting work at the Cook plant. The suit claims Christopher fell 30 feet to the ground while spray painting a ceiling.

The suit charges the defendants failed to provide safety harnesses, scaffolding, nets, and a safe place to work.

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says it will close two of its eight assembly plants next week, temporarily laying off 7,200 workers in Illinois and Missouri.

No Treats For Goblins Under Bill

The Detroit Democrat said his bill would make it a misdemeanor to give any type of food to trick-or-treaters on Halloween.

"Door-to-door solicitation of candy and other consumable items by children has resulted in a number of tragic cases of illness and injury. These trickor-treaters are at the mercy of sick and criminally minded people who place dangerous and potentially deadly articles in treats," he said.

Ogonowski introduced the measure unsuccessfully the two previous sessions.

"Halloween is an old and enjoyable holiday for children," he said. "It has never been my intention to do away with it as many people have mistakenly believed.

"My bill is motivated by the desire to encourage safer, saner Halloweens by conducting more parties and carnivals under supervision in schools, churches, clubs and homes."

Two Avalanches Tie Up Traffic

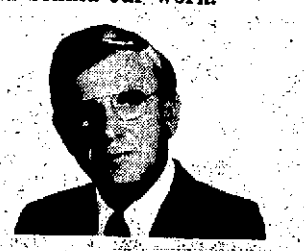

ALTDORF, Switzerland (AP) — Avalanches blocked the two most important Alpine links between northern and southern Europe today, stalling thousands of cars and delaying international trains by hours. There were no reports of any casualties.

One snowslide buried the tracks of the St. Gotthard railroad on the northern end of a tunnel and police said the danger of more avalanches barred full-scale clearing operations.

Another huge snowslide interrupted car and rail traffic through the Brenner Pass linking Austria with Italy, with snow piling up to 60 feet high.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Has Poor Showing

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, troubled by federal budget worries and the Southeast Asia situation, turned in its poorest showing of the year this past week.

The slackened pace of trading contrasted sharply with the record-breaking activity of the first three months of 1975.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, losing ground in all five trading days, fell an even 23 points to 747.26.

It was the biggest setback for the Dow since the week of Dec. 2-6, when it tumbled 31.06 points to a 12-year low of 577.60 before embarking on one of its sharpest advances on record.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 2.97 to 80.88, and the New York Stock Exchange's composite index was down 1.48 at 42.98.

Losers overwhelmed gainers 1,327 to 478 among the 2,007 issues traded on the NYSE.

Big Board volume, at 74.40 million shares, barely surpassed the 73.18 million total recorded in the previous week, which was shortened to four trading days by the Good Friday holiday.

Analysts said the market had several concerns on its mind. But by far the most influential was a straining bond market, where long-term interest rates were climbing under heavy borrowing demand from corporations and the government, seeking to finance the federal deficit.

Brokers noted that a steady decline in interest rates had been a major stimulant for the stock market's strong early-1975 rally. The latest developments raised fears that that downtrend in the cost of money might be reversing itself.

There was a wide variety of other worries, from the Communist-led thrusts into Cambodia and South Vietnam to a continued climb in the unemployment rate, with the March figure hitting 8.7 per cent, up from 8.2 in January and February.

The market also got a psychological setback on Thursday, when IBM, a Wall Street favorite frequently described as a "bellwether" issue, dropped below 200 for the first time in several weeks. The stock wound up the week at 198, down 9½.

IBM's weakness carried over to other issues in the pantheon of glamor growth stocks. Xerox, for example fell 4 to 67¾ and Eastman Kodak lost 3¾ to 89⅛.

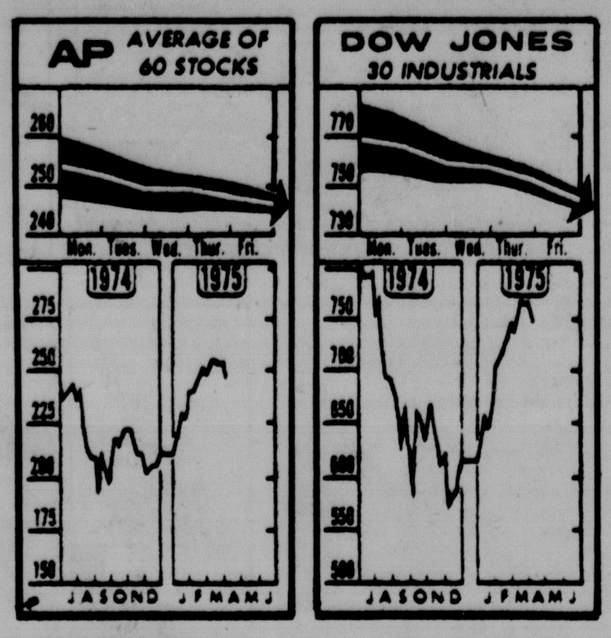

Sears, Roebuck, the nation's largest retailer, skidded 4¼ to 63. On Thursday the company reported a 2.9 per cent decline in March sales while most other major store-chain operators were posting increases.

In all, 153 issues hit new 1975 highs on the Big Board, against 34 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was down 6.8 at 247.3.

MARKET DOWN: The stock market fell this week with the Dow Jones average closing at 747.26 Friday, down 23.0 from the week prior. The Associated Press average dropped by 6.8 over the same period, to close at 247.3. Analysts attributed the slump to fears that the government deficit could lead to higher interest rates. INVESTORS' GUIDE

Shulsky Advises Talk With Trust Officer

BY SAM SHULSKY
TRUST FUND

Q. We want to leave some money to our child and grandchildren but we have no faith in our daughter's ability to handle money. At our death we would like to tie up the capital so as to assure our daughter of long-term income and our grandchildren of an education.

A. Your best bet is to talk to the trust department of your bank or to see an estate lawyer.

TREASURY BONDS

Q. I am interested in Treasury bonds. How do I buy them and is there a best time? I hear they pay as high as 12 per cent.

A. Bite your tongue! The day our government has to pay 12 per cent for money, we will be in deep trouble. Currently Treasury securities are yielding 5 to 6 percentage points below your rumored report.

If you are still interested, you can buy Treasury issues — running from short-term bills to long-term bonds — at your nearest Federal Reserve Bank or branch. An inquiry there will tell you when they are being offered.

Q. I am 28, earn $16,000 a year, and have $28,000 group life and $10,000 whole life insurance. My investments consist of some electronic stocks, mutual funds and weekly E bond purchases. A financial advisor suggested that I cash in all my present insurance and buy some 9½ per cent real estate mortgage bonds selling at 65. He would then use the bond interest to pay the premium on new term insurance and for the purchase of shares of a mutual fund, which he assures me will provide financial security in later years. You comments, please.

A. I am reluctant to give life insurance advice without knowing more about your responsibilities. But two points call for comment: (1) Term insurance has excellent uses, but I have been told by experts that it is not the idea base for a lifetime insurance program. Sometimes it may not be renewable, and even if renewed, only at a prohibitive premium in later years. (2) I don't know which real estate mortgage bond he is recommending as a source of money with which to buy term insurance and mutual fund shares. But it should be obvious that a real estate mortgage selling at 65 cents on the dollar and yielding 14.6 per cent is hardly a triple-A base of operations.

Finally, anyone who "assures" that any equity investment "will provide financial security in later years" is a knave, and anyone who believes him is a fool.

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES?

Q. My wife and I are in our early 70s. We are divided on the question of savings certificates versus long-term bonds. She favors 7½ per cent savings accounts. I would like to put some money into 9 to 11 per cent bonds because I have been told that savings accounts provide no protection against inflation. She doesn't want to tie up our money in bonds for 15 years or more, even though I tell her that bonds can alsways be sold.

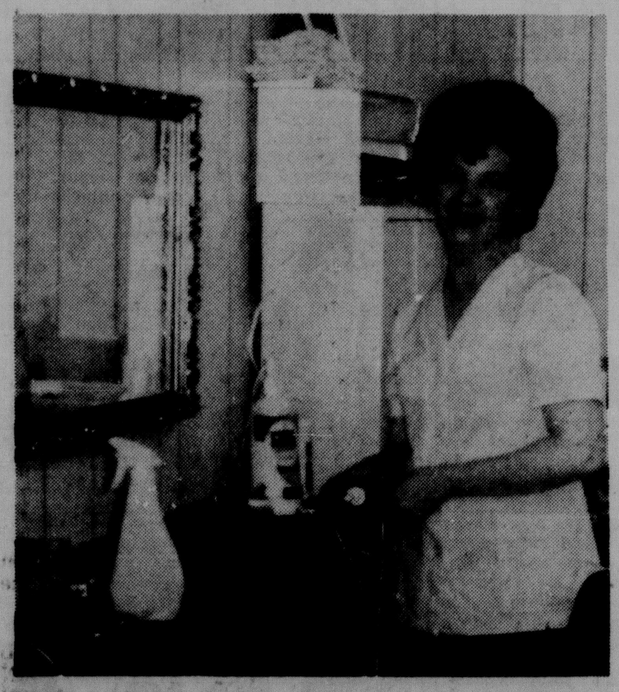

A. There is nothing unusual about the position of either one of you. This is a popular argument. High grade long-term bonds today yield about 1 per cent more than the 7½ per cent offered by savings certificates. While it is true that a bond due in the year 2005 can be liquidated tomorrow, it is also true that there is no guarantee as to what price you will get. You may show a profit or a loss on the sale.

Secondly, you must cut your bond sights to around 8½ to 8¾ per cent (not 9 to 11 per cent) if you want to talk about the same quality as insured savings. So what you are talking about is a difference of only 1 per cent. Finally, savings accounts and bonds don't offer any protection against inflation.

STUDY REVEALS MORE STRESS

Women Hit Harder By Layoffs

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "Women who are the last hired and first fired in these times of economic recession" suffer more stress than men when they find themselves unemployed, a University of Michigan study indicates.

"While women, in general, report twice as much stress as men, unemployed women report almost four times more stress than unemployed men," according to Dr. Rachell Warren of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations, a joint unit of U-M and Wayne State University.

Dr. Warren said 766 men and women in eight Detroit-area communities were interviewed last spring as part of a U-M study, "Helping Networks in the Urban Community," funded by the National Institute of Mental Health.

The study is designed to determine where people go to resolve their problems or get help.

Dr. Warren said such stress symptoms as headache, tension, depression and trouble falling asleep were reported by less than 10 per cent of both the employed and unemployed men interviewed in the study.

But an average of 18 per cent of employed women, 23 per cent of housewives and 33 per cent of the unemployed women complained of those symptoms.

"Contrary to the popular stereotype, it is not the working woman who suffers the most stress in our society," Dr. Warren says. "Our preliminary findings suggest that she experiences far fewer psychological stress symptoms than housewives or women who are unemployed."

"Blue collar women have the most problems and receive the least help from anyone, including their spouses. That is why they are under more stress from a layoff than their white collar counterparts or males of either job status."

"Support systems"—places where people go to get help— differ according to the sex and occupation of the individual, Dr. Warren reports.

The blue collar man is more likely to rely on his co-workers as problem helpers than the blue collar woman, she says. White collar men and women are the most likely to use the services of formal professional agencies.

Both blue and white collar men receive more problem-solving help from their wives than wives receive from their husbands, she says.

In short, Dr. Warren says, "women in general give twice as much help as they receive, and blue collar women receive the least of all."

Traditional manpower studies have focused on the male as the breadwinner, Dr. Warren says, despite the fact that many families, especially in the lower income brackets, cannot subsist without the wife's earnings.

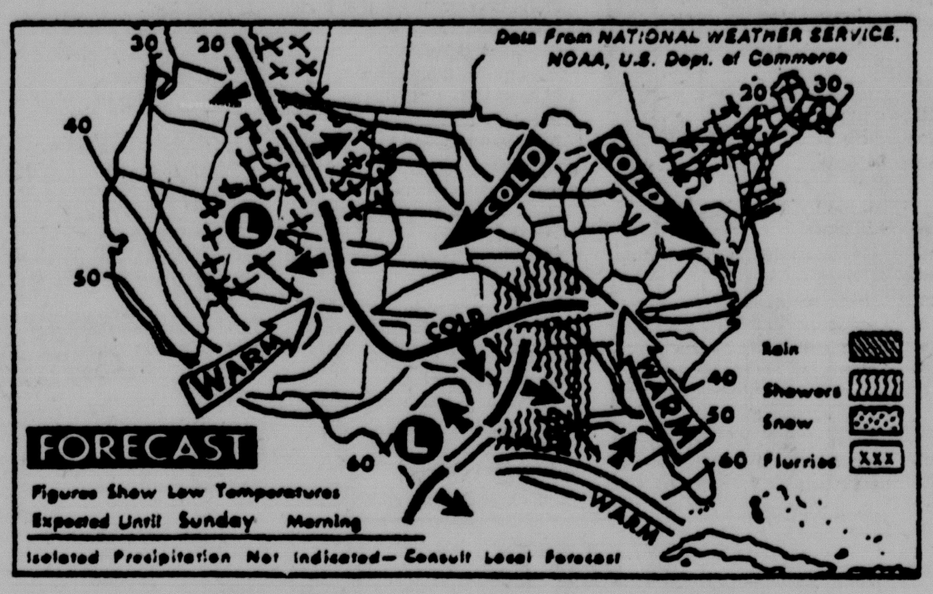

"It is time that policy makers become aware of the severe threat that unemployment poses to the female as well," she says.

NATIONWIDE SURVEY

Most Bosses Like First-Name Policy

DETROIT (AP) — An overwhelming percentage of bosses call their secretary by her first name and prefer to be addressed in the same manner, according to results of a nationwide survey.

Ninety-five per cent of the more than 500 employers who responded to the survey said they used their secretaries' first names, and 72 per cent indicated they preferred being called by their first names.

"We spend so much time together, a more formal address would be unnatural," was a typical comment.

But several of those who said they do not want to be addressed by their first names rejected the idea vehemently.

"I'd fire her — if she did," wrote a lawyer from Missouri.

"This is a professional office," declared another executive. "We expect dignity and self-respect in dealing with each other. No first names."

According to the survey, conducted by Kelly Services, Inc., professionals such as doctors, lawyers and accountants were more reluctant than other groups to be called by their first names.

But most businesses indicated that when a secretary is new or when clients are present they prefer the more formal "Mr." or "Miss."

Age differences between employers and employees did not appear to be a major factor in the use of a more formal approach.

The survey showed many of those who responded believed a relaxed, informal atmosphere in an office helped increase productivity.

As a Michigan health insurance executive put it:

$150,000 Asked By Benton Man

A Benton township man has filed suit in Berrien circuit court for injuries allegedly sistained when he fell while painting a ceiling at the Donald C. Cook nuclear plant in Lake township.

Named defendants in the suit were Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., I&M Power Co., American Electric Power Co., and American Electric Power Service Corp. The latter two are the parent firm of I&M.

The plaintiff, Henry L. Christopher, of 2542 Brice road, seeks $150,000, claiming he was injured May 20, 1974, while working as a painter for J.L. Manta Co., which was doing painting work at the Cook plant. The suit claims Christopher fell 30 feet to the ground while spray painting a ceiling.

The suit charges the defendants failed to provide safety harnesses, scaffolding, nets, and a safe place to work.

No Treats For Goblins Under Bill

The Detroit Democrat said his bill would make it a misdemeanor to give any type of food to trick-or-treaters on Halloween.

"Door-to-door solicitation of candy and other consumable items by children has resulted in a number of tragic cases of illness and injury. These trickor-treaters are at the mercy of sick and criminally minded people who place dangerous and potentially deadly articles in treats," he said.

Ogonowski introduced the measure unsuccessfully the two previous sessions.

"Halloween is an old and enjoyable holiday for children," he said. "It has never been my intention to do away with it as many people have mistakenly believed.

"My bill is motivated by the desire to encourage safer, saner Halloweens by conducting more parties and carnivals under supervision in schools, churches, clubs and homes."

GREENBROOK ESTATES DRAINAGE DISTRICT STORM DRAIN ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
The Berrien County Drain Commission will receive sealed proposals for the work shown below until 11:00 A.M. on the 22nd of April, 1975, at the office of the Berrien County Drain Commission, Room 101, Berrien County Courthouse, St. Joseph, Michigan 49085, at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud in Room 101 at the Berrien County Courthouse.

The work on which proposals are to be submitted includes:

1. Installation of Storm Drain: Approximately 2220 lineal feet of storm sewer ranging in size from 12 inch to 36 inch, including drainage structure complete and ready to use.

2. Purchase of Materials: For the furnishing F.O.B. job site unloaded of all type and kinds of material called for in Purchase Proposal.

The Contract Documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of Harry H. Nye, Berrien County Drain Commissioner, Room 101, Berrien County Courthouse, St. Joseph, Michigan.

Copies of documenns including plans and specifications, required for review or bidding purposes, may be obtained only from Drain Commission by depositing $20.00 with the Drain Commission for each set of documents so obtained.

The full amount or the deposit for one set of documents and one-half of the deposit for any additional sets of documents will be refunded to any bidder who submits a bona fide bid and returns the documents in good condition. Contractors who do not submit bid, subcontractors, equipment manufacturers, and others who return the documents within ten days after the opening of bids will be refunded one-half of their deposit.

A certified check or bank draft payable to the Berrien County Drain Commission, or a satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder and a surety company in an amount equal to five percent (5%) of the bid shall be submitted with each proposal.

No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of proposals without the consent of the Berrien County Drain Commission for a period of ninety (90) days after the scheduled time of closing bids.

The Berrien County Drain Commission reserves the right to waive any irregularities, reject any or all bids, or accept any bid when, in their opinion, such act will serve their best interests.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond and labor and material bond in the amount of one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price.

PAYMENT: The Material Contractor will receive 100% of his bid price with check on the County Treasurer within 30 days after he has furnished all the materials necessary, unloaded F.O.B. job site and has replaced any damaged or defected material.

The installing Contractor will be paid 90% of contract price with check by the County Treasurer for work completed as estimated by the engineer at the end of each 30 day period, provided at least $1000 has been earned during the estimate period. The remaining 10% will be retained by the owner for 80 days or until he receives written consent of the Surety and furnishes an affadavit that all his indebtedness on this project has been paid in full.

GREENBROOK ESTATES
DRAINAGE DISTRICT
STORM DRAIN
ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
The Berrien County Drain Commission will receive sealed proposals for the work shown below until 11:00 A.M. on the 22nd of April, 1975, at the office of the Berrien County Drain Commission, Room 101, Berrien County Courthouse, St. Joseph, Michigan 49085, at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud in Room 101 at the Berrien County Courthouse.
The work on which proposals are to be submitted includes:
1. Installation of Storm Drain: Approximately 2220 lineal feet of storm sewer ranging in size from 12 inch to 36 inch, including drainage structure complete and ready to use.
2. Purchase of Materials: For the furnishing F.O.B. job site unloaded of all type and kinds of material called for in Purchase Proposal.
The Contract Documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of Harry H. Nye, Berrien County Drain Commissioner, Room 101, Berrien County Courthouse, St. Joseph, Michigan.
Copies of documenns including plans and specifications, required for review or bidding purposes, may be obtained only from Drain Commission by depositing $20.00 with the Drain Commission for each set of documents so obtained.
The full amount or the deposit for one set of documents and one-half of the deposit for any additional sets of documents will be refunded to any bidder who submits a bona fide bid and returns the documents in good condition. Contractors who do not submit bid, subcontractors, equipment manufacturers, and others who return the documents within ten days after the opening of bids will be refunded one-half of their deposit.
A certified check or bank draft payable to the Berrien County Drain Commission, or a satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder and a surety company in an amount equal to five percent (5%) of the bid shall be submitted with each proposal.
No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of proposals without the consent of the Berrien County Drain Commission for a period of ninety (90) days after the scheduled time of closing bids.
The Berrien County Drain Commission reserves the right to waive any irregularities, reject any or all bids, or accept any bid when, in their opinion, such act will serve their best interests.
The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond and labor and material bond in the amount of one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price.
PAYMENT: The Material Contractor will receive 100% of his bid price with check on the County Treasurer within 30 days after he has furnished all the materials necessary, unloaded F.O.B. job site and has replaced any damaged or defected material.
The installing Contractor will be paid 90% of contract price with check by the County Treasurer for work completed as estimated by the engineer at the end of each 30 day period, provided at least $1000 has been earned during the estimate period. The remaining 10% will be retained by the owner for 90 days or until he receives written consent of the Surety and furnishes an affadavit that all his indebtedness on this project has been paid in full.

Commissioner Selent, seconded by Commissioner Gillespie moved approval of the foregoing reports and that the Director of Finance be authorized and issue vouchers in payment of the several amounts.

Commissioner Gillespie, seconded by Commissioner Selent, moved to appoint the necessary election workers for the April 7, 1975, ANNUAL CITY ELECTION at a compensation of $25.00. The complete list of members by precincts is on file in the City Clerk's Office.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried.

The City Manager stated that he had sent copies of the revised Articles of Incorporation for the Community Emergency Services to the six (6) municipalities who, with this city, constitute all municipalities involved in the proposed incorporation.

The Manager submitted a proposal for engineering services by COLE ASSOCIATES, SOUTH BEND, INDIANA, for the performance of engineering services to prepare detailed drawings for the construction of the sewers, inlets and manholes necessary for the complete separation of storm and sanitary sewers in the area bounded by Lake Boulevard, Main Street, Ship Street and including an area on Forres Street and Winchester as outlined in the Study Report submitted to the City on March 7, 1975. The proposal is to do the work at a cost not to exceed Fifteen Thousand Nine Hundred Dollars ($15,900.00).

After discussion, Commissioner Selent, seconded by Commissioner Gillespie moved that the proposal be approved.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried.

RESOLUTION
APPROVING APPLICATION

WHEREAS the City of St. Joseph desires to construct a Lookout Park in the area of 3240 Lakeshore Drive in the City of St. Joseph, and

WHEREAS the project has been described in an application to be submitted to the Parks and Recreation Commission of the County of Berrien, State of Michigan, and

WHEREAS the City Commission is fully advised in the premises

THEREFORE, RESOLVED that the application prepared on behalf of the City of St. Joseph and signed by Dick Kiesel, as representative of the City of St. Joseph, be and hereby is approved.

RESOLVED FURTHER that the City Manager is hereby authorized and directed to submit the signed application to the Parks and Recreation Commission, County of Berrien.

Commissioner Gillespie, seconded by Commissioner Selent moved adoption of the foregoing resolution.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

The City Manager presented a letter from the ST. JOSEPH ART ASSOCIATION requesting permission to use the park overlooking Lake Michigan for the Art Fair to be held July 13, 1975 with July 20, 1975 as the rain date. Commissioner Selent, seconded by Commissioner Gast moved that permission be granted.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas, Commissioner Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS the City of St. Joseph in the County of Berrien, Michigan, desires to hold the Blossomtime Parade, May 10, 1975, from 9:00 A.M. until 5:00 p.m. within the right-of-way of State Trunkline Highway U.S. 33 and Interstate Highway 94, which is under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Department of State Highways, and

WHEREAS the Department of State Highways is willing to issue a permit therefore provided that the said applicant will provide indemnity and protection against all liability arising by reason of Michigan law.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Commission of the City of St. Joseph, Berrien County, Michigan, that in consideration of the Michigan Department of State Highways granting a permit to the City of St. Joseph upon proper application therefore to hold the parade May 10, 1975, along and upon the right-of-way of State Highway U.S. 33 and Interstate Highway 94 in the City of St. Joseph, Michigan, the City of St. Joseph will save harmless and indemnity all persons against all liability which arises or which might arise due to the passage along State Highway U.S. 33 and Interstate Highway 94 as stated in the application and permit.

Commissioner Gillespie, seconded by Commissioner Selent, moved approval of the foregoing resolution.

Roll call resulted as follows: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried and resolution carried.

MRS. MARJORIE HARTWIG, representing UNITED FOR SURVIVAL, appeared with several residents of St. Joseph and request the Commission take action and indicate its preference for five (5) alternate options for the proposed I-94 BL. The matter apparently has been requested by the Enviro-Pact Division of USC, Inc.

Mrs. Hartwig indicated that her group favors the "No Build" option, which would leave the existing I-94 as it is.

ROBERT MISKILL and a number of baseball boosters appeared before the City Commission and renewed their request to construct a fence at the baseball field in the Southeast corner of Dickinson Park. Mr. Miskill suggested that the fence could be purchased thru and installed by Sears, Roebuck & Co. at an estimated cost of Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000.00), and that if necessary the boosters could supply the fence for the project. He also stated that the fence could be a movable one and that this would permit additional activities in this part of the park.

There being no further business to come before this commission, Commissioner Selent moved to adjourn until Monday, March 31, 1975 at 7:00 P.M.

Commissioner Selent, seconded by Commissioner Gillespie moved approval of the foregoing reports and that the Director of Finance be authorized and issue vouchers in payment of the several amounts.

Commissioner Gillespie, seconded by Commissioner Selent, moved to appoint the necessary election workers for the April 7, 1975, ANNUAL CITY ELECTION at a compensation of $25.00. The complete list of members by precincts is on file in the City Clerk's Office.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried.

The City Manager stated that he had sent copies of the revised Articles of Incorporation for the Community Emergency Services to the six (6) municipalities who, with this city, constitute all municipalities involved in the proposed incorporation.

After discussion the Commission took no action preferring to consider the matter for another week.

The Manager submitted a proposal for engineering services by COLE ASSOCIATES, SOUTH BEND, INDIANA, for the performance of engineering services to prepare detailed drawings for the construction of the sewers, inlets and manholes necessary for the complete separation of storm and sanitary sewers in the area bounded by Lake Boulevard, Main Street, Ship Street and including an area on Forres Street and Winchester as outlined in the Study Report submitted to the City on March 7, 1975. The proposal is to do the work at a cost not to exceed Fifteen Thousand Nine Hundred Dollars ($15,900.00).

After discussion, Commissioner Selent, seconded by Commissioner Gillespie moved that the proposal be approved.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried.

RESOLUTION
APPROVING APPLICATION

WHEREAS the City of St. Joseph desires to construct a Lookout Park in the area of 3240 Lakeshore Drive in the City of St. Joseph, and

WHEREAS the project has been described in an application to be submitted to the Parks and Recreation Commission of the County of Berrien, State of Michigan, and

WHEREAS the City Commission is fully advised in the premises

THEREFORE RESOLVED that the application prepared on behalf of the City of St. Joseph and signed by Dick Kiesel, as representative of the City of St. Joseph, be and hereby is approved.

RESOLVED FURTHER that the City Manager is hereby authorized and directed to submit the signed application to the Parks and Recreation Commission, County of Berrien.

Commissioner Gillespie, seconded by Commissioner Selent moved adoption of the foregoing resolution.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

The City Manager presented a letter from the ST. JOSEPH ART ASSOCIATION requesting permission to use the park overlooking Lake Michigan for the Art Fair to be held July 13, 1975 with July 20, 1975 as the rain date. Commissioner Selent, seconded by Commissioner Gast moved that permission be granted.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas, Commissioner Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS the City of St. Joseph in the County of Berrien, Michigan, desires to hold the Blossomtime Parade, May 10, 1975, from 9:00 A.M. until 5:00 p.m. within the right-of-way of State Trunkline Highway U.S. 33 and Interstate Highway 94, which is under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Department of State Highways, and

WHEREAS the Department of State Highways is willing to issue a permit therefore provided that the said applicant will provide indemnity and protection against all liability arising by reason of Michigan law.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Commission of the City of St. Joseph, Berrien County, Michigan, that in consideration of the Michigan Department of State Highways granting a permit to the City of St. Joseph upon proper application therefore to hold the parade May 10, 1975, along and upon the right-of-way of State Highway U.S. 33 and Interstate Highway 94 in the City of St. Joseph, Michigan, the City of St. Joseph will save harmless and indemnity all persons against all liability which arises or which might arise due to the passage along State Highway U.S. 33 and Interstate Highway 94 as stated in the application and permit.

Commissioner Gillespie, seconded by Commissioner Selent, moved approval of the foregoing resolution.

Roll call resulted as follows: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Selent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner Hanley. Motion declared carried and resolution carried.

MRS. MARJORIE HARTWIG, representing UNITED FOR SURVIVAL, appeared with several residents of St. Joseph and request the Commission take action and indicate its preference for five (5) alternate options for the proposed I-94 BL. The matter apparently has been requested by the Enviro-Pact Division of USC, Inc.

Mrs. Hartwig indicated that her group favors the "No Build" option, which would leave the existing I-94 as it is.

ROBERT MISKILL and a number of baseball boosters appeared before the City Commission and renewed their request to construct a fence at the baseball field in the Southeast corner of Dickinson Park. Mr. Miskill suggested that the fence could be purchased thru and installed by Sears, Roebuck & Co. at an estimated cost of Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000.00), and that if necessary the boosters could supply the fence for the project. He also stated that the fence could be a movable one and that this would permit additional activities in this part of the park.

There being no further business to come before this commission, Commissioner Selent moved to adjourn until Monday, March 31, 1975 at 7:00 P.M.

Ford Wants Extension Of Unemployment Help

By Associated Press

President Ford says he will ask Congress to extend until the end of 1976 a supplemental benefits program that entitles most workers to as much as 65 weeks of unemployment compensation.

Ford, on a working vacation in California, told a meeting of the San Francisco Bay Area Council Friday night that his request for an 18-month extention of the program would be sent to Capitol Hill next week. Without congressional action, the program would expire June 30.

Although he made no direct mention of government statistics issued earlier in the day showing that nationwide unemployment climbed to 8.7 per cent, Ford emphasized jobless benefits in his speech.

He said he also was recommending improvements in aid to the 12 million persons in the workforce not regularly covered by unemployment insurance. He proposed to extend the present one-year temporary program for such persons to the end of 1976 and extend the benefit period from 26 to 39 weeks.

The President added that "in the expectation that the economy will show improvement before the year is out, I am going to ask that these extended programs have a built-in procedure to reduce or terminate the program when the unemployment rate decreases to a specified level." He did not say what that level might be.

"The procedures will concentrate the limited resources in those areas experiencing the greatest unemployment," he said.

The March unemployment percentage translated into 8 million persons who are jobless and looking for work. It marked an increase of one-half percentage point, or 500,000 persons from the February figure of 8.2 per cent.

The March rate was the highest since 1941, when joblessness averaged 9.9 per cent of the workforce.

Administration officials have said they expect unemployment to hit a peak of 9 per cent this year, but AFL-CIO President George Meany contended Friday that the March figure would have been 9.8 per cent had the so-called "hidden unemployed" been included in the computation.

Meany referred to the 3.9 million workers forced to work part-time because full-time jobs are not available and to other persons who have given up looking for jobs and thus are not considered by government statisticians to be members of the potential workforce.

The number of so-called "discouraged workers" who left the workforce climbed to 1.1 million in the first three months of 1975. It was the largest quarterly increase since the Labor Department began classifying such persons in 1967.

Meanwhile, the unemployment picture in the nation's auto industry brightened a bit Friday, as manufacturers announced that worker layoffs will decline by 21,000 next week and that all but three car and truck assembly plants will be in operation.

Of the industry's 712,000 blue collar workers, 215,930 will be on layoff next week, the lowest number since the week of March 10. A total of 237,155 workers were on furlough this week.

Study Shows Early Drug Education Increases Use

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Drug education taught early in junior high school appears to encourage the use of marijuana and alcohol among those pupils, according to a major federally sponsored study.

But the study of 13,500 students in the New Haven area also indicates such courses, when taught to older pupils, tend to discourage the use of drugs somewhat.

The $750,000 project, directed by three Yale University researchers and supported by National Institute of Mental Health and the National Institute of Drug Abuse grants, compared drug use among pupils in various school levels from the 7th grade to the 12th grade.

It showed that 3 per cent of the random sample of 7th graders without various types of drug education in school were currently smoking marijuana during the 1970-71 school year. Two years later, at the 11th grade level, the percentage had risen to 20.

Among students in the same age group taking regular drug courses, the size of the group rose from 2 to 32 per cent during the three-year period.

However, among 9th grade students with no drug course, the percentage of drinkers rose from 6 to 36 per cent during the three years while the percentage of those with regular drug courses rose only from 8 to 27 per cent, according to the study.

The researchers said the results do not support general speculation from some quarters that drug education actually encourages drug use in all age groups.

"Only in the case of younger children do our findings support this notion," the report said.

"For children older than the 7th grade cohort, the results of our study indicate that drug education may be somewhat useful."

The study showed "strikingly similar" experience between the effect of drug education on alcohol and marijuana use, according to Rosalie M. Berberian, assistant professor of psychiatry and director of Yale's center of Survey Research.

The study involved 22 high schools and 22 junior high schools, both public and private, in 12 communities. Under an agreement with school officials, statistics of individual schools were not made public.

American Republic will provide benefits of from $7.50 to $60 a day beginning the first day you are hospitalized for covered sickness or injury...

Since the average stay in the hospital for people under sixty-five is about seven days;* it is important that you buy a hospital policy that starts paying the first day you are hospitalized for covered sickness or accident. The Americare® Family Hospitalization Indemnification Policy is basic first day coverage which can be valuable to any other supplemental policy you might own that only offers protection after the third, fifth or even after the seventh day of hospital confinement.

Why you may need Americare in addition to other hospitalization insurance you may have.

According to the American Hospital Association the average cost per patient day in the hospital reached $114.56 in January of 1974. In fact, this cost has increased over 100% in ten short years.

You probably have group insurance or a policy purchased from your agent. Keep it. You need it.

A hospital stay of only a few days can deplete your savings and leave you in debt. Your Americare protection can help you meet your hospital-stay related expenses and supplement the coverage of your present insurance.

You will be covered as long as you live and continue to pay your current premium on time. Your policy cannot be cancelled nor will we fail to renew it because of health reasons, regardless of the number of claims.

Benefits are provided direct to you, or you may assign them to your doctor or hospital.

This policy (Form A1881) provides benefits in addition to any other insurance you may have up to 365 days.

EXCEPTIONS:

This policy does not cover any sickness that first manifests itself less than 30 days from the date of issue; accidents occurring prior to the date of issue; or hospital care due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or in a U.S. Government or Veterans Hospital. "Hospital" as defined in the policy does not include clinics, convalescent homes, rest homes, nursing homes, or hospitals for the aged, drug addicts or alcoholics.

Your individual rate can never be changed unless the rate is changed for all policyholders in your class, or of your age at the time your policy was issued, or of your sex.

Act Now!

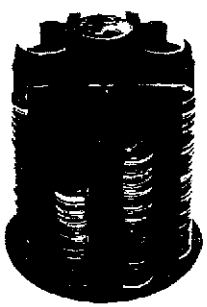

Don't gamble with your future. According to the latest published figures, one person in seven will go to the hospital this year. Right now, while it is fresh in your mind—please fill in the postage-paid reply card below and mail it today. FOR KAY ISELIN GILMAN,

You got to know what makes Joe Namath tick when you researched the book that put you on his enemy list. Do you think he will get married soon?—Mabel Dolan, Atlantic City, N.J.

Joe

Kay Gilmain

Randi

● Joe has told his friends—and I used to be one—that he will never marry while he is playing football because he has strong doubts about his ability to resist the constant temptations that surround him. When and if he does take the plunge, the prime candidate would have to be Randi Oakes, the Iowa-born New York model who has been his steady companion for the last four years.

FOR PRESIDENT GERALD FORD

In view of the acute gasoline shortage, why do you and other high office holders use limousines? Why not an economy car?—Sue Wordell, Brillion, Wis.

● I'm required to use a Secret Service vehicle that is armoured and especially equipped with communications apparatus for my protection. An economy car couldn't accommodate the intricate setup required. About half the vehicles in the White House Motor Pool have been reduced in size in an effort to conserve fuel.

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ, "Peanuts" cartoonist

What grades are Lucy, Linus and Charlie Brown in?—Vicki Cassaday, Lakehurst, N.J.

● I don't know for sure what grades they are in, but I think Sally is in kindergarten.

FOR LESLIE UGGAMS

Is your husband involved with your career, and how does he feel about Women's Lib?—E.B., Green Bay, Wis.

● Grahame is my manager, and he runs his own business. (Which has nothing to do with show business.) Last year he rented a billboard on Los Angeles' Sunset Strip, with a message for me that read, "Love from Grahame. See you soon at the Thunderbird in Las Vegas." As for Women's Lib, he sees nothing wrong with a woman wanting to get out of the kitchen—as long as her name isn't Sara Lee!

FOR ARLENE FRANCIS

My compliments on staying so young and slim. What's your secret?—Mrs. C. Kopf, Spartanburg, S.C.

● The "beauty" part I attribute to lots of soap and water. As to the slim bit, I've never been a big eater. But if I do gain a couple of pounds after a binge (I can't resist strawberry shortcake), I take it right off. I've been exercising since my late 20's so it's now an automatic thing. I even do some exercises in elevators, such as standing on my toes with tight knees, keeping my back flat against the wall.

FOR WILLIE MAYS

If you had your life to live over again, would you have done anything differently? And what is the greatest thing that ever happened to you?—A. Kravitz, New York, N.Y.

● 1) I would try to get a college education. 2) There are two "greatest" things—being able to play baseball for so long and marrying my wife Mae.

FOR MIKE DOUGLAS

How do you maintain such interest, never getting bored, listening to your various guests day after day?—F. Carold, Flint, Mich.

● It's a combination of self-discipline and a love of all people. It's a natural with me. I don't create anything other than myself on the tube—I'm the same guy when I'm off it. As for boredom, the day I get bored—that's the day I'll give it all up.

FOR SYLVIA PORTER, financial columnist

What do you think is in store for the U.S. economy this year?—Sylvia Strickland, Fayetteville, N.C.

● This will be a grim year in my opinion, but, barring a worldwide catastrophe, I believe it will end on a much brighter note than it began.

FOR JACQUES COUSTEAU

Do you believe in the Loch Ness monster?—N. Somes, Casper, Wyo.

● No, I don't think it exists. But the legend persists, and will continue to do so, because one human being out of every four is a mythomaniac.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I've heard strange stories about Linda Blair. Any idea what she's really like?—Rick Jeffers, Ogden, Utah

● Since her fame stemmed from "The Exorcist," we checked with Jason Miller (the Pulitzer-prizewinning playwright who was the priest in the movie). He said: "She was placed in such a high and precarious situation, with so much pressure, that I marveled how she withstood it. She was only 13 then, and a great little actress. She's now at the point where she must protect herself, because that kind of success can be mishandled or go to her head. When I won the Pulitzer Prize for 'That Championship Season,' she gave me a gift. She's an extremely sweet kid who's been placed in a very difficult position. If, as you say, she acts 'strangely,' it's a safeguard. Incidentally, she's a fine horsewoman—I know because I've seen her ride."

FOR KAY ISELIN GILMAN,

You got to know what makes Joe Namath tick when you researched the book that put you on his enemy list. Do you think he will get married soon?—Mabel Dolan, Atlantic City, N.J.

Joe

Kay Gilman

Randi

● Joe has told his friends—and I used to be one—that he will never marry while he is playing football because he has strong doubts about his ability to resist the constant temptations that surround him. When and if he does take the plunge, the prime candidate would have to be Randi Oakes, the Iowa-born New York model who has been his steady companion for the last four years.

FOR PRESIDENT GERALD FORD

In view of the acute gasoline shortage, why do you and other high office holders use limousines? Why not an economy car?—Sue Wordell, Brillion, Wis.

● I'm required to use a Secret Service vehicle that is armoured and especially equipped with communications apparatus for my protection. An economy car couldn't accommodate the intricate setup required. About half the vehicles in the White House Motor Pool have been reduced in size in an effort to conserve fuel.

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ, "Peanuts" cartoonist

What grades are Lucy, Linus and Charlie Brown in?—Vicki Cassaday, Lakehurst, N.J.

● I don't know for sure what grades they are in, but I think Sally is in kindergarten.

FOR LESLIE UGGAMS

Is your husband involved with your career, and how does he feel about Women's Lib?—E.B., Green Bay, Wis.

● Grahame is my manager, and he runs his own business. (Which has nothing to do with show business.) Last year he rented a billboard on Los Angeles' Sunset Strip, with a message for me that read, "Love from Grahame. See you soon at the Thunderbird in Las Vegas." As for Women's Lib, he sees nothing wrong with a woman wanting to get out of the kitchen—as long as her name isn't Sara Lee!

FOR ARLENE FRANCIS

My compliments on staying so young and slim. What's your secret?—Mrs. G. Kopf, Spartanburg, S.C.

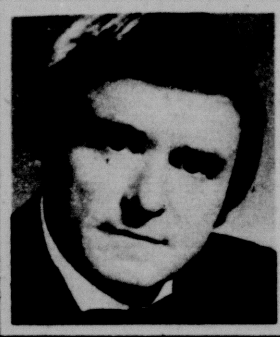

● The "beauty" part I attribute to lots of soap and water. As to the slim bit, I've never been a big eater. But if I do gain a couple of pounds after a binge (I can't resist strawberry shortcake), I take it right off. I've been exercising since my late 20's so it's now an automatic thing. I even do some exercises in elevators, such as standing on my toes with tight knees, keeping my back flat against the wall.

FOR WILLIE MAYS

If you had your life to live over again, would you have done anything differently? And what is the greatest thing that ever happened to you?—A. Kravitz, New York, N.Y.

● 1) I would try to get a college education. 2) There are two "greatest" things—being able to play baseball for so long and marrying my wife Mae.

FOR MIKE DOUGLAS

Did Anyone Really Know Bess Truman?

A look backward on the occasion of her recent 90th birthday

By Lillian Rogers Parks

As told to Frances Spatz Leighton

President Truman, daughter Margaret and wife Bess were known as "The Three Musketeers" to the White House staff.

What was it like to work at the White House with a secretive First Lady, a cussing President and their theatrically ambitious daughter? Warm and friendly. I remember it well. "The Three Musketeers," we called them. And of the three, perhaps the one I remember best is the one the world knew least—the President's wife, Bess.

The mystery woman of the age is not Jackie Kennedy Onassis or any other glamorous female who flits in and out of the headlines. She is Bess Truman, acknowledged by all to be the least-known First Lady of modern times. People who know I worked for her at the White House as maid and seamstress, as well as for other First Ladies from Lou Hoover to Mamie Doud Eisenhower, have suddenly looked me up in my retirement to ask, "Why didn't her daughter Margaret say more about her mother in her book on Harry Truman? Was she jealous of her mother?" And others ask why Harry Truman, in the taped interviews he made with Merle Miller, which became a best seller, also seemed to avoid talking about his wife. "Was it a conspiracy of silence?" they ask.

The answer is yes. Mrs. T., as we called her, would have cringed and scolded her daughter or husband if they had "gone on" about her, as she would call it. For of all the First Ladies and famous women I have seen, Bess Truman was the shiest.

When I say that Bess was shy, most people would think of someone who simply shuns the limelight. But Bess shunned it so much that she would actually hide behind doorways and bushes so that the press and other visitors would see only Harry Truman. Some of the time he let her get away with it. But if he felt she should be in a picture he would send someone to fetch her and she would come forward reluctantly. She was so shy that her palms would sweat when she was faced with a receiving line. But of all the First Ladies I knew, Bess was the best.

John Neubauer

"Once Margaret wanted a certain fur cape. 'I thought I'd put it on your account,' she said. Bess shot back, 'Indeed you will not. You will pay for it yourself.'"

I remember so many things about Bess as First Lady. At first I got off on the wrong foot with her when she thought I was holding back the best towels and giving her frayed and mended ones. I learned that fresh soap and perfect towels had a special significance for her. When she had company, I had to put in a new bar of soap every time a guest washed her hands. And all towels had to be new looking. That was her small idiosyncrasy—or, as the younger generation would say, her hang-up.

In everything else I could see, Mrs. T. was very economical. Once she scolded me about the big laundry bill. I said, "Mrs. Truman, it's because of all the pool towels used by the swimmers." Mrs. Truman said, "Oh?"—and immediately sent notice that the President was to have a separate towel for the pool and the White House staff who used the pool were to bring their own. "I don't like to waste either the government's money or my own, Lillian," she said.

Even though Bess was First Lady, she still had family problems. The general public did not realize that the First Lady's mother, Mrs. Wallace, lived with the Trumans at the White House. Bess loved her mother very much, but Mrs. Wallace seemed to treat her son-in-law as some young upstart, no matter how he tried to woo her. When Bess was visiting Margaret in New York, the President would stop by his mother-in-law's room at the White House to see how she was. She did not exactly welcome his visits. Once when I was sitting with her he stopped in and said, "Are they treating you well, Mrs. Wallace?" Mrs. Wallace leaned over as if to pick up something and pretended she didn't hear. She was not going to be egged into saying something nice by that man.

I mentioned it later to Mr. Prettyman, the President's valet, and he explained it this way: "Mrs. Wallace always thought Harry Truman wouldn't amount to anything. It galls her to see him in the White House, ruining her prediction."

It is my feeling that Mrs. T. had ESP. She was always afraid of household accidents and seemed to have a foreboding that something was going to happen to one of the White House maids. She had an almost pathological fear of ladders—housemen would say, "Don't let Mrs. T. catch you walking under one"—and of rugs. She was always worrying one of us would fall. I was relieved when she left the White House that nothing had done us in as predicted. But years later it finally happened. And it happened to Vietta, Mrs. Truman's personal maid, who had gone back to Independence with the Trumans to work in their home.

Vietta Garr was standing on a kitchen ladder to get a teapot off the shelf above the stove when her dress caught fire. She screamed and fell and was rushed to the hospital. She died of the burns. I was aghast when I heard the news in a letter from Mrs. Truman—it was so ironic, the culmination of her greatest feelings of foreboding.

There were only two times I saw Bess Truman cry. Once was when her mother died. The other was when some Puerto Ricans made their assassination attempt on her husband at Blair House. "I cannot imagine life without him," she said. She loved her husband very much, even though she never showed it in public.

She showed it in private, mostly by teasing him. She would pretend to be reading newspaper articles about him, making up some nasty news or voicing his worst fears, such as that he could not possibly win reelection. She would use a humorous voice that would make the President break out in a big grin.

Once Mrs. Truman insisted that I teach Margaret how to hem a slip, to shorten it. I did, and I think it was the last thing she did along those lines. I remember Bess fretted too about Margaret learning the value of money. Once Margaret wanted a certain fur cape. She had just returned from New York and she casually told her mother about a cape she had seen. "I thought I'd put it on your account," she said.

LIVE! REALLY LIVE!

In One Of The Healthiest, Sunniest Climates In All America—

On Your Own Ranchette Just $349—Only $5 a Month!

(*See Below)

Do you know people who wake up to sunshine 355 days out of each year . . . people who don't know what it is to be oppressed by humid heat in the summer or by the cold clutch of winter damp? Do you know people to whom the sun is a year 'round commonplace? We know such people. They live in sunny, southwest New Mexico.

And in all of New Mexico itself it would be difficult to match the climate and beauty of the region surrounding Deming. As spectacular as the northern portion, but without the cold of winter. As dry and pure as Arizona, but not as hot in the summer.

To live anywhere in New Mexico is to live well. The superb climate, so brilliantly sunny in the winter—the breathtaking beauty of a lavish nature— the vigor of a young and growing state—these are the reasons why tens of thousands of Americans already have moved to New Mexico.

Consider then: Here in the center of this superb climate and beauty are towns which have grown amazingly in the last few years. For example, Las Cruces, New Mexico, only 60 miles from Deming, had 12,000 people in 1950. By 1970, 37,000 . . . a rise of 300% in 20 years—and still growing. Like Tucson, 213 miles from Deming, and Phoenix, Arizona, 301 miles from Deming, this area has the same desert allure and pure air. Statistics show the same percentage of possible sunshine, summer and winter, as Phoenix and Tucson. Beginning 28 miles from the flavorful city of Deming (population 10,000) are 12,000 acres of former ranches whose farthest boundary is 35 miles from town, with an average approximate distance of 31 miles from Deming.

Spectacularly set off by the breathtaking Florida Mountains, this land is so typical of the romance of the southwest that it has been photographed for the covers of many magazines including the official publication of the State of New Mexico. What better way to describe its Southwestern flavor than to tell you that when the producers of the movie THE TALL TEXAN sought an authentic locale for their picture, they chose the same area that we have sub-divided into SUNSHINE VALLEY RANCHETTES. THE TALL TEXAN was filmed here, the same place where you may have a Ranchette of your very own. In this lovely basin every SUNSHINE VALLEY RANCHETTE fronts on graded dirt roads already dedicated to Luna County in widths of 60 to 100 feet. Every Ranchette has direct access leading to three major highways — U.S. Highways 80, 70 and brand new Interstate 10. Schools, hospitals, houses of worship, shops, movies, golf course, tennis courts are located in the growing city of Deming.

DEMING'S friendliness captivates the fancy of people from every state in the Union. To visit us is like going back to the warmth of one's own family. Here are the practical benefits of living anywhere near Deming.

GOLF—The public golf course is right in Deming itself. It is a beautiful course with the Florida Mountains towering in the background. You play 12 months a year in this delightful climate.

HUNTING AND FISHING—What are you after? Deer, antelope, wild turkey? Or maybe bear, mountain lion? Well, you can get dove, quail and rabbits right in your own backyard, in the Floridas. For really big game, and great fishing, try the Gila National Forest 60 miles directly north. Almost 2,000,000 acres for camping, hunting and fishing. Just 65 miles to the northeast is the Caballo Dam-Elephant Butte Reservoir, one of the largest man-made lakes in the United States, where you can boat, fish, swim or go water skiing.

HORSEBACK RIDING—You'll find the Florida Mountains enthralling. Bring along a pouch and join other rockhounds seeking agate and geodes.

A GROWING AREA—Thousands of people have bought Ranchettes through the mail and on site. The new U.S. Interstate 10 has recently been completed and Deming is the ONLY city in all of New Mexico through which I-10 passes and has interchanges. Consider the new road from Palomas (Old Mexico which is only 35 miles south of Deming) which the Mexican government has just recently completed. This road goes to Casas Grandes where the Paquime ruins, among the largest and most mysterious in all of Old Mexico, are just being discovered by tourists. Many of these tourists will eventually go right through Deming, into Palomas where they will eat at Paquimes famous restaurant, and will then continue on to see these magnificent ruins. Deming is the seat of Luna County, THE THIRD FASTEST GROWING COUNTY IN ALL OF NEW MEXICO.

DON'T BE MISLED BY OUR LOW PRICES—Just as there is need for good family style restaurants as well as the more fancy type of restaurants, so there is need for good honest, unimproved, low-priced property. We find pleasure in the fact that we have scores of letters expressing pleasure at the fine treatment customers receive when coming here to visit their property, and their actual surprise at the real beauty of this area and the unusual friendliness of the local people.

We wish we could keep this up forever, but with all the best intentions in the world we find it impossible to cope with today's rising costs in all areas and still continue to give what we consider good value and good service. This is the plain truth. We will not offer any more half-acre Ranchettes when our present inventory is sold.

The price of your Ranchette is just $349 for a full half-acre with low monthly payments of $5 including interest at the annual percentage rate of 6%. You may reserve as many Ranchettes as you wish — one, two or more.

Make your reservation now! No deposit necessary! You take no risk. Your reservation does not obligate you. You have the unqualified right to change your mind within 45 days after we send your Purchaser's Agreement, Property Owner's Kit, Maps and Photographs — 15 days to check our references, talk it over with the family. If, during that time, you should change your mind your reservation will be cancelled with absolutely no obligation. Then you have an ADDITIONAL 30 DAYS AFTER you have made your cash down payment to change your mind and request a full refund of every dollar you have paid in. If this makes sense mail the coupon today.

*The terms for each ½ acre are:

Cash Price	$349
Cash down payment	5
Unpaid balance of cash price	$344

Unpaid balance is scheduled at 84 monthly payments of $5 and 1 monthly payment of $2.65 for each ½ acre, payments including interest at the annual percentage rate of 6% resulting in a finance charge of $78.65, and a total of payments of $422.65 or a deferred payment price of $427.65.

NOTE: If you order 2 half-acres (1 acre), double all of the above figures except the period of repayment which will remain the same. For 3 half-acres (1½ acres) triple the above figures, etc.

And in all of New Mexico itself it would be difficult to match the climate and beauty of the region surrounding Deming. As spectacular as the northern portion, but without the cold of winter. As dry and pure as Arizona, but not as hot in the summer.

To live anywhere in New Mexico is to live well. The superb climate. so brilliantly sunny in the winter—the breathtaking beauty of a lavish nature— the vigor of a young and growing state—these are the reasons why tens of thousands of Americans already have moved to New Mexico.

Consider then: Here in the center of this superb climate and beauty are towns which have grown amazingly in the last few years. For example, Las Cruces, New Mexico, only 60 miles from Deming, had 12,000 people in 1950. By 1970, 37,000 . . . a rise of 300% in 20 years—and still growing. Like Tucson, 213 miles from Deming, and Phoenix, Arizona, 301 miles from Deming, this area has the same desert allure and pure air. Statistics show the same percentage of possible sunshine, summer and winter, as Phoenix and Tucson. Beginning 28 miles from the flavorful city of Deming (population 10,000) are 12,000 acres of former ranches whose farthest boundary is 35 miles from town, with an average approximate distance of 31 miles from Deming.

Spectacularly set off by the breathtaking Florida Mountains, this land is so typical of the romance of the southwest that it has been photographed for the covers of many magazines including the official publication of the State of New Mexico. What better way to describe its Southwestern flavor than to tell you that when the producers of the movie THE TALL TEXAN sought an authentic locale for their picture, they chose the same area that we have sub-divided into SUNSHINE VALLEY RANCHETTES. THE TALL TEXAN was filmed here, the same place where you may have a Ranchette of your very own. In this lovely basin every SUNSHINE VALLEY RANCHETTE fronts on graded dirt roads already dedicated to Luna County in widths of 60 to 100 feet. Every Ranchette has direct access leading to three major highways — U.S. Highways 80, 70 and brand new Interstate 10. Schools, hospitals, houses of worship, shops, movies, golf course, tennis courts are located in the growing city of Deming.

DEMING'S friendliness captivates the fancy of people from every state in the Union. To visit us is like going back to the warmth of one's own family. Here are the practical benefits of living anywhere near Deming.

GOLF—The public golf course is right in Deming itself. It is a beautiful course with the Florida Mountains towering in the background. You play 12 months a year in this delightful climate.

HUNTING AND FISHING—What are you after? Deer, antelope, wild turkey? Or maybe bear, mountain lion? Well, you can get dove, quail and rabbits right in your own backyard, in the Floridas. For really big game, and great fishing, try the Gila National Forest 60 miles directly north. Almost 2,000,000 acres for camping, hunting and fishing. Just 65 miles to the northeast is the Caballo Dam-Elephant Butte Reservoir, one of the largest man-made lakes in the United States, where you can boat, fish, swim or go water skiing.

HORSEBACK RIDING—You'll find the Florida Mountains enthralling. Bring along a pouch and join other rockhounds seeking agate and geodes.

A GROWING AREA—Thousands of people have bought Ranchettes through the mail and on site. The new U.S. Interstate 10 has recently been completed and Deming is the ONLY city in all of New Mexico through which I-10 passes and has interchanges. Consider the new road from Palomas (Old Mexico which is only 35 miles south of Deming) which the Mexican government has just recently completed. This road goes to Casas Grandes where the Paquime ruins, among the largest and most mysterious in all of Old Mexico, are just being discovered by tourists. Many of these tourists will eventually go right through Deming, into Palomas where they will eat at Paquimes famous restaurant, and will then continue on to see these magnificent ruins. Deming is the seat of Luna County, THE THIRD FASTEST GROWING COUNTY IN ALL OF NEW MEXICO.

DON'T BE MISLED BY OUR LOW PRICES—Just as there is need for good family style restaurants as well as the more fancy type of restaurants, so there is need for good honest, unimproved, low-priced property. We find pleasure in the fact that we have scores of letters expressing pleasure at the fine treatment customers receive when coming here to visit their property, and their actual surprise at the real beauty of this area and the unusual friendliness of the local people.

We wish we could keep this up forever, but with all the best intentions in the world we find it impossible tc cope with today's rising costs in all areas and still continue to give what we consider good value and good service. This is the plain truth. We will not offer any more half-acre Ranchettes when our present inventory is sold.

The price of your Ranchette is just $349 for a full half-acre with low monthly payments of $5 including interest at the annual percentage rate of 6%. You may reserve as many Ranchettes as you wish — one, two or more.

Make your reservation now! No deposit necessary! You take no risk. Your reservation does not obligate you. You have the unqualified right to change your mind within 45 days after we send your Purchaser's Agreement, Property Owner's Kit, Maps and Photographs — 15 days to check our references, talk it over with the family. If, during that time, you should change your mind your reservation will be cancelled with absolutely no obligation. Then you have an ADDITIONAL 30 DAYS AFTER you have made your cash down payment to change your mind and request a full refund of every dollar you have paid in. If this makes sense mail the coupon today.

*The terms for each ½ acre are:

Cash Price	$349
Cash down payment	5
Unpaid balance of cash price	$344

Unpaid balance is scheduled at 84 monthly payments of $5 and 1 monthly payment of $2.65 for each ½ acre, payments including interest at the annual percentage rate of 6% resulting in a finance charge of $78.65, and a total of payments of $422.65 or a deferred payment price of $427.65.

NOTE: If you order 2 half-acres (1 acre), double all of the above figures except the period of repayment which will remain the same. For 3 half-acres (1½ acres) triple the above figures, etc.

Bess Truman

I can truly say Mrs. Truman at the White House was one of the best friends I ever had. She would always introduce me to her club members and make me feel a part of things. Once I was most embarrassed when she suddenly brought her bridge club into the attic of the White House where I was working. The place was a mess. Later I said, "Why did you do it? I'm so ashamed of how that attic looks." She said, "Lillian—it looked like an attic should look." She added, "They said they wanted to see the real White House, so I decided to show them some White House rooms that didn't look like a museum."

Mrs. Truman left the White House in January, 1953, and returned in May for a ladies luncheon to which Mamie Eisenhower had invited her. Mr. West brought her up to the linen and sewing room on the third floor to see me.

I told her I was going to California to see my brother. She said, "If you don't stop by the house in Independence we're going to be mighty mad." Well, I didn't make it on that trip, but I did make it on another occasion, and I will never forget the look of that house on 219 North Delaware Street in Independence, Mo.

The first thing that shocked me as I entered was a big picture of Eisenhower, who was certainly not Mr. Truman's friend and about whom he had said many harsh things. "Why?" I asked Vietta, pointing at the portrait on the wall. "Why Ike of all people? I thought that they were practically enemies."

"Because he is President," said Vietta. "That's the way Harry Truman feels about history."

As I continued through the house, I realized that this was what Mrs. Truman had been trying to achieve at the White House. The whole house was light, homey and comfortable, with a quaint touch added of a stained-glass window that filtered the light. In the ex-President's room was the book he was reading, opened to page 229, just where he had left off. The book was titled, "The Battle of Normandy." Perhaps no other First Lady has ever been such a bug on cleanliness. At the White House, she had kept pointing out the dust and the staff would give the rooms another lick and a promise. Eventually she just gave up. "I can't win, Lillian," she would say. "I am surrendering." Her simple, spotless home in Independence was all that the White House could never be.

But I don't mean to imply that Bess Truman was simply a housewife. Far from it. The public never realized the role she played in many of the President's great decisions. The President was always bringing home his important papers and taking Bess with him into his study while he worked. As he himself later admitted, he sought Bess's thinking on every crucial decision—yes, even on whether to drop the first atomic bomb.

There is one final story I remember clearly. When FDR died and Mrs. Truman became First Lady, she had to deal with her predecessor's housekeeper, Mrs. Nesbitt. Mrs. Nesbitt was forever loyal to the Roosevelts. When Bess would ask Mrs. Nesbitt to do something, Mrs. Nesbitt would reply condescendingly, "Mrs. Roosevelt didn't do that." Mrs. Nesbitt had a genius for making the Trumans squirm.

Those who read J. B. West's "Upstairs at the White House" know that Mrs. Nesbitt was finally fired over a stick of butter. But the whole story was not told and I feel I should tell it for history. It shows Bess Truman's character—perhaps better than anything else that happened.

What happened was that Mrs. T. belonged to a Spanish club that met for lunch every week. On this particular week, Bess had been assigned to bring the butter for the luncheon—one stick of butter. It was in the days of World War II rationing.

"He sought Bess's thinking on every crucial decision—yes, even on whether to drop the first atomic bomb."

Being courteous, Mrs. Truman did not just order Mrs. Nesbitt to get the butter. She asked if she might have a stick of butter for the club. Instead of saying, "Yes, of course, Mrs. Truman," the housekeeper said, "No, we've used up almost all our ration stamps already." Mrs. Truman bit her tongue. Then, as she was still smarting from the rebuff, she overheard the social secretary, Mrs. Reathel Odum, ask the housekeeper if she could get her a little "extra butter."

Mrs. Truman almost fainted when she heard Mrs. Nesbitt breezily reply, "Why, child, I can get you all the butter you want."

Bess called her husband, who was in conference in the Oval Office. President Truman had one rule: If his wife called, he was to be disturbed, no matter what.

Truman immediately called the Chief Usher of the White House. "I think it's time to find a new housekeeper," he said. Said the Chief Usher, "That won't be necessary, Mr. President. I have taken care of that already. Mrs. Nesbitt is no longer the housekeeper."

HOW TO PREVENT AND TREAT DISORDERS OF THE PROSTATE

HERE'S PRICELESS INFORMATION FOR ANYONE WHO WANTS TO PREVENT PROSTATE DISORDERS— OR CLEAR UP TROUBLES YOU NOW HAVE!

Do you know the odds are 9 to 1 that if you are a man you will have trouble with your prostate . . . that a larger percentage of these troubles will develop into cancer . . . but it is possible to prevent these troubles from arising?

NEVER BEFORE . . . a book that tells so many intimate facts concerning the effects of sex on the prostate gland. Never before a book that can so vitally affect your personal relations.

Old or young, this book may be of vital importance, for it can guide you and help prevent prostate trouble. Some years ago prostate trouble used to be an old man's disease. But today even men in their 30's suffer from prostate and urinary disorders.

YOU NEED THIS INFORMATION! Don't let a troublesome prostate ruin your life. The knowledge contained in this book may bring you HAPPINESS instead of MISERY. Learn the Truth —the Whole Truth—about your Prostate.

Nothing Is Ignored Or Brushed Aside

I devote three vivid chapters to relations and tell you in plain language the effects of various practices on the prostate and ultimately, the health of both the body and mind.

No aspect is taken for granted, no half measures are permitted, and no details are ignored. I feel that the grief, misery and suffering that can result from ignorance or "putting it off" are so tremendous that you cannot afford to delay acquiring the important knowledge contained in this book. YOU NEED TO ACT NOW!

Proved From ACTUAL EXPERIENCE

Unfortunately for me, I am not theorizing. I ran into trouble with my own prostate, and from actual experience ran the gauntlet of Naturopathy, Fasting, Chiropractic, Acupuncture, Herbal Remedies, Medicine, Drugs, and eventually at the end of the line . . . Surgery.

The result is what you have a right to expect . . . the most comprehensive book on the prostate ever written. Yes, more than 400 pages of clear, easy to read type, with detailed explanatory illustrations.

I didn't want others to suffer the way I did, so I put four years of intensive study, research, personal experience and inquiry into the writing of this volume. It is the only book on the Prostate published anywhere that gives you comprehensive information on all known methods of treatment.

Save Yourself Money, Pain, Suffering, Anxiety!

I don't care who you are . . . this book is a "must"! It may be the means of saving you money, pain, suffering and anxiety. It may be of great importance to those who have felt or sensed the early signs of prostate trouble.

Don't let false modesty or fear prevent you from learning the truth. This is not a topic that is to be kept hidden, for prostate trouble is so prevalent and agonizing that no sensible man should be ashamed to face up to the stark reality that some day the horrors of retention of the urine may be his fate.

With my book you can be prepared for this eventuality and know what to do if and when it strikes, thus avoiding agony and danger of permanent kidney injury.

I feel strongly about this because I went through days of indescribable agony and torture. I literally climbed walls. And all this horrible suffering was an effort in futility. Had I known then what I know now, the whole horrible nightmare could have been avoided.

Smart Cooking Just For Fun

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hanson goes Chinese. "Start with a bowl of Chicken Velvet Soup," says Marilyn, "then proceed to Sweet and Sour Pork Szechuan. But remember: Szechuan cooking, unlike the more familiar Cantonese cooking, is decidedly hot and peppery!"

Chinese Sweet and Sour Pork

(In the Year of the Hare)

Walter Storck

This is the Chinese Year of the Hare. In the background, Chicken Velvet Soup. In foreground, Sweet and Sour Pork.

SWEET AND SOUR PORK SZECHUAN

2 tablespoons soy sauce
¼-½ teaspoon Tabasco
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon sherry
1 lb. lean pork cut in ¼-inch by 1½-inch strips*
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
¼ cup water
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) Sweet and Sour Stir-Fry Entrée Mix
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
½ cup thinly sliced scallions
1 cup diagonally cut green beans, cooked
Hot cooked rice
Chow Mein Noodles

1. Combine soy sauce, Tabasco, garlic and sherry in a medium mixing bowl. Add pork and toss to coat thoroughly. Cover and refrigerate 10 minutes. (If time permits, a longer marinating period improves flavor.)
2. Heat vegetable oil in skillet. Add pork and sauté, stirring, until brown. Add water and glaze mix from Sweet and Sour Entrée Mix. Stir until well blended. Add vinegar and simmer 3 minutes.
3. Add sweet and sour sauce from entrée mix, scallions and beans. Stir to mix well and heat through. Serve on rice. Garnish with crisp Chow Mein Noodles.

Makes 4 servings

CHICKEN VELVET SOUP

2 cans (13¾-oz. size) chicken broth
1 can (7 ozs.) corn, drained
¼ cup finely diced ham
1 tablespoon sherry
Dash ground black pepper
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon thinly sliced scallions

1. Combine chicken broth, corn, ham, sherry and pepper in medium saucepan. Bring to boiling; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes.

Well, more and more smokers are finding exactly what they've been looking for. In Vantage. The first cigarette that successfully provides low 'tar' and nicotine yet holds on to the flavor that other low 'tar' and nicotine cigarettes sacrifice.

In case you didn't know it, the advantage of Vantage is available in menthol also. And more and more menthol smokers have been making the switch.

They're finding that Vantage provides them with all the flavor they want and a lot less 'tar' and nicotine. With one other extra. Menthol.

If you're a menthol smoker who hasn't tried a pack, you ought to know that Vantage Menthol is everything you've ever wanted from a menthol cigarette. But with a lot less 'tar' and nicotine.

Vantage Menthol.

Christians to the Lions!

Bent on being rid of the new and strange religion, pagan Romans had a ringing slogan: "Christians to the lions!" But the followers of Christ had other ideas. They knew that Christ had given them a mission in the world, and they were not about to lie down and play dead, even if some of their number were called upon to suffer martyrdom.

They were idealists enough to hold fast to Christ's teaching and realists enough to know the need for self-discipline and organization if their mission were to be effective. Both the idealism and the realism are impressive in early Christian history as it appears in the New Testament and in the writings of later generations. This history and these writings give us reassurance and courage today, when the spirit of pagan Rome is again abroad in the land. We do well to remember Peter and Paul, Clement and Ignatius, and what they said and did.

For a short survey of the early Christian scene, we invite you to write for our free pamphlet, "The Early Years of the Church." No one will call on you.

Warren Beatty

Talks About Privacy, Marriage, Kids, Himself

By Helen Dorsey

"I think I function more clearly when people resist my ideas. I rather like that because I'm going to do what I want to anyway!"

In person, 37-year-old Warren Beatty was a far cry from his famous cinematic image. He was haggard-looking, overtired from the strain of a succession of 18-hour working days. He wore rumpled clothes—an open-necked shirt, "tired" slacks and belted sport jacket. Despite his reputation for unwillingness to be interviewed, he was unusually cooperative, patient and willing to talk about his personal life. I was amazed by the flow of his energy and his powers of concentration. These are the highlights of our conversation, taped over a 24-hour period:

FAMILY WEEKLY: Did you used to be uptight about the press?

BEATTY: No, but I was offended by the economics of it. I didn't feel that people really wanted to know about me, and I didn't feel that it was important to do an interview with me. The writers who talked with me were usually intelligent people, and I thought they were a little embarrassed at being assigned to do a story on somebody who didn't really stimulate them.

FW: Producing films is a tremendous amount of work. Why do you do it?

BEATTY: Because, as the producer, you control your movie. Once in a while, you want to do something exactly the way you think it should be done. My role is to see that the picture is done as well as it can be.

FW: How do you create an atmosphere in which people want to participate?

BEATTY: You listen to people. You show a certain amount of flexibility, which happens when you really listen to people. And you don't fall prey to what they call the one-man "auteur" theory of making films. You acknowledge the fact that this is a medium of collectivity, one that requires the efforts of a lot of people working together. Sometimes you get more involved in great expenditures of energy and diplomacy, but that's a healthy situation. I think I function more clearly when people resist my ideas. I rather like that because I'm going to do what I want to anyway!

FW: Freedom of choice seems particularly important to you.

BEATTY: Isn't it important to everybody? But maybe you're right. I have never been under contract to anybody. I bought myself back from MGM because I didn't want to be told what to do, and I had the feeling they were going to tell me what to do, or at least try to!

FW: How do you react to being called a sex symbol?
BEATTY: I've never minded that at all! [Laughs uproariously] I don't find it embarrassing. Maybe at one time I did. I think it's ridiculous, but it's sort of flattering!
FW: Why did you turn down ten football scholarships to study speech at Northwestern?
BEATTY: Because I didn't want to get my teeth pushed down my throat! Also, football took so much energy that I didn't have any energy left for anything else.
FW: What were you looking for?
BEATTY: I wanted to direct in the theater, but I went to New York to study acting because I thought that was the foundation of the theater.
FW: Why did you need to become an actor?
BEATTY: I just thought it was a perfect way to make a lot of money! I don't think I ever had a great need to be a great actor. I think that's been borne out by the past 15 years. I could have done 40 or 60 movies, but I've done 14!
FW: Would you ever seek political office?
BEATTY: Not now, but I'd be silly to rule it out for the future.
FW: Is it true you once said: "I don't know if I'm generous enough to run for political office?" What did you mean?

"I don't know that marriage and commitment necessarily go hand in hand. After all, most of my friends have been married many times and there didn't seem to be any commitment involved there!"

BEATTY: Yes, it's true. I meant that the egotistical gratification that comes to a person like me in public life, through recognition, is satisfied in movies. And there's so much abuse that a person takes in pursuit of a political career, I don't think I could tolerate that now.
FW: Are you shy?
BEATTY: Shyness is not necessarily a virtue, is it? I think shyness has more to do with vanity than anything else.
FW: Do you have any fears in your life?
BEATTY: Fears? Yeah, I have a lot of fears. I have a fear of lack of privacy, and I have a fear of going into my fears.
FW: Do you seek anyone's guidance?
BEATTY: I can't honestly say that I seek anyone's guidance at this point, other than my own, but I have a number of friends whose opinions I respect. It would depend on what I had a question about. But I think I might ask my mother and my sister [Shirley MacLaine] and my father about a given issue. Did you see Shirley dance on her special? Wasn't she something? [Smiles]
FW: Are you ever lonely?
BEATTY: Occasionally, but not at the moment. Being alone is fine, but to be lonely implies some kind of unhappiness. I think spending a certain amount of time alone is important to clarify your thinking.
FW: How do you accomplish that?
BEATTY: By going off in a car or to my house. Change is more relaxing for me than anything else—change of environment, or change of activity. Then a whole different set of impulses comes into play.
FW: Money seems unimportant to you.
BEATTY: Once you have money, it becomes less important, but if you don't have money, it's very important.
FW: How much do you value material things?

The First Danbury Mint Mother's Day Bell

Size of Actual Bell 3¾"

- Limited edition available only until Mother's Day, May 11, 1975, and only directly from The Danbury Mint. Not available in stores.
- Each fine silver-covered bell is hallmarked, serially numbered and registered.
- Extraordinary collector's item. Also makes a beautiful and appropriate gift.
- Guaranteed delivery before Mother's Day for all orders mailed by April 20, 1975. Attractively packaged for gift giving.
- Priced at only $23.50.

The first Danbury Mint Mother's Day Bell will be issued in strictly limited edition only for orders postmarked by Mother's Day, May 11, 1975. After that date, it can be acquired only from original owners who are willing to part with it.

This will be the first in an annual series of Mother's Day bells; each will portray one of the beautiful flowers traditionally associated with Mother's Day. Appropriately, the 1975 first issue portrays an American Rose. The visual beauty of this exquisite little bell is enhanced by its enchanting and delightful ring.

Consider this unusual first issue as an extraordinary collector's item for yourself, and consider it also as a superlative gift for any mother. It could well be the start of a most interesting and rewarding tradition.

SUPERFROG!

MURDERS SUPER BASS!

"I couldn't believe my eyes as I hauled big bass aboard."

by John Fox
The American Angler

I'd heard about Bill Plummer's rubber BASS FROG lure: the frog that murders bass! Fishermen friends told me how they caught such giant bass . . . so often . . . so fast . . . that it changed their fishing lives.

Then, I tried BASS FROG myself. I was amazed how this life-like rubber frog got strikes so fast that many times I was not even prepared to set my hook. I was so impressed with BASS FROG that I had Bill on my television show and told everybody about my fantastic luck with BASS FROG. We even showed films of Bill and me landing 3, 4 and 6 lb. bass with BASS FROG. I was sold on BASS FROG.

JOHN FOX

Then Bill Sent Me a Few Samples of SUPERFROG!

First I was just downright skeptical. How could Bill improve on BASS FROG. When I got the Samples, I had to admit that they looked good. The Perma-Gloss skin that covered the new PVC body was dappled and green . . . just like the real McCoy. The legs were more life-like and the hook was longer and sharper. But these changes were cosmetic . . . they didn't necessarily make it a better plug.

15 Minutes Changed My Mind About SUPERFROG!

The true test of a lure is in the water. I went out to the nearest lake and cast out one of my SUPERFROGS . . . POW . . . SPLASH!!!—the exploding commotion of the lure landing and a monster 8 lb. lunker striking savagely . . . SIMULTANEOUSLY . . . at SUPERFROG! I couldn't believe my eyes as I hauled the big bass on board. Just luck, I thought. But, 15 minutes later I had four more lunkers, all averaging between 4 and 8 lbs. Not only that, I found SUPERFROG to be in perfect condition . . . even after the savage beating it had taken.

Why SUPERFROG Casts Safely Into Thickest Weeds

2. Bulb deflector "hops" frog over stumps and branches.
3. Resilient flexible wire keeps guard aligned, wards off obstructions.

Bill Plummer, New England's Most Famous Bass Fisherman, on SUPERFROG!

"I guess I'm just a perfectionist. I knew that my BASS FROG was a good fishcatcher. SUPERFROG is just the result of my long years of fishing and my constant reworking of the original BASS FROG design. My aim has always been to create a bass plug that was so good that anybody could use it . . . even a beginner . . . and come to learn and love the thrills of catching monster bass."

You Must Be Satisfied Or No Cost!

Try SUPERFROG at our risk. Fish the worst weed trap areas you know. . . . Where bass have been caught but where more often you lost your plug. . . . Try for six full months. Unless delighted, return for full refund.

SUPERFROG!

MURDERS SUPER BASS!

"I couldn't believe my eyes as I hauled big bass aboard."

by John Fox
The American Angler

I'd heard about Bill Plummer's rubber BASS FROG lure: the frog that murders bass! Fishermen friends told me how they caught such giant bass . . . so often . . . so fast . . . that it changed their fishing lives.

Then, I tried BASS FROG myself. I was amazed how this life-like rubber frog got strikes so fast that many times I was not even prepared to set my hook. I was so impressed with BASS FROG that I had Bill on my television show and told everybody about my fantastic luck with BASS FROG. We even showed films of Bill and me landing 3, 4 and 6 lb. bass with BASS FROG. I was sold on BASS FROG.

JOHN FOX
• 8 Times National Bass Fishing Champion • 1972 Champion of Champions • Star of "The American Angler" Television Show.

Why SUPERFROG Casts Safely Into Thickest Weeds

2. Bulb deflector "hops" frog over stumps and branches.
3. Resilient flexible wire keeps guard aligned, wards off obstructions.

"I guess I'm just a perfectionist. I knew that my BASS FROG was a good fishcatcher. SUPERFROG is just the result of my long years of fishing and my constant reworking of the original BASS FROG design. My aim has always been to create a bass plug that was so good that anybody could use it . . . even a beginner . . . and come to learn and love the thrills of catching monster bass."

Then Bill Sent Me a Few Samples of SUPERFROG!

First I was just downright skeptical. How could Bill improve on BASS FROG. When I got the Samples, I had to admit that they looked good. The Perma Gloss skin that covered the new PVC body was dappled and green . . . just like the real McCoy. The legs were more life-like and the hook was longer and sharper. But these changes were cosmetic . . . they didn't necessarily make it a better plug.

15 Minutes Changed My Mind About SUPERFROG!

The true test of a lure is in the water. I went out to the nearest lake and cast out one of my SUPERFROGS . . . POW . . . SPLASH!!!—the exploding commotion of the lure landing and a monster 8 lb. lunker striking savagely . . . SIMULTANEOUSLY . . . at SUPERFROG! I couldn't believe my eyes as I hauled the big bass on board. Just luck, I thought. But, 15 minutes later I had four more lunkers, all averaging between 4 and 8 lbs. Not only that, I found SUPERFROG to be in perfect condition . . . even after the savage beating it had taken.

Anybody Can Have A Good Day I Thought . . .

I was amazed with SUPERFROG. But, fishing can be that way. Good one day and Zilch the next. I kept fishing for three more hours. My total catch for the day: 17 big lunker Bass (caught and released)!!! I did not take this at face value. I kept trying SUPERFROG at different times . . . on different bodies of water . . . on big open lakes . . . in marsh ridden impoundments . . . in tiny, hard to get ponds . . . AND EVERYWHERE IT WAS THE SAME . . . SUPERFROG CAUGHT SUPERBASS . . . time after time . . . more often . . . faster . . . even than Bill Plummer's rubber Bass Frog that I found so successful before!

You Must Be Satisfied Or No Cost!

Try SUPERFROG at our risk. Fish the worst weed trap areas you know. . . . Where bass have been caught but where more often you lost your plug. . . . Try for six full months. Unless delighted, return for full refund.

bought since I was a kid. It's a Mercedes coupe. I bought my house because I like the house. I've been looking for that particular kind of house for a long time, and I finally found it. It's sort of a 1930-ish house. It has an art deco quality about it. It would have been very much out of fashion ten years ago, but now it seems to be very much in fashion! I like it because it has a large degree of privacy. It's on a hill. It was in bad enough shape so that I could sort of make it my own when I fixed it up.

FW: Does the house give you a feeling of permanence?

BEATTY: I've always found living in a hotel was as permanent as anything else. To me, it's like we're all kind of renting whatever we own anyway. The house I own was owned by somebody who died, and was owned before that by somebody else who died. And, evidently, it was permanent for both of them! [Laughs]

FW: How do you feel about privacy?

BEATTY: I think any actor who says privacy is terribly important to him has got to be a little crazy. I've always found that if you truly want to be private, you can do it. Nobody's that interested. But if you're torn about it—if you want privacy but don't really want to lose all that notoriety—it produces schizophrenia. I think you see that very often among actors.

FW: Isn't that true of many public figures as well?

BEATTY: Well, yes, a politician seems to have to lead a certain life-style that is acceptable to the voter, no matter what his own life-style really is. People are so battered by the dishonesties of politicians that I seem to be really thrilled / candor from anyone in politics. When Wilbur Mills finally said, "Look, I'm an alcoholic. I have been behaving like a fool because I'm an alcoholic, but I'm going to change," how can you not be in his corner? But it would be very difficult for me to change my life-style just so I could get elected to office.

FW: What about marriage? Does the idea of commitment bother you?

BEATTY: No. I'm not antagonistic to the idea of marriage, and I don't really resist the idea of commitment. But I don't know that marriage and commitment necessarily go hand in hand. After all, most of my friends have been married many times and there didn't seem to be any commitment involved there! I have been committed to people, but to me, the public spectacle of marriage is embarrassing. But if someone wanted to marry me very badly, I would probably marry. I think there is a lot of excitement in the idea of monogamy.

FW: You think it's possible to be monogamous?

BEATTY: Yes, sure. I think it takes a lot of intelligence and a lot of discipline and a lot of intensity, but I also don't consider the absence of monogamy something to be afraid of.

FW: Would you like to have children?

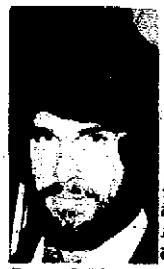

BEATTY: I love children. I think there will always be enough children around so that I don't have to have them myself, but there is a feeling children give you that you can't get anywhere else! That's a very selfish point of view; I would dread the possessiveness that I know I would feel because my children's lives were not mine. I feel very much at ease with, and very attracted to, other people's children! I have often thought I'm better with other people's children than I would be with my own.

FW: What qualities do you value in a woman?

BEATTY: The same qualities I like in men! The quality of honesty is the most important quality to me, in men or women. And a sense of art, which is part of honesty. I admire a sense of right and wrong.

On being a sex symbol: "It's ridiculous, but it's sort of flattering."

Globe Photos

On running for office: "I'd be silly to rule it out for the future."

"If someone wanted to marry me very badly, I would probably marry. I think there is a lot of excitement in the idea of monogamy."

Height wasn't always an asset

QUOTE: "There are certain disadvantages to being tall, of course, particularly when you're young and your body is growing faster than your ability to cope with the situations that growth creates. I used to get frustrated when I was about seven years old and I'd go to the movies with my friends and they'd get in for children's prices and I had to pay adult prices—which you weren't supposed to pay until you were 11. The woman in the ticket booth knew my family and all, but she figured I had to be older because I was bigger. I also remember one time when I was in the sixth or seventh grade and about five of us kids climbed up on the roof of a trolley-car barn and someone called the cops. . . . The police just took it for granted that because I was the biggest, I must be the ringleader. Actually, I was the youngest one there, and I'd just gone along with what the other guys wanted to do." From "Wilt: Just Like Any Other 7-Foot Millionaire Who Lives Next Door," by Wilt Chamberlain and David Shaw (Warner Paperback Library, $1.95). UNQUOTE.

THE MILKMAN FLYETH
No more horse and wagon

It would never do in large cities, but in the country where there are wide-open spaces, this new type of milk wagon may be just the thing. It all began in England when a group of hovercraft enthusiasts decided to combine their hobby with their profession. The result was a flying milkman. Actually, the fiber-glass hovercraft can be built by anyone who has the time, money and know-how. The machine travels at 45 miles an hour, sitting on a 5/16-inch cushion of air. But until hovercraft are licensed for road travel, cars and trucks will probably continue to rule the highways. Anyway, there are few places left in America where people still receive milk from the milkman and not from the supermarket.

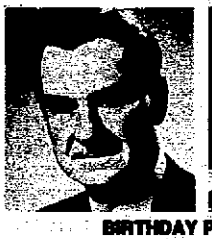

Popular culture doesn't reflect the mood of the people any more says Donna Fargo, country-western superstar and Grammy Award winner. "With inflation and unemployment rising, who needs to see a movie with an unhappy ending or listen to a depressing song? We are not psychologically prepared to hear any more gloomy predictions. I think that's why my recording of 'The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A.' was such a best seller." Donna just might have a point—discussions are now taking place about using that platinum recording or her recent hit "U.S. of A." as the Miss U.S.A. pageant's theme song.

The woman in the ticket booth knew my family and all, but she figured I had to be older because I was bigger. I also remember one time when I was in the sixth or seventh grade and about five of us kids climbed up on the roof of a trolley-car barn and someone called the cops. . . . The police just took it for granted that because I was the biggest, I must be the ringleader. Actually, I was the youngest one there, and I'd just gone along with what the other guys wanted to do." From "Wilt: Just Like Any Other 7-Foot Millionaire Who Lives Next Door," by Wilt Chamberlain and David Shaw (Warner Paperback Library, $1.95). UNQUOTE.

THE MILKMAN FLYETH
No more horse and wagon

It would never do in large cities, but in the country where there are wide-open spaces, this new type of milk wagon may be just the thing. It all began in England when a group of hovercraft enthusiasts decided to combine their hobby with their profession. The result was a flying milkman. Actually, the fiber-glass hovercraft can be built by anyone who has the time, money and know-how. The machine travels at 45 miles an hour, sitting on a 5/16-inch cushion of air. But until hovercraft are licensed for road travel, cars and trucks will probably continue to rule the highways. Anyway, there are few places left in America where people still receive milk from the milkman and not from the supermarket.

Popular culture doesn't reflect the mood of the people any more says Donna Fargo, country-western superstar and Grammy Award winner. "With inflation and unemployment rising, who needs to see a movie with an unhappy ending or listen to a depressing song? We are not psychologically prepared to hear any more gloomy predictions. I think that's why my recording of 'The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A.' was such a best seller." Donna just might have a point—discussions are now taking place about using that platinum recording or her recent hit "U.S. of A." as the Miss U.S.A. pageant's theme song.

A Special Announcement For Collectors and Investors From The Hamilton Mint

NORMAN ROCKWELL'S 12 BEST-LOVED POST COVERS

A NEW LIMITED EDITION OF PROOF FINISH SOLID SILVER INGOTS ONLY 10,000 SETS—WHEN THESE ARE GONE, THERE'LL BE NO MORE!

A Strictly Limited First Edition Proof Set of 12 Ingots in .999 Fine Silver only $13.75 per Ingot.

For over 40 years, Norman Rockwell chronicled America and Americans in a series of memorable covers for The Saturday Evening Post. Since 1916, Rockwell's cover art has lovingly and authentically depicted a colorful pageant of life in America from an age of innocence until the present.

As a permanent tribute to this unique individual and to America, The Hamilton Mint, by exclusive permission from The Saturday Evening Post is extremely proud to present a significant new medallic series—The Norman Rockwell Best-Loved "Post" Cover Collection.

EXQUISITELY CRAFTED WORKS OF FINE ART

With this announcement, you now have the opportunity to obtain this superb collection of 12 solid silver ingots, each one illustrating one of Rockwell's best-loved "Post" covers. Each will be a striking example of the minter's art and faithfully capture the flavor of the Rockwell original. Each gleaming ingot will contain one ounce (480 grains) of .999 fine silver, the finest and purest available.

The ingots will be issued on a convenient one-a-month basis over a 12 month period. At that time, subscribers will have amassed a total of 5,760 grains of silver, more than the average person accumulates in a lifetime.

A STRICTLY LIMITED FIRST EDITION

This "Post" Cover Collection will be a first edition and quite rare. Only one proof set will be issued to each subscriber, and to further enhance the exclusivity of the offering, this edition is limited to just 10,000 sets. After those subscriptions have been filled, the minting dies will be destroyed to safeguard the integrity of the edition.

YOUR PERSONAL SERIAL NUMBER

Each ingot will bear your own personal serial number. Serial numbers will be assigned in the order applications are received, the lower and potentially most desirable numbers going to the earliest subscribers. Each ingot will also bear The Hamilton Mint Hallmark.

You will also be issued a Certificate of Authenticity, attesting to the limited edition status and precious metal content of your ingots.

INVESTMENT POTENTIAL

This collection is certain to be treasured by knowledgeable collectors for its rarity, great beauty and inherent value.

The opportunity to acquire this series in precious metal also comes at a time when prominent advisors are predicting a continued rise in the price of precious metals in the years ahead.

SIGNIFICANT ORIGINAL PRICE GUARANTEE

Under the terms of this offer, The Hamilton Mint is officially committed to deliver to you at the original issue price of $13.75 each, the complete set of 12 ingots over a 12 month period, regardless of how high the price of silver and gold climbs. The Hamilton Mint does reserve the right to limit the edition below the published maximum limits, but once your application is validated and accepted, your subscription is guaranteed.

Please remember that there is a strict limit of 10,000 proof sets, so prompt action is essential if you wish to be included.

SPECIAL DISPLAY CASE FREE

Deluxe Edition: 24 Kt Gold on Pure Silver

You may also order these ingots in exquisite 24 Kt Gold layered on .999 fine silver. The 5,000 sets thus offered will also be individually hallmarked and serially numbered. Each ingot will cost $18.75.
